Boston.

street, Wednesday, Nov. 11, at 10 a. m.

—Mr. Ensign was defeated as a candidate for representative from Watertown. It is said that he received the expected support from the Republicans, but that he lost many Catholic votes.

—For quick selling of tickets the chorists of Grace church seem to go ahead of anything heard of. Nearly every ticket for their concert is gone already and the date is a month ahead.

—Our streets must resemble those of Japan, after the recent earthquake in that country, for we have eruptions and fissures, and all the appearance of things having been turned inside out.

—The Choral service at Elliot church last Sunday evening drew out a large congregation, and the program included solos by Mrs. Hibbard, Mrs. Gross, Mr. Dunham
and Mr. E. W. Converse, Jr.

—Patrick Reilly, employed as teamster for Patrick Quinn, had a steel drill driven into his ankle while unloading cars near the Church street crossing. His wounds were dressed by Dr. Frisbie.

—Tibbets & Gummerson, hair cutters,
wish to inform the people of Newton
that, owing to a large increase in business
they have added another first-class artist,
and are now ready to serve customers
without waiting.

—Music in Grace church on Sunday night:
Processional Hymn, H. W. Parker
"O Tunes a joyful sound," Barnby
The famous Anthem of Peace, Calkins
"Give peace in our time," Calkins Retrospection Hymn, "Saviour to Thy Dear Name."

—The dust has been a terrible nuisance
this week, and at no time during the year
have the sprinklers been more needed.
The air has been filled with a fine white powder, which all have been compelled to breathe, and the dust has permeated everything. In such weather the main streets at least ought to be kept sprinkled.

—The Hillside Club held its first meeting of the season, Saturday evening, at the residence of the president, Mr. Fillebrown.
The officers of last year were re-elected,
and it was voted to hold meetings every other Monday evening during the winter.
There was no formal program but Mrs. E.
H. Cutler gave several songs, and Mrs.
Weatherbee some instrumental music.

—Previous to introducing the lecturer at the opening of the Reed Fund Lectures last evening, Mr. S. A. D. Sheppard called the attention of the juvenile element in the audience to the necessity of quietness during the evening, and that there were policemen on hand to see that order was maintained. A year ago there was considerable complaint because of the disturbance made.

—Hon. Gorham D. Gilman is the recipient of another decoration from Hawaiian royalty. Queen Liliuokalani has sent him the Order of the Crown of Hawaii of the grade of knight-commander. The late king presented Mr. Gilman with the decoration of Kalakaua and of Kamehameha.
These tokens are friendly indications of regard for continuous service for Hawaii.

—Among the choice gifts presented from time to time to the Newton Free Library is an elegant copy of the Macklin Bible, printed in London in 1809, and just donated to the library by Lewis
H. Farlow, Esq. It is in nine large folio volumes, nearly two feet square, and in type almost a half inch in size, the whole interspersed with finely executed engravings representing Bible scenes and history, and in itself a work of rare interest.

—Mr. Edward L. Douglass, who has been connected with the Signal Service station in Boston, for nearly two years past, has been ordered to Ft. Telford, North Carolina, in charge of the station at that place. He is one of the youngest men in the service to be placed in charge of a station. His record in Boston has been so satisfactory to the authorities at Washington that he has thus early been promoted to this responsible position.

—Nonantum square has resembled scenes from Italian opera all the week, with its crowd of dissatisfied workmen, all sorts of attire, but it is certainly difficult to blend them. They work hard for their money and they cannot understand the difference between the contractor and the city. To their minds the foreigners all seem leagued together against them. The interpreters have had a hard time convincing them that the city could not pay them at once for all that is due them.

—The new Roman Catholic buildings for Newton will be two in number, both situated on Adams street, back of the church.
The first will be a convent, measuring 40
by 60 feet on the ground and three stories in height. On the ground will be the living rooms and the chambers are to be above.
The other is to be a schoolhouse, containing 10 schoolrooms. In addition there will be a recreation hall in the basement and a large hall above. Both structures will be of stone and brick, and work will be begun
in the spring.

—The trustees of the Newton Savings Bank have elected Mr. A. J. Blanchard of Newton Centre to succeed Miss Duncklee
as president of the Newton Savings Bank, and he will enter upon his duties with the new year. Mr. Blanchard has been for the past sixteen years in Hon. J. F. C. Hyde's office, where he has had an opportunity to become thoroughly acquainted with the real estate business and with Newton people and the trustees are confident that he will keep up the reputation of the bank to the high level it has held under Miss Duncklee.

—The annual business meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was held in the rooms Wedne-day evening Nov.
4, and was well attended. The treasurer presented his report for the year showing a cash balance of $295 and all bills paid.
Encouraging progress has been made in the way of definite work for young men and plans for future development are well under way. The following list of officers and directors was unanimously elected:
Clerk, Atherton Clark; treasurer, Bancroft
L. Goodwin; directors, Herbert F. Bent,
Edwin C. Campbell, M. Con E. Cobb, Seymour
Eaton, Charles E. Eddy, Charles D. Kepner, Stephen Moore, John R. W. Shap-leigh, Edwin C. Smith, Joseph H. Wheelock. The first meeting of directors for election of president and vice-president is to be held next Wednesday evening. Arrangements for the public anniversary meeting to be held Sunday, Nov. 15, in Elliot Hall are completed. Rev. E. B. Webb, D. D., and Mr. Henry Bond, president of the Waltham Association, are to make the addresses and the Temple Quartet of Boston is singing. The Sunday four o'clock Men's meetings in Y. M. C. A. hall are to have the following named speakers for the rest of the month: Nov. 8, Rev. William Griffith, D. D., of Boston; Nov. 22,
Hon. John Woolley, the temperance orator, who is now conducting a series of meetings in Tremont Temple, Boston; Nov. 29, Rev. A. J. McElwain of Boston.

—A Conference of Visitors and a meeting of their friends were held at the rooms in Newtonville, Thursday afternoon, Nov. 5.
Some encouraging reports were received of families who have been helped under their feet and are now doing well.
The visitors are now endeavoring to watch over them, and help them to keep themselves from falling into such sore straits again. There are other families in distress through sickness or other misfortune, who are being aided through the efforts of the Association. The annual report will be published within a few weeks.

—Mrs. Martin will be at the rooms every week morning from 9 to 10, and Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5.

—Classes in Gymnastics.
Miss Thompson will be glad to meet all who are interested in the formation of classes in gymnastics, Tuesday afternoon,
at four o'clock at the New Church parlors, Highland avenue, Newtonville.
Some illustration of the work will be given if desired. All are cordially invited to be present.

—The Hospital Sunday committee have sent out a circular asking for suggestions
as to increasing the financial aid to this worthy institution.

—The Executive committee of the Hygiene & Emergency Society met last week and talked over preliminary plans of work for the current year. One class for instruction has already been formed. The committee adjourned to meet at 8 p. m. next Tuesday night in Grace church parish house.

—That the ambulance given by Mrs. Eldridge is doing a good work is shown by the following record of its trips for two months. It was in service Sept. 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 12, 16, 18, 19, 21, 23, 27, 28, 29. October 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 15, 22, 27 and 29.

—The upper floor of the new building is dedicated temporarily as a Maternity Ward.
Sometime it is hoped some generous person will contribute $5000 to build such a ward.

—The present neatness and order of the hospital grounds show what could be done
if the institution had a little more money to spend in improvement.

Newton Veteran Firemen.

At Knights of Honor hall at West Newton last Wednesday evening, the Newton Veteran Firemen's association held its monthly meeting and enjoyed its second anniversary supper. There was a large number of veterans present, including ex-Chiefs W. P. Leavitt and R. M.
Lucas, ex-Chief A. D. Drew of Watertown, ex-Assistant Engineers Allen Jor-den, Chas. Cole, John Exley and Benjamin Hopkins; ex-Foremen C. D. Bartlett of Eagle 6, Geo. H. Haynes of Engine 2, C. A. Hills and W. E. Glover of Engine
1; Captains F. H. Humphrey of Engine 2 and Washburn of Hose 5, and a host of others prominent in the old and present fire service of this city.

The association, by a unanimous vote, decided to buy, at a cost of $400, a first-class Button engine with an excellent spurring record, the Waterville No. 3 of Waterville, Me. This engine is one of the handsomest built, and capable of conquering with any engine extant in long distance play.

The association voted to issue 250 shares of stock at $2.00 per share to pay for it, and a committee consisting of John Exley, H. H. Easterbrook, Chas. A.
Hills, R. M. Lucas, W. Parker Leavitt and W. H. Russell were authorized to issue the stock and secure the engine at once. Over one-half of the stock was subscribed for at this meeting, and over one-fourth the cost paid in, which has been sent to Waterville to bind the bargain.

The association is happy in the fact that they will soon have an engine equal to the best, and next year will be in the front ranks at the annual tournament.

The association now numbers some 116 members, and at its next meeting will adopt a new constitution. It now meets monthly, the first Wednesday in each month, instead of quarterly as heretofore.

A Patriarch Gone.

A death occurred on Vernon street last week, which while attracting little notice
from the general public, well deserves mention in these columns. He was only a dog, but he had lived a life of fourteen years of noble service, and died more sincerely mourned than many human beings have deserved. His name was "Trump." Everybody knew him, for he was a trump by name and by nature both. School children especially will miss his pleasant welcome from the piazza of Mr. Joel H. Hills' residence, as they pass to and from the schools; market-men and grocery-boys will long regret his absence. He was what is well expressed by the words "a good dog." He never quarreled with his canine friends, and even had a tender regard for the feelings of the local cat tribe. To his mistress he was devoted itself, and his friends were his as well. Towards her and his little mistress Florence, his dogish heart overflowed with love and pride, and his happiest hours were passed with them, hours that collectively made up a "dog's age," which made him truly a patriarch among his fellows. His death was hastened by his having been run over by a bicycle some weeks ago, the cruel sport of a cowardly rascal, who fled to avoid recognition. The act was deliberate, for the dog was partially deaf from age, and could not hear the bicycles approach, and the more deserving brute of the two was the one run over.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Miss Nellie Brown is visiting friends in Groun, Mass.

—Mr. Dixon and family of Needham have moved into a High street house.

—The Baptist pulpit will be supplied from Boston next Sunday, by exchange.

—Mr. John Kennebec, who has been stopping in the Southern states, has returned home.

—The Petrie Machine Works have been taking stock this week and during that time the shop has been closed.

—Mr. Charles Miner shot a deer during his recent trip to the Adirondack mountains and is now the envy of his friends.

—Mr. Rogers Linton of the shooting gallery has taken the agency for the sale of clocks for a Boston firm, and all wish him success in this new line of business.

—Hose 7 was called out Monday on a fire alarm from box 8 to a Brookline fire.
The weary journey toward the fire, and Brookline's discovery that they were out of it, and wended their way homeward.

—The water fountains are still causing comment and discontent and the water board has decided to take action. In possible nuisance. In postoffice square the cesspool into which the water flows is choked up and the water overflows into the street through the trap.

—There is strong talk of re-nominating ex-Alderman George Petrie for mayor this year, and there is no doubt he would prove a strong candidate this side of the city and would gain a good following in other parts of Newton. He has been approached but is not anxious to enter the field, preferring to reside quietly at his pleasant home off Oak street.

—The thriving village of Upper Falls must be represented in the city council next year, the popular feeling, and some additional work will be put in toward this end. Since the retirement of ex-Alderman Petrie
one year ago the interests of this village have not been looked after as before, and the people feel the importance of securing a seat in the council for some worthy citizen of the place. Ex-Councilman E. M.
Billings would prove a strong and popular candidate if nominated for the council, and Dr. Thompson, who was up for alderman from this ward last year would make a credible showing.

—A concert will be given by Miss Ellen E. Bird, in Lincoln Hall, Newton Highlands, Tuesday evening, Nov. 12th.
This concert promises to be a particularly attractive one. Miss Bird, who has been studying the piano for some time past with Prof. Carl Baermann, will be ably assisted by the following talent: Mr. Eben Perkins of Bridgewater, tenor and violinist; Mr.
Walton Lee Crocker of Cambridge, tenor;
Mr. C. Harrison Prescott, who is a graduate of the institution for the blind, cornet-ist; Miss Edna A. Joslyn, soprano and Miss Fannie E. Jackson, contralto, both graduates from the same institution, and Miss Agnes E. Snyder accompanist. The program will contain some interesting vocal duets, and songs with violin obligato. Mr.
Prescott is one of the best cornet soloists in Boston. He has an excellent execution and a pure and sympathetic tone, and his style is free from those offensive mannerisms, which are so often heard in the playing of many well-known cornetists. The concert as a whole will be of a high order,
and will undoubtedly give much pleasure
to those who attend.

—Van Houten's Cocoa—"Best and Goes Farthest."

STRIKE ON THE SEWERS.

THE CITY OBLIGED TO ASSUME THE WORK OF CONSTRUCTION.

The laborers on the sewers struck again on Saturday, and not a man was at work until Thursday morning, when the city put a few men on the trenches.

There are about 150 bricklayers and foremen and 400 Italians interested, and the strike is due to a failure on the part of Contractor Killian to pay them their wages now due. Attachments have been placed upon the sewer tools and machinery, and each tool chest and engine is in charge of a keeper.

Many of the men have got out trustee writs for their wages, and there were over 200 filled at City Hall at noon Saturday.

The Italians are paid on the 11th day
of each month and should have received their wages three weeks ago. The foremen were paid fortnightly and expected their money last Monday as usual, but failed to receive it. This is the third strike that has occurred for the same cause since the Newton Sewerage work was commenced.

The attachments against Killian are said to amount to much more than what the city owes him, and he has failed to keep his promises. The sewer committee have had a very difficult task this past season, and have had no end of trouble over delays of various kinds,
which have provoked no end of complaints from citizens. The streets are many of them, in such condition that it will take the hardest kind of work to get them into shape by the time cold weather sets in.

There has been much criticism because the work was given to Killian, but he was endorsed by the engineers of Boston and Cambridge, by Henry M.
Whitney of the West End Road, and by others, and his bid was the lowest. The city government could not well have done otherwise than to give him the contract, especially as he furnished satisfactory bondsman.

The sewer committee voted Wednesday night to complete the work, and notice was sent to Killian to that effect.
All the men available were put on Thursday morning, although this was not a large number, as the Italians refused to work until what Killian owed them was paid, and it was hard to convince them that the city was not in some way responsible.

Thursday morning all the policemen came down to the Square as trouble was apprehended, and the men were threatened against Viola, but after some rather exciting talk the police started the crowd off to their boarding places.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

WAS A SESSION LASTING TILL THREE IN THE MORNING.

The Board of Aldermen met at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, with all the members present and Mayor Hubbard in the chair. Considerable business was done in the intervals of waiting for the returns, and the session with numerous recesses lasted until nearly 3 a.m. Returns from Ward 5 were the first to arrive, about 10 o'clock, followed soon by Precinct 2, Ward 2, then by Ward 6, and Precinct 1, Ward 7 arrived about 1:30, Ward 1, at 2:15 and Ward 3 as usual was the last, coming in about 2:45. Ward 6 had the largest number of votes to count of any of the undivided precincts, and yet was the first of these to arrive. It is certainly unfair to compel the Mayor and aldermen to remain to such a late hour, and it might be wise to divide Ward three into four or five precincts, and also make a division in Ward One.

The business transacted was as follows:

At eight o'clock there were hearings on taking land for sewers west of Jewett street; locating Ridge avenue; and taking land of Albert Brackett near Jefferson street; no one appeared and the hearings were closed. From the Common Council were received petition from J. E. Hollis and others for sidewalks and A. J. Carswell and others for sewers in Ward Six. The Mayor read a communication from the board of health, recommending that the city assume the care of and cleaning of the water courses of the city; and that Laundry brook be cleaned as soon as possible. An offer from John Sturgis Potter was also received, stating that if the pond was abandoned, and Laundry brook cleaned and fixed up in a suitable manner, he would make no claim for damages, or land taken for the same, provided the city should furnish a plan for the drainage for his approval, and allow bridges to be constructed where he should wish to cross. The matter was referred to the board of health.

Sarah E. McDonald sent in a claim for damages for injuries received by striking on the evening of Oct. 10, at 6:45 o'clock, against a guy rope stretched from the new Newton Club building, to a tree in the middle of the sidewalk, at 4 feet 10 inches from the ground, by which she was thrown down and seriously hurt. Referred to the claim committee.

H. G. Crocker asked for a concrete walk in front of 9 Fayette street. Four lapses were asked for on Circuit streets, between Boylston and Elliott streets, Upper Falls.

A petition for construction of walk and gutter and the widening of Grove street between Cornell street and Mr. Hagar's place was received and referred.

C. E. Eddy gave notice of intention to build house 35x55 on Franklin street. E. T. Wiswall, house 24x48 on Wiswall street.

Harriet E. Holmes and others asked to have Columbus street repaired, and the surface water that now stands on the street taken care of.

Alderman Luke read a petition from the executive board of the Cottage Hospital, asking that the city appropriate $2,500 additional for the construction of the Morgue at the Cottage Hospital, in addition to the $10,000 already appropriated. The board had been enlarged after the appropriation was made, making the building cost $12,500. Referred to the committee on finance.

W. H. McIntire was granted license as driver of an express wagon. S. B. Whittemore was granted license to build addition to barn on Brighton Hill.

The water board was authorized to lay water pipe as follows: 420 feet of 6 in. on Pine street, $255; 140 feet of 4 in. on Edinboro street, $120, and 440 feet of 8 in. on Griffin avenue $577; total $1,122.

Street lights were ordered as follows: Two on Griffin avenue, one on Normal road, two on Hyde street, one on Jewett and one on Rockland street; one on Pearl street; one on place off Cheney street; two on Trowbridge avenue, and one on Highland avenue.

The New England Telephone Company were granted license to erect poles on Ash street.

Geo. S. Woodman asked for one street lamp on Highland avenue.

Twenty-five dollars was appropriated to be paid to Mrs. Catherine W. Edes, for damages for widening of Summer street, Upper Falls. $125 was appropriated to be paid to John Joyce, for land taken on Green street, the city having sold more land than belonged to it, and Mr. Joyce having brought suit to recover.

The balance of appropriation for Emerson street, $900, was transferred as follows: $300 for Elliot street and balance on Pearl street.

The board adjourned to Wednesday evening, Nov. 11th.

To Protect the Public

from fraud and imposition, the genuine medicines of Dr. R. V. Pierce are now sold only through druggists, authorized as agents. They are the cheapest medicines to use, as well as the best, because in every case you pay only for the good you get. The money is refunded if they ever fail to benefit or cure.

Being sold on this peculiar plan of "value received or no pay," the prices of the genuine guaranteed medicines always will be, as follows:

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (the remedy for all diseases arising from a torpid liver or impure blood),

..... $1.00 per bottle.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription (the remedy for female weaknesses and derangements),

..... $1.00 per bottle.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets (the original and best Liver Pills, 25 cts. per vial).

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy,

..... 50 cts. per bottle.

Suspicion naturally and rightfully attaches to any medicines purporting to be Dr. Pierce's, when offered at other prices than those above given.

Of Good Repute. "Your husband," said the caller, sympathizing, "was a man of many excellent qualities."

"Yes," sighed the widow. "He was a good man. Everybody says so. I wasn't much acquainted with him myself. He belonged to six lodges."—Chicago Tribune.

At City Hall—Monday, Nov. 9, 2 o'clock to 5, and 7 to 9 p.m.; Thursday, Nov. 12, 2 o'clock to 5 p.m., and Tuesday, Nov. 17, 2 o'clock to 5 p.m. Newton Centre—Associates' Hall, Pleasant street, Wednesday, Nov. 18, 3 o'clock to 5, and 7 o'clock to 8:30 p.m.

At City Hall—Friday, Nov. 20, 2 o'clock to 5 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 21, 9 o'clock to 12 a.m., and 7 o'clock to 10 p.m.

No names can be registered after 10 o'clock, P. M., November 21.

All persons whose names are not on the Voting List must appear personally before the Registrars of Voters on either of the days above mentioned, presenting a receipted tax bill of 1890 or 1891.

All naturalized citizens must present their final papers when they register.

If the father of an applicant was naturalized before he (the son) became 21 years of age, the son is naturalized thereby, and must present the father's naturalization papers.

The names of all persons not assessed in 1891 are taken from the voting list, but such persons can be registered by applying in person to the Registrars at any session held for registering voters, and presenting a receipted tax bill for 1890, provided they are otherwise qualified.

Every male citizen of 21 years of age and upwards, who has resided in the State one year, and in the city of Newton six months prior to December 1st, 1891, and who has paid a State or County tax assessed upon him either in 1890 or 1891, and who shall be able to read and write, shall have the right to vote at the City election to be held December first eighteen hundred and ninety-one, but must be duly registered to exercise such right as vote.

EXTRACT FROM STATUTES CONCERNING VOTING BY WOMEN.

"Every woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, of twenty-one years of age and upwards (except paupers, persons under guardianship, and persons excommunicated by article twenty of the amendments to the constitution), who has resided within the state one year, and within the city or town in which she claims a right to vote, six months next preceding any election of school committees, and who has paid by herself, her parent, guardian or trustee, a state, county, city or town tax assessed on her or her trustee in this state within two years next preceding such election, shall have a right to vote in all such elections, for members of school committees."

Any woman who is a citizen of this Commonwealth, may, on or before the first day of October in any year, give notice in writing accompanied by satisfactory evidence, to the assessors of a city or town, that she was on the first day of May of that year an inhabitant thereof, and that she desires to pay a poll tax, and to furnish under oath a true list of her estate, both real and personal, not exempt from taxation, and she shall thereupon be assessed for her poll, not exceeding fifty cents, and for her estate, and the assessors shall, on or before the fifth day of October, return her name to the registrars of voters, or board charged with the preparation of the list of voters of the city or town in the list of the persons so assessed. The taxes so assessed shall be entered in the tax list of the collector of the city or town, and he shall collect and pay over the same in the manner specified in his warrant.

The names of women may be placed upon a separate list; and when the name of any woman has been placed upon the list of voters of a city or town, it shall remain on the list as long as she continues to reside in such city or town, and has paid any state, county, city or town tax that has been assessed on her or her trustee in this state within two years next preceding any election; provided that the facts relating to residence shall be furnished to the registrars each year prior to the close of registration."

It is therefore necessary for each woman who desires to retain her name on the list, to inform the Registrars of Voters before the close of registration of her continued residence in this city, and if the taxes upon which her registration is based are paid in any other place in the State than Newton, her receipted tax bill must be shown to the Registrars.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY.

FINE EXHIBITION OF PHOTOGRAPHS OF AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS.

A new feature was introduced by this society at the regular meeting last Monday evening. An invitation was given for members of the society and friends, interested in photographic work, to bring their pictures and exhibit them at the November meeting. The result was a very agreeable surprise to all. Nearly 300 pictures were presented for the exhibition. Many were of decided merit showing excellent taste in the selection of subjects, as well as skillful execution.

There pictures from the small kodack up to the largest size, were hung on the walls around Eliot Lower Hall, where they could easily and favorably be seen, and were thoroughly enjoyed by the unusually large audience present. In fact many of the audience remained in the hall an hour after the meeting adjourned to more thoroughly examine them.

The following is the partial list of the contributors to the exhibition: Harry P. Spalding, Dr. E. B. Hitchcock, Ernest E. Fewkes, Charles H. Fewkes, Charles E. Lord, Dr. J. F. Frisbie, Fred. A. Wilson, W. R. Davis, J. W. Barber.

Mr. F. E. Stanley, the first speaker of the evening, gave a clear and succinct history of picture taking from its earliest inception to the present time. He traced the various processes that have been followed during the last fifty years—in reality the true age of picture taking. He said the art of picture taking and picture development began fifty years ago. Priestly, Nappa, Draper, Daguerre and others had been the true fathers of the art, and the high standard of today results from work alone the lines of investigations they discovered and followed. Mr. Stanley is the manufacturer of the celebrated dry plates now so generally used in place of the old wet process. Being thoroughly conversant with the whole routine of photography he was enabled to give a vast amount of valuable information.

He was followed by Mr. Odin Fritz, our local photographer, who addressed his remarks particularly at the amateur photographers whose works were displayed around on the walls of the room. He explained the different conditions, light, shadows, etc., necessary to make successful pictures, the neglect of which gave disappointment to the novice as well as to a more competent photographer.

It is rare that two men so skilled and competent, brought together for an evening to interest and instruct the members of the Natural History Society and its friends. The thanks of the society were presented to both gentlemen.

A discussion followed which was participated in by Dr. J. F. Frisbie, W. C. Bates, W. R. Davis, Prof. S. E. Warren, Fred. A. Wilson and others. Several new members were elected.

The society wish it distinctly understood that the meetings are open free to all and that any one interested in it and its work is invited to become a member.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

GLOBE THEATRE—Richard Mansfield's annual engagement of a fortnight at the Globe Theatre, commencing next Monday evening, will introduce this admirable and favorite actor in two of his latest creations not heretofore seen in Boston. His first week will be devoted to "Nero," the new tragedy by T. Russell Sullivan of Boston, which won the sincere praise of the leading New York critics a month ago. Boston has awaited "Nero" with uncommon interest. The production will be an impressive one. The stage pictures graphically portray the splendor and luxury of imperial Rome in its period of greatest extravagance. The cast will include Miss Beatrice Cameron, Miss Emma Sheridan, Messrs. D. H. Harkins, W. J. Ferguson, Frank Lander, William Harworth, W. H. Compton and the other admirable players so long associated with Mr. Mansfield. During the second and last week Mr. Mansfield will play "Beau Brummell" on Monday, "A Parisian Romance" Tuesday, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" Wednesday, and his own charming comedy, "Don Juan" (for the first time in Boston) for the rest of the week.

TREMONT THEATRE—Manager John H. Russell will bring his grand new company of Comedians to the Tremont next Monday evening, following the engagement of "The Merchant," and as ever they will be welcome, some of them most heartily so as old comers; others as very old friends in new surroundings. The lovely American dancer, Amelia Glover, has added to her previously unequalled list of dances, her skill could not be greater, nor her grace and finish, they were incomparable before. Several others will be recognized as old friends whose ability no new-comer could equal. Among the new-comers who stand first in the profession are Luke Schoolcraft and Willis P. Sweatnam, both of whom have fine roles, entirely new, in the "Up to date" version of this work. The new version has received unqualified praise everywhere, and the comments are concise and to the point, comprised usually in the words, "Funniest yet."

BOSTON THEATRE—"The Old Homestead" is still at the Boston Theatre, and still doing a remarkably big business. Excursion trains bring in large crowds to see the play, and all New England seems determined to see this realistic melodrama. Notwithstanding the big business the run of the piece is limited, and those who have not yet availed themselves of the opportunities of the present engagement, should secure seats as early as possible. The military drama "Shiloh" will soon be produced at the Boston.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—Miss Cora Tanner, a great favorite with Boston theatregoers, will present her new play, "Will She Divorce Him?" at the Grand Opera House next week. Miss Tanner has won her greatest honors in this play, and will undoubtedly be accorded a hearty welcome in Boston where she has hosts of friends. The play will be finely staged and Miss Tanner will be supported by a strong company of players.

THE CITY ELECTION.

Now that the state election is out of the way, city politics are expected to immediately begin to attract public attention. Owing to the Australian ballot law, all caucuses and convention nominations must be filed with the City Clerk by the afternoon of Thursday, Nov. 19th, and nomination papers on Friday the 20th.

Thus there are less than two weeks for the important business of calling and holding the caucuses and conventions and selecting candidates. It gives very little time for the work, and the number of vacancies to be filled.

For Mayor there is very little doubt that Mayor Hibbard will have the Republican nomination and he has given such an excellent administration that his nomination and election ought to be made unanimous. Nevertheless there is prospect of some opposition, although the extent of it is not yet evident. It will be sufficiently strong, however, to make a lively campaign, as our city campaigns always are. Mayor Hibbard has made some enemies, and no official doing his duty faithfully and conscientiously can hope to escape making enemies, but he has made a great number of warm friends and will have the votes of a large proportion of those who voted against him last year.

The board of aldermen will have two vacancies to be filled, as both Alderman Fenno and Luke persist in refusing to run again. Mr. Fenno has given four years to the city council and is the oldest member of that body in point of service, both branches having been entirely changed since he was first elected. He has been one of the most useful members of the board, and the past year has given the most careful and efficient administration of the highway department that the city has ever had. No money has been allowed to be wasted, no matter what the size of the appropriation, and had it not been for the sewer excavations the streets of the city would have been in better condition than ever before, and this can be said now of those streets outside of the sewer districts. Mr. Fenno will be a severe loss to the board and Ward Two will have to stir itself to find a man who can fill his place. The two councilmen from the ward also refuse to serve again, so that Ward Two will have an entire new delegation.

Ward Three will lose Alderman Luke, who finds his private business so engrossing that he is compelled to decline a second term, much to the regret of his constituents, who have never been represented by a better man.

Ward Four will probably return its whole delegation, and it could not easily do better. In Ward Five there will be one new councilman, but Alderman Hyde and Councilman Moulton are sure of a re-election.

In Ward Six there are rumors of a contest over the alderman, Councilman Richardson's friends insisting on nominating him for the board of aldermen, while Alderman Harbach's friends are equally persistent that he shall serve another year.

Wards One and Seven will probably return their aldermen, but there will be a lively time over candidates for the common council. Mr. Bothfield says he will not run again, but he may have to reconsider his decision on account of public pressure. Mr. Weed will have both nominations if he desires them. In Ward One there is likely to be lively opposition to both Councilmen Grace and McKinnell, although there is some talk of running the latter for the board of aldermen.

GOVERNOR RUSSELL AGAIN.

After one of the most hotly contested campaigns ever waged in Massachusetts, Governor Russell is again re-elected by a handsome plurality. The reserve vote, of which so much has been said the past year, came out, but it did not vote in the way expected.

There are all sorts of explanations given of the result, but evidently the mistake was made when the choice of the people, Mr. Crapo, was set aside, and a comparatively unknown man substituted. Col. Allen made a very plucky fight, but the odds were against him from the start, and he was evidently no match for the Democratic candidate in debate. Governor Russell is one of the ablest campaign speakers in the country, and his speeches have a ring of earnestness and sincerity which tell on his audience.

Many also think that the great prominence assumed in the campaign by Congressman Lodge was one great cause of the defeat. If successful he would naturally have claimed a good deal of the credit, and now there is a general disposition to award him a good share of the blame. Mr. Lodge is an unusually good speaker, but he aims rather to stir up the faithful than to make converts, and his bitterness, his sarcastic criticisms, only drive away doubtful voters. The result in Lawrence and Fall River showed the effect of his unwise action in the joint debate.

Massachusetts voters are an unusually intelligent class, they believe in fair play, and they also believe in giving credit for what is good in an opponent. They also do not like to be thought so stupid as not to see when an attempt is made to humbug them, as has been done in regard to the effect of a high tariff, and if the Republican leaders are wise they will abandon McKinleyism. The majority given for the rest of the ticket below the governor shows that the voters are not yet ready to abandon the Republican party, and they made their protest where it would tell, in the choice of a governor. If our representatives in Congress now stand up for the interests of Massachusetts, and cease giving servile obedience to the demands of Pennsylvania and Ohio; and in state affairs show more regard to the wish of the people and less for selfish schemes for their own advancement, Massachusetts will doubtless remain in the Republican column. It all depends upon the party leaders, and an adverse decision in two elections ought to teach them wisdom.

THE MAVERICK BANK.

The downfall of the Maverick bank has been the great sensation of the week, and it is the same old story of speculation and betrayal of trust in the inordinate desire to get rich quickly, which generally brings disaster. The whole sad story shows that old-fashioned methods are the best, and that the progress to fortune by economy and conservative methods is the surest in the end. Men who are trusted with the money of others have no right to use that money for speculative purposes, whatever they may do with their own money. As the Maverick bank was a national institution, such misuse of money promises to be speedily punished, but nevertheless there seems to be something wrong with our national bank system, when such things are possible. Many of the stockholders and depositors of the Maverick bank were ignorant of the character of the bank and so they will be the losers, as they always are. The men who are on the inside are informed in time to save themselves, while the little fishes are caught. This ought to teach the small investors and depositors to be very careful as to the placing of their money, and to select only conservative and reliable institutions and investments, even if the gain is less. Fortunately in Newton, two national banks are conducted on a very conservative system, and have no "great financiers" for managers, so that there is no danger of any misfortune coming to them.

The analysis of Newton's vote presents some interesting figures. The total was 3504, as compared with 3601 in the Harrison campaign, when Harrison had 486 plurality. Mr. Allen's plurality was 431, Gov. Ames had 739, in 1888; Brackett in 1889 had 372, and in 1890 he had 332. Lt. Governor Haile had 770, and in 1889 he had 773, and in 1890, 924; so that his vote has shown little variation in three years. In 1890, Governor Russell had a total of 1417, and this year he has 1478. Brackett in 1890 had a total of 1749, but Allen gets 1919. In 1890 the Prohibitionist's candidate received 118 votes, but this year falls to 87. It appears from the returns that we have three socialists in Newton, and 17 members of the People's party. Senator Gilman in 1890 had 1806, and this year he increases that to 2094. Mr. Chester in 1890 had 1580, and Mr. Howard 1482. This year Mr. Chester has 2052, and Mr. Howard 1615. Mr. Saltonstall, the Democratic candidate for representative had 1441 in 1890, and this year Mr. Smith has 1182. Mr. Stearns for Councilor has the largest vote of any candidate where there was a contest, 2067, and Mr. Gilman comes second with 2094. Last year Lt. Gov. Haile had the largest number of votes. The political complexion of Newton shows very little change in the past four years.

The last campaign seems to show that the days of the political organ are numbered. It used to be the case that a man who wishes to read what was being done by both political parties had to take an organ of each party, as that was the only means of getting posted. Each side seemed to be afraid of letting their readers see what was said by the other party, but this is passing away. In the recent campaign, only one or two Boston papers were conducted on the old plan, and they were simply not in the procession at all. The Herald gave such full accounts of all the political speeches, that its Republican and Democratic and Prohibition readers did not feel the need of consulting their own special organ and they appreciated the benefit of having a newspaper. In fact no man who reads only a paper conducted on the old-fashioned narrow organic lines can pretend to be intelligently posted on current events.

SPEAKER BARRETT has triumphed again, and shown his ability to carry Melrose against any opposition that outsiders may stir up in that town. The inside history of the Melrose fight would be more interesting reading than anything the Record has printed, but Mr. Barrett probably does not care to give away his enemies in his own party. They do say that if he had not aspired to the Senatorship, there would have been no fight.

The result in New York is quite as much of a disappointment as the one in Pennsylvania. In New York Tammany has carried off everything, and evidently New York people prefer Tammany to Plattism. In Pennsylvania Quayism has again triumphed, in spite of the scandalous revelations made of defalcations in state offices. The people of Pennsylvania are so accustomed to boss-rule that they do not feel happy without it.

The Boston & Albany is taking some steps toward an elevated road from Faneuil to Auburndale, and possibly the stone arches may become a reality within a few years, thus doing away with our dangerous grade crossings. The officials were in Newton, Wednesday, looking over the ground, and this has caused some encouragement.

Honest money appears to have carried the day in all but the Western States, and the election of McKinley in Ohio probably takes the silver issue out of politics. Now let Congress repeal the present silver law, before our currency gets on to a silver basis.

This has been a very trying week in the sewer department, and the sewer committee say they had rather sit up every night to count ballots than to go through another such experience.

The Republican caucuses have been called for next Tuesday evening, and the convention one week later. All interested in City affairs should take notice and attend the caucuses.

A TYPOGRAPHICAL error appears in Allen's vote on page two. His total is 1919, and his plurality 431, which gives a Republican gain over last year of 100.

THE Watertown Enterprise is soon to become an eight page paper, which is a gratifying sign of progress.

We are enabled this week to present to our readers excellent likenesses of Gov. Russell and Col. Chas. H. Allen, through the courtesy of Mr. Francis A. Lux of Newton Centre, the proprietor of the Lux Engraving Co. of Boston.

There was a very large attendance, not only of the friends from far and near, but of the townspeople, who knew and loved him, and who felt that a man, upright and honorable in all the ways of life, in church and business and home, had gone from them, and that their loss was heavy. The burial place was their family lot in the Newton Cemetery.

—The funeral service of Mr. Nelson H. Brown took place at his late residence on Monday at 1 o'clock, Rev. R. A. White officiating. The Universalist choir gave the selections "Come unto Me," "The Lord is My Shepherd" and "O Paradise." The floral tributes from the church, of which Mr. Brown was a trustee, the Equestrian Club, of which he was a member, and that from his employees, who attended in a body, were especially beautiful. HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW.

"Oh, Wilford, you won't regard me with aversion? You won't say things about mothers-in-law, will you?" Little Mrs. Pendexter coaxed. "Because she isn't in the least like the kind of mother-in-law they mean, you know."

"I hope not," said Mr. Pendexter. "I sincerely hope not, Camilla."

"You never called me by my whole name before," sighed Mrs. Pendexter. "You always said, 'My dear Cammy.'"

"Very well, my dear Cammy," said Wilford. "I shall certainly behave to your mother as I would to any other lady. If she is what she should be, all right. But I always have resolved to be master in my own house, and I always will be."

"My dear ma is a perfect lamb," sobbed Camilla. "I have her photograph upstairs. I'll get it to show you."

"I've seen it," said Mr. Pendexter, with the remembrance of a grim and ancient ma in spectacles, with a ruffled cap on her head and a prayer-book in her hand, floating before his eyes. "She looks like a very excellent person, but—"

"I did not know that you had ever seen ma's portrait," said Camilla. "But, Henny Penny?"

Henny Penny was a pet name for her spouse.

"But the proof of the pudding is in the eating, Cammy, dear," her spouse replied. Whereupon he put on his overcoat and betook himself to his usual affairs.

It was a singular thing never to have seen one's mother-in-law. Mr. Pendexter began to feel that it was rather risky. He had met Miss Spruce at the house of a mutual friend. She was teaching a school at the time. Her only living parent, her mother, lived in California. He had rather rejoiced at housekeeping and was coming to New York to live, with them no doubt, if she was invited to do so.

"If she is as serious as she looks, she'll expect me to teach Bible class," soliloquized Mr. Pendexter as he walked down the street. "She'll try to stop my cigars and my glass of beer of an evening. She'll consider my friends wicked young men, and throw the euchre deck into the fire. I know those goody-goody old ladies by heart."

Suddenly, as he turned the corner, a face met his eyes that brought memories of long-departed days, of a flirtation which might have resulted in an affair of the heart. Mr. Pendexter was not as young as his wife. He had had little experiences.

What a portly woman that was—could it be the same person?

He slightly tilted his hat; the lady smiled, he bowed.

"After all the world is a small place," said he to himself, and walked toward her.

"Well, I declare I never expected to see you again," said the lady with a laugh.

"And I thought you still in San Francisco," said Mr. Pendexter. "What nice talks we used to have, Mrs. Miller."

"Why, it's ten years ago, isn't it?" cried Mrs. Miller.

"Couldn't believe it. You look as young as ever," said Mr. Pendexter.

"Oh, when it comes to being told that one looks as young as ever all hope is over, said Mrs. Miller.

"Well, I intended a compliment," said Mr. Pendexter. "I'm getting bald, and he took off his hat."

"It only makes me look more like Shakespeare," said Mrs. Miller.

"She always says such nice things," said Mr. Pendexter to himself.

The idea that he looked like Shakespeare had occurred to him before, but no one else had ever told him that he did. He felt flattered. A little pang of regret pinched him. He had often felt that he had made a great mistake in resigning sight of Mrs. Miller, to whom he had never been regularly introduced. They had begun to speak in the street cars during a blockade which provoked them both. They judged that she was a widow. There was a charm about her that he had never seen in any other woman.

"And I think she told me she was alone in the world," he said to himself. "And I should not have been so sure of my mother-in-law. I don't believe in my mother-in-law. His thoughts were running away with him; he laughed.

"Are you living in New York, Mrs. Miller?"

"Oh, yes," she answered; "I'm going to some friends after a while. I don't believe in at-home just now. I don't believe in popping in on people to-morrow-fashion. If they want me let them urge me, say I."

"I wish my mother-in-law had that disposition," said Pendexter to himself. Aloud he said: "I must call on you."

The lady laughed.

"I haven't asked you," said she.

"But you'll let me in if I do come?" said he.

"It's my duty to call on a stranger."

All she said was: "Well, good-by."

During the day Pendexter was not quite himself. He had discovered that his Camilla could point out the least unappealing things that he had been told to a man with a mother-in-law. No doubt he should find her, grim and sarcastic, in the parlor on his return. He did not like that photograph. No, he did not like it. He thought he preferred being a little late that night. And as he went up town the bright entrance of the little hotel met his eye, and he stepped out on the platform and stepped off on the corner.

Mrs. Miller was in, so the waiter told him; and she tripped into the parlor in a dress of mauve silk that became her mightily. Her hair was black, her eyes were brown. She was no longer young, but she was by no means old. She was in very high spirits, and they flirted—yes, flirted—despite the fact that Pendexter was a married man—as they had ten years ago in California. They had supper together in the restaurant, and after supper an idea occurred to Pendexter.

"You want to see the new comic opera, Mrs. Miller?" said he. "Don't say no. Get your wraps and come along. We're a couple of old Californians, and must not get set up for ceremonies. You don't need a chaperon now, do you?"

"I should say not, decidedly," said Mrs. Miller. "And I'll accept your invitation."

She'll be home until very late. Obligated to meet a man on business. Provoking delay.

"A man about to be mother-in-lawed is entitled to a little fun beforehand. They feed condemned men well before they hang them," said Pendexter to himself.

It was a very charming opera, no other than "Ermine." And after the opera there was a promenade concert on the roof of the Casino, a glass of lemonade for Mrs. Miller, a bottle of beer for himself. And they walked arm in arm back through the moonlit streets of beautiful, wide New York. And he was very serious as he left her at the door of the hotel.

"It won't do to go there again," he said to himself. "But, Lord, what a fool I made of myself ten years ago!"

He went home sadly and slowly. His Camilla opened the door for him in her dressing gown, with a china candlestick in her hand, in which guttered an end of pink candle. She had been weeping and her nose was red. How girlish and immature she was, he thought.

"You are very, very late," she said.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but I was asked. He stalked upstairs. She did not follow. After some minutes he looked over the banister. Camilla sat upon the lower stair weeping, the wick of the candle flaring in a little pool of grease in the candlestick.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

"You never kissed me when you came in," sobbed Camilla. "It's the—the—the first time you ever forgot to do it."

"Come up and be kissed," said Pendexter. Camilla slowly climbed the stairs. Caresses were exchanged.

"Henny Penny did not mean not to kiss his Cammy," thus Camilla.

"Cammy doesn't know what business bothers are," said Mr. Pendexter. "Henny Penny is tired and worried with them; his Cammy must not be cross."

"No, no; but Cammy wants to share all Henny Penny's troubles," said Mrs. Pendexter. "Tell her all about it."

"Just then the street door-bell rang violently—not once, but sixteen times.

"Oh, dear, dear, I believe it's dear ma!" cried Camilla.

Pendexter glanced at the picture over the chimney-piece.

"Just like her," he muttered as he went down-stairs to open the door. A telegraph-boy was just about to ring again. Pendexter snatched the envelope he offered and signed as bidden, then rushed up-stairs to peruse the missive. His Cammy was rushing about the room wringing her hands.

"A telegram!" she cried. "Something has happened to ma!"

Mr. Pendexter assumed a serious aspect.

"Be calm, Cammy," he said. "If it is the will of Providence that something has happened to her, you mustn't rebel and all that, you know. Be calm."

"I can't until I know what it is!"

Mr. Pendexter opened the envelope and read the message he had sent to his wife from the hotel.

"Bother!" he said. "Oh, it's nothing. Cammy; only a message from you. I knew I should be detained. That wretched boy should have brought it at 7 o'clock."

"Oh, Henny Penny," cried Cammy, "how relieved I am!" Then she suddenly threw herself into his arms. "Cammy did know her Henny Penny had sent her word," she said.

"Oh, that's why you were frightened?" said Henny Penny.

"Yes," sighed Cammy, "oh, so frightened! And that man you had to see gave you all the bother?"

"Yes, certainly," said Pendexter.

"What was his naughty name?" asked Cammy.

"His name?" queried the guilty Pendexter. "Oh, his name was—er—Miller."

"Cammy hates him for bothering her Henny Penny," said Mrs. Pendexter. "Then she turned the gas out and slept the sleep of innocence."

Mr. Pendexter's conscience, however, kept him awake some little while. He tossed about uneasily and sighed several times. He was thinking of the charming Mrs. Miller. He slept late next day. When he awoke a sound as of tinkling teacups met his ears. The house was small and the dining-room was just below his sleeping-room. Camilla was taking breakfast. Some one was with her.

"Oh, my prophetic soul, my mother-in-law!" he gasped, getting softly out of bed, he approached the register and listened.

"Do have another biscuit, ma," he heard Camilla say.

"No, no, dear, responded another female voice. "That husband of yours sleeps this morning."

"He was out quite late last night," said Cammy, "and awfully bothered."

"What about?" asked the mother-in-law.

"Oh, business," said Cammy. "Nothing but business could keep him from his morning nap. I don't know how he wasn't like himself when he got home; oh, not a bit! And the telegram he sent came after that, and I was terrified."

"You are too nervous, my child," said the mother-in-law. "Oh, dear me, to think of you being married, and I've so much to tell you. Last night I had the greatest fun. You know I used to see a great many people when I had a share in that business in San Francisco, and there was one very nice little man—bald, but not so bald looking—that I flirted with madly. Well, yesterday, I think of it, I went up to the hotel—I walked because I was so tired of sitting—whom should I meet but that very man! Why, I hadn't seen him for ten years; and he was just delighted; he is really smitten, Cammy. You know I look fifteen years younger. I really am when I am dressed and touched up a bit. I am really called on me at the hotel and took me to the opera—it was fun."

"Oh, ma!" cried Cammy.

"Oh, I knew the man to be respectable," said the elderly lady. "But I forgot his name—couldn't think of it and can't yet. He dealt with the firm for a long while—I saw him twice a week, but what his name was—Well, no matter. After I got home I laughed and laughed. When I do get into a gale I can't stop. We went home slowly, like a couple of lovers, and he really said the tenderest things."

"Why, ma?" said Camilla again.

"If you should cut up such a dreadful caper I'd disown you," said her mother to Camilla. "But what's the use of being six-and-a-half if you can't enjoy yourself as you please? Besides, he'll never see me again, you know. Oh, I could have married twenty times, Camilla, but I never—I own it—I never came so near really liking any one since your poor stepfather, Mr. Miller, died as I did that man long ago in San Francisco. I suppose he is much younger than I, but I should have said 'yes' if he had asked me."

"And now, ma?" cooed Camilla.

"Stuff and nonsense, child," replied her mother. "Now I'm looking forward to being a grandmother."

"Oh, go away, ma!" said Mrs. Pendexter, and both ladies giggled.

As Mr. Pendexter he dressed himself in trembling haste and stole softly down stairs. A portiere gave him a chance to remain unseen while he took a peep. He had not doubted before—his ears had given him plenty of evidence—but now his eyes gave him further proof. The California charmer—the lady for whose sake he had deserted Camilla the evening before—was his mother-in-law.

For a few moments Mr. Pendexter had a mind to run away, but reflection assured him that Mrs. Miller had quite as much reason to feel embarrassed as he had; and, with this consoling reflection in his mind, he drew back the portiere and entered the breakfast-room.

"My dear mother-in-law," he said, "I am delighted to see you."

"It was so lovely of you, Henny Penny," said Camilla afterward—Mary Kyle Dallas, in New York Ledger.

PAY DAY AT EL PASO.

A MOTLEY CROWD—MEXICAN "JACQUES." HOMES BUILT OF OLD CANS, BUCKETS AND SCRAP IRON.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 10.

Pay day at the smelter is the one great day of the month. Mexican peddlers walk out the three miles from El Paso on the railroad track, a long line beginning in the morning, though the men are not paid till three p. m., and at night they all march back with empty hands, but full pockets. They bring on their heads, trays of cakes and candies, and in their hands, baskets of small fruits and nuts. Last month they brought fresh pomegranates and fresh figs. We have been disappointed in Mexican fruits. The products of the temperate zone grow here in abundance and we expected to add to these new fruits that would be as delicious as the old. But the semi-tropical fruits, some of which are raised in El Paso, and some brought many miles on the Mexican Central, are either all skin, or all stone, or all seeds—or if one as big as an apple has enough pulp in it for a mouthful, it is slimy and insipid. Figs and limes are the only exceptions I know of to this wide statement.

Beside the track walkers, peddlers with wags of vegetables and fruit come drawn by the most worn out nags that can be found across the Rio Grande. The smelter office is a two story adobe building with verandas all around both stories, and is on one of the mesas that compose most of this country. The beautiful Chinese umbrella trees and the quick growing cottonwoods and the willows around the office and the open reservoir form a pretty picture at all seasons, and on pay day the groups of Mexicans, on their way to the smelter, complete the scene. They surround the office and are in turn surrounded and almost lost to view by the peons waiting for their pay envelopes, and some of the wives and almost all the children.

Such ill-dressed specimens as they are. The men have on their heads, some a sombrero, and some a good—perhaps fine—sombrero. The women have more scanty clothes, and the children the least possible. A shirt or a short dress is often all the little ones have on. As soon as a little girl is three or four years old, she puts on a blue or red dress, and she throws it over her head and should be in the same folds that she will when she is 20 or 40. "COTTOLENE"

On account of the general and growing prejudice against the use of lard in cooking, and because of the discovery that cottonseed oil, a pure vegetable article, is far superior to lard and must supersede it. Messrs. N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., of Chicago, now offer to the public their own discovery

"COTTOLENE"

A VEGETABLE LARD as a substitute for the animal material.

Packing house lard as now manufactured is a highly objectionable food product. It is a question whether Hog Lard as ground out and melted up in our large modern packing houses located at the different stock yards in the United States, is either healthful or clean.

"COTTOLENE"

on the other hand is pure, refined, and clarified cottonseed oil with an admixture of choice selected beef suet. It contains no other ingredients, and is recommended and endorsed by the most eminent physicians and chemists as far more wholesome and digestible than lard.

FRED L. DAVIS,

Dr. A. M. DAM, Dear Sir:

For three years I was such a sufferer from Scrofula that my misfortune was a matter of common comment. No medicine I could get from physicians in the vicinity of my home helped me. Scrofula bunches and sores came on my body. My neck was so filled with them that my head was drawn to one side in a manner as to present a shocking spectacle. I have been cured. While friends congratulate me and physicians earnestly inquire what has done it, I take pleasure in stating that for the last year I have been receiving treatment from Boston's best known and most successful Specialist, A. M. DAM, M. D., and, sir, your skill was never put to a severer test than when you undertook to cure me, especially so, as the treatment had to be carried on by correspondence. Yours respectfully,

NOTE.

Persons using or wishing to use

Dr. Dam's Vegetable Remedy can consult him free at our offices. Those not able to visit us, but wishing to obtain Dr. Dam's opinion of their disease can write for a special examination blank, which will enable them to give a clear and concise history of their case. This will be carefully considered by the Doctor and his opinion returned free of charge. This will cost you nothing and may be of great value to you.

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morning, in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and his wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the great blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clue to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press.

"My wife is a singularly ingenious woman," remarked the married man. "Indeed," said the bachelor, with a languid effort at interest. "Indeed, I assure you. It was only yesterday that she found a new place to hide my slippers."—Taxes Siftings.

Cathart Can't Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Cathart is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Cathart cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Cathart Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. NEWTON'S GRADE CROSSINGS.A PLAN FOR THEIR ABOLITION UNDER CONSIDERATION.

Now that the state election is over, the Newton city fathers will direct their attention to the plans of the Boston & Albany railroad management for the abolishing of grade crossings. Discussion of the details of the scheme by the city council will come up in a few weeks.

To do away with the grade crossings in Newton, the Boston & Albany railroad proposes to erect solid masonry supporting walls for a four-track roadbed, to be elevated above the present grade. The masonry will begin at a point near the St. James street bridge in Newton, and will terminate at Auburn street in Abundale.

Between the walls the filling will be hard packed gravel. The roadways will be arched over and the tunnels now used by pedestrians will be abolished and in their stead archways will be constructed of sufficient width for teams and pedestrians where practical. There will also be smaller arches near the stations for pedestrians alone. The overhead bridges between Faneuil and Abundale stations will be dispensed with.

Starting from St. James street bridge, where the elevated road will rise about six feet above the present grade, there will be a gradual slope east to the grade of the roadbed at Faneuil station. The tracks through Newton, Newtonville and West Newton will be elevated only about 11 feet above the present roadbed. From Rowe street there will be a gradual slope west to the old roadbed at the Abundale bridge.

If the plan is carried out, it will do away with eight grade crossings in the Newtons. The plan will necessitate changes in the grades of streets which now cross the tracks at grade, but they can be made at a light cost, with the exception of the West Newton crossings at Chestnut and Highland streets, where there is a very steep grade.

There are, of course, some obstacles in the way of carrying out the plan, but it seems to meet very generally, in many of its details, the approbation of the city council and citizens.

The preliminary surveys for the elevated road have been made and the plans have been prepared by the railroad company. President Bliss has spent considerable time in Newton within a few days, and the line of route between Faneuil and Abundale has been very thoroughly inspected by the Boston & Albany officials. Yesterday a special car and engine put in an appearance on the side track near the Newton station. The car contained President Bliss and other B. & A. railroad men, including Mr. H. Reed, chief engineer; Division Superintendent Chesley, General Manager Barnes and Roadmaster Luntell. The visit was made for the purpose of looking over the roadbed, with a view to the consideration of some minor details of the project. One of the gentlemen told the GRAPHIC reporter that the plan was being pushed toward consummation as rapidly as possible. "We don't expect to go to work on it this fall," he said, "because our plan must have legislative consideration. If it proves acceptable to the city of Newton, and is favorably acted upon by the Legislature, the work will be speedily commenced.

In view of the anticipated changes, surveys have been made by the city engineer, and complete information concerning all points will be available when the matter comes before the city council. It is said, by those who pretend to know, that the elevated railroad will cost $5,000,000.

A new station will be erected to supply the place of the present wooden structure at Newton. It will be a stone building of elaborate design, and the waiting rooms will be nearly on a level with the elevated roadbed. It will be the largest depot on the line of the road between Boston and South Framingham.

Getting Acquainted With Tommy Elderly Visitor (taking the little boy on his knee)—"When I was about your age, Tommy, I—Tommy—"Say, why don't you get somebody to mend that big hole in your hair?"—Chicago Tribune.

Nothing can be said in favor of the best medicine in the world that may not be said of the most worthless. In one case, it's true; in the other, it isn't;—but how can you distinguish?

Judge by what is done. There's only one blood-purifier that's guaranteed. It's Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—and this is what is done with it; if it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you get your money back. Isn't it likely to be the best?

All the year round, as well as at one time as another, it cleanses and purifies the system. All blood-poisons must go. For Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Scrofula, Salt-rheum, Tetters, Erysipelas, or any blood-taint or disorder, it is an unequalled remedy.

It's the cheapest, too. With this, you pay only for the good you get. And nothing else is "just as good." It may be better—for the dealer. But he isn't the one that's to be helped.

—Pilgrim's Progress will last as long as the Bible for it is built upon Bible truths, and it will never lose its interest to the devout or cease to warn the sinner. Rev. Dr. Clark of the Methodist church will begin on next Sunday evening a series of half hour talks on this religious classic, and certainly those who are familiar with the allegorical presentation of scripture truth will enjoy these lectures, and should there be one perchance who has not read Pilgrim's Progress then there can be no better way to be initiated into its delightful paths than to hear these lectures. The subject for Nov. 8 is "From the City of Destruction to the Wicket Gate." A special feature of these Sunday evening services at the Methodist church is the praise service, which for fifteen minutes, led by the corner in the hands of that brilliant young player, Homer Loring.

—In the short notice given of the fair for the benefit of the Indian Library held in last week's edition no mention was made of the music so kindly given for the two evenings. As it formed a very pleasant part of the entertainment it certainly deserves mention. On Wednesday evening Mr. Homer Loring gave two cornet solos, which were well appreciated as his playing always is. Miss Belle S. Bassett sang "In the Old Garden" and "The Rose Tree" but she did not sing the desired encore as the hour was late. On Thursday evening, Mr. Fenn of Brookline rendered solos on the violin accompanied by Miss Bassett. The Banjo and Guitar Club led by Mr. George Holmes and Mr. Charles Rogers gave many spirited selections which were skillfully rendered and much applauded by the large audience. Miss Belle Bassett sang a waltz song which showed her excellent voice and rich contralto voice at its best. She was accompanied by Miss Bertha Forbes. To Mrs. Thomas L. Rogers thanks are due for arranging and carrying out this excellent musical program.

—The Centre Club threw open its doors to the ladies for the first time on Monday evening, but not the last it is hoped by all who were present at this reception. The club occupy the suite cornering toward Warren street and having several windows on the front of White's block. The young men have had a good deal done to make the rooms homelike and tasteful, partitions being taken down and effectively papering and carpeting transforming the once plain apartments to attractive club rooms. In the front room the ladies on the reception committee stood and received the large number of guests. Mrs. H. S. Rogers, Mrs. David Harding, Mrs. Samuel Shannon, and Mrs. Mulliken were the four ladies chosen for this office and the younger club men acted as ushers. The parlor has handsome oak furniture and a piano, lighted by an iron lamp with a rose colored shade. This corner made a pretty bit of coloring. There were many handsome pictures on the wall, speaking of the taste of some of the club's artist members. The room back of this reception room is ordinarily the smoking room but on this occasion no appearance of smoke was to be seen, and handsomely filled tables made of it a very pretty supper room, filled with Newton Centre's prettiest girls in light evening dresses, which helped to make the room very attractive. The other room in the suite is the billiard and pool room, where animated playing was going on during the early part of the evening. The rooms were crowded until ten o'clock by representatives of nearly all the prominent families of the town. At ten o'clock many of the older guests returned to their homes, leaving the younger people to dance in White's hall until a late hour to the music furnished by members of the Germania orchestra. Mr. Shannon as president and Mr. Ruhe as treasurer were largely instrumental in making the evening the success it was. Among the guests of the club were Mrs. E. H. Fennessy, Miss Fennessy, Mr. and Mrs. Fitz, Miss Fitz, Mrs. George Warren, Miss Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Norman George, Mrs. William B. Flanders, Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Fowle, Miss Annie Bassett, Miss Belle Bassett, Miss Capron, Miss Fanny Capron, Miss May Rogers, Miss Tomlinson, Mrs. Daniel White, Miss White, Miss Adelaide LeCompte, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. George Pierce, Mrs. Keeler, Mrs. Charles Everett, Miss Wood, Miss Clement, Mrs. and Miss Stuart, Miss Rice, Miss Mary Sylvester, Mrs. Bartholemew, Mrs. Parker, Miss Gertrude Howes, Mrs. Fred Morse, Mrs. Scudder, Mr. Simmons, Miss Day, Miss Howard, Mrs. Crowell, Miss Leland, Mrs. Wheelock, Miss Hunter, Miss Merriam, Mrs. Copeland. The club was organized two years ago by the young representative business and society men residing in Newton Centre. Mr. Frank A. Mason, who was most prominent in its organization, has remained its president until the last election in October. The club is purely a social organization, for mutual social and literary advancement. It is proposed to inaugurate a series of whist, pool and billiard tournaments this winter, and fortnightly entertainments of a social and literary character are contemplated. The officers of the club are S. A. Shannon, president; L. Loring Brooks, vice-president; H. G. Ruhe, treasurer; F. A. Stewart, assistant treasurer; E. W. May, secretary; F. E. Fennessy, F. A. Mason, F. E. Cutler and the other officers, executive committee. The present membership is about seventy.

—At the last meeting of the West End Literary Club, which was held at the residence of Mrs. A. St. Clair Hilton on Hartford street, a most interesting and instructive paper was read by Miss Emma E. Brown, who is an honorary member of the club. Miss Brown has recently visited the Azores and after giving a short history of the Islands she dwelt at length on the physical features of this wonderful archipelago and the life of its people. Vocal and instrumental music by Miss Jeannette Wilcox, Miss Kate Hanson and Miss Marie Hilton, added to the enjoyment of the occasion. The club will meet next week at Mrs. Treadwell's.

—The ladies of the Highland Club gave a Japanese Tea, Tuesday afternoon, from three to five o'clock at the clubhouse. Japanese lanterns, fans and other ornaments, and articles used in the home-life of the people were everywhere, and made the scene a bright and pretty one. The several members of the committee in Japanese costumes specially loaned for this occasion, received the ladies and invited guests, introduced them to strangers, and conducted them to the "pouring and the drinking of the tea." The affair was a social success and reflects great credit on the committee. This is the first of a series of entertainments to be given by the ladies of the club during the winter.

Dr. Collins' Bad and Good Luck.

Dr. S. A. Collins, a Connecticut physician, had an encounter with a wildcat in the northeastern part of the state, which is rarely equaled in these days. He was called to attend a patient in Samuel Corners, and the road lay through a wild wood known as the "Devil's Hop Yard."

When about half way through the canyon the doctor's horse gave a snort of fear and refused to go ahead. Wondering at the cause of the animal's fright, the doctor leaned out of the carriage and peered into the bushes. He had hardly done so when two wildcats sprang from the boughs of a hemlock tree. One landed on the haunches of the horse and the other dropped into the bottom of the carriage and fastened its teeth in the flesh of the doctor's legs.

A desperate struggle ensued, in which the doctor, from loss of blood and strength, became unconscious. In an inside pocket of his coat the doctor carried a small medicine case. During the struggle this fell out and attracted the attention of the cat, which began to claw it and tear it with its teeth. In doing so it broke a bottle of chloroform and the contents seem to have stupefied it. A farmer passing over the road some time later found the doctor unconscious and the wildcat among a lot of broken bottles in the bottom of the carriage in a deep stupor.

The cat weighed fifty-two pounds, and was one of the largest ever killed in Connecticut.—Cor. Chicago Tribune.

Engineer Seery Strangely Hurt.

William H. Seery, engineer of the fast express which leaves New York in the afternoon at 4 o'clock and is due here at 6:05, met with a strange and probably fatal accident the other day near Month Junction. While he was leaning out of the window of the cab, looking back at the train, a loose bolt flew up from the track, striking him in the head and fracturing his skull. He fell unconscious, with his body hanging out of the cab window.

The fireman, W. Harry Bowers, was in the tender at the time attending to the scoop, which takes up water from the track tank, and his attention was attracted by the blood which spurted on him from the engineer's head. He applied the airbrakes and brought the train to a stop. The unconscious engineer was lifted into the baggage car, and the fireman took the train through to Trenton. It is doubtful if Seery recovers.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Bullets Went Three Men at a Time.

Army and navy officers have been watching closely the military features of the insurrection in Chili, and the arms have been carefully examined by the authorities in this country. It appears that it was the Mannlicher gun, loaded with cartridges the size of cigar, and sending a ball nearly two inches long and three-tenths of an inch thick against Balma's troops at the rate of from forty to sixty per minute from each gun, that did the business for the insurgent troops. The long, slender, hard pointed bullets were of steel, covered with a thin coat of copper, the soft metal being designed to follow the rifling of the barrel more accurately and with less wear to the gun than the naked steel would make. Single bullets went through two or three men at a time.—Washington Cor. Boston Journal.

A Table with Growing Legs.

I had presented to me on the 3d of May last a small fancy table as a birthday present—painted black, varnished and gilded. However, it had not been in the house very long before the legs were observed to be growing, and they are continuing to do so. One of the legs has put out a shoot four inches long, upon which there are ten leaves. Altogether it is a very pretty table, with its black and gold, and now the green. I think they are apple tree leaves. I set it out of doors occasionally, so that a little moisture might be given to it to continue the growth, as I do not know but it may blossom and bring forth fruit, which would very much increase the curiosity.—Ontario Cor. Montreal Witness.

A Lively Bazaar.

Harry Walter and Benjamin Talbot, of Morgantown, caught a large turkey buzzard in a steel trap. They took the bird home, and after keeping it a few days by means of fine wire, attached a sleigh bell to one of its legs and set it at liberty. They never heard of the bird until a few days ago, when they read in one of the newspapers of the capture of a buzzard with a bell fastened to its leg in Bolivia, South America. From the description of the bell and the manner of fastening, they have no doubt that it is the identical buzzard that was liberated by them.—Harleysville (Pa.) News.

More Stamps to Collect.

Philatelists should note that at last the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg can boast stamps of its own. Hitherto the ordinary Dutch stamps have been in use there, but now Grand Duke Adolph, who has always possessed his fair share of vanity, has had a new stamp issued that shows his own illustrious visage in profile.—London Star.

An amusing story is told of Sir William Thompson, the great physician, who has been ill. His medical attendants declare that they never had a worse patient in the matter of obstinacy. He would not take his medicine for days together, and it was only by the doctors threatening to abandon him altogether that he reluctantly consented to swallow the prescribed drafts.

Two costly diamond necklaces were lost overboard from a yacht at Norwich, Conn., a few days ago. One, valued at $2,000, has since been recovered by divers, but the second is still at the bottom of the river.

Among the permanent decorations to be added to the vestibule of the White House are portraits of Washington and Lincoln, painted on the wall over the mantelpieces.

—The water curts made their appearance last Sunday morning much to the relief of churchgoers and others. They continued during the week, except on days when nature took charge of laying the dust.

—Mr. P. A. Murray has on exhibition in front of Elliot block, today, a very handsome Surrey cart, built for Mr. Leather-stocking of West Newton. It is of light wood, with russet leather upholstery and trimmings.

—It seems incredible, but Elmwood street has been opened its entire length for carriages. It has been closed since early in the summer. Such a progress shows the good results of the city taking charge of the work.

—Music in Grace church on Sunday night:
Processional, "Pleasant are Thy courts," Elvey
Anthem, "O sing unto the Lord," Goss
Anthem, "Let us have mercy upon us," Day
Anthem, "I will praise God," Day Retrospectual, "The Son of God," Whitney

—Many Newton friends attended the tea given yesterday by Mrs. Geo. Francis Wood of Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, to introduce her daughter, Miss Julie Elizabeth. The family were formerly residents of this city.

—Mr. S. L. Powers was one of the contributors to the editorial page of last Sunday's Globe, his name appearing under an editorial on Foot Ball. Mr. Powers is high authority on all questions connected with this subject, and the article is given in another column.

—Rev. Mr. Hornbroke gave the second of a series of Sunday evening lectures, Nov.
8th, on the special subject of "Modern Thought and the Idea of God." The lectures are a good deal of interest and are well attended. The third lecture is given next Sunday evening in Channing church chapel, on "Modern Thought and the Idea of God."

—Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Bacon held their first reception at their new house on Fairview street on Wednesday. In the afternoon Miss Mabel Peter, Miss Sarah Emery, Miss Snow of Cambridge, and Miss Osgood of Wellesley Hills presided in the dining room, and in the evening the Misses Jackson of Lower Falls, Miss Smith, Miss Clifford and Miss Pillsbury. A large number of guests were present.

—The death of Mrs. L. E. P. Smith on Monday was a very sudden one, following only a short illness from pneumonia. Two little children, one only a few months old, are thus bereft of a mother's care, and great sorrow is felt for the bereaved husband.
Although only a resident of Newton for a few years, Mrs. Smith had made many friends who will sincerely mourn her loss.
The funeral service was held at her residence corner of Park and Vernon streets, on Thursday at 2 p. m.

—There being a good deal of interest among teachers and parents in "Sloyd,"
the Educational Manual Training System, which Prof. Larsson of Boston will illustrate in a Practical Talk in the Young Men's Christian Association hall next Monday evening, the Association has consented to admit all those who care to come from any of the Newtons. Teachers in the public schools are especially invited, and all will be welcome. No admission fee will be charged.

—Of Miss Emma Eames' first appearance
in Chicago, Monday night, in Lohengrin, a telegraphic report says:—"Naturally there was a lively sympathy in the audience coupled with an affectionate regard for a countrywoman who has already commanded the favor of French opera-goers, probably the most critical connoisseurs in singing the world over. She was received with the most hearty enthusiasm, and her performance of Elsa must be set down as a complete success."

—Mrs. Frank P. Dyer of Hingham, who has been visiting Mrs. Chick, Watertown street, met with a peculiar accident a week ago last Thursday. She went to make a call on Miss Drille Chick's sister on Bay street and upon returning to the depot fell into the sewer trench on Emerson street, receiving serious injuries. She was taken to the residence of Mrs. Chick and was attended by Dr. F. L. McIntosh. She will be unable to depart for her home for several days and is at present confined to the house as a result of the accident.

—At the residence of J. A. Evans, Elmwood street, last Thursday evening, there was gathered a small company to witness a marriage ceremony. The happy couple were Miss May Evans and Mr. Herbert Billings of Dedham. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. P. Norcross of Boston. The bride, a pretty brunette, was dressed in pure white and carried a bouquet of roses. The esteem in which the young couple are regarded was shown by many beautiful and useful presents. At the close of the ceremony a bountiful collation was served. Mr. and Mrs. Billings left on a late train for Malden, their future home, amid a shower of rice. May many years of happiness be theirs.

—The Standing Committee of Channing church offer $25 reward for the arrest and collection of any of the parties who have broken the memorial windows in the church. Stones have been thrown against the windows, breaking the glass, and as in many cases the broken glass is a part of a
is believed to be the work of boys, who play in the neighborhood, and parents and teachers are urged to look a little more sharply after the children in the vicinity.

The reward is sufficiently large to make it worth while for those who know anything of the guilty parties to come forward and testify. Certainly nothing could be meaner than for anyone to willfully deface a church, but the glass is broken too frequently to be merely accidental. The guilty parties if discovered will be dealt with as severely as the law allows.

—Very neat programs have been issued announcing the order of exercises for the fourteenth anniversary of the Young Men's Christian Association, to be held in Elliot Hall, Sunday afternoon, Nov. 15, at three.

Besides the addresses by Rev. Dr. E. B.
Webb and Mr. Henry Bond, president of the Waltham Y. M. C. A., a brief report will be presented by the retiring president, Mr. George A. Flint, and a "Review of the Year" by General Secretary A. F. Barrett.

The Temple Quartet of Boston are down
for five musical selections, and several pastors of the city and the other Newtons are to take part. While this is called the fourteenth anniversary, an association having been organized in 1877, in reality the present organization has been in existence
only about six months, being incorporated April 17th last, to carry on definite work for young men in harmony with the fourteen hundred other Associations in this country, a position the old organization failed to take and maintain. The friends of this work have now become so numerous that an attempt will be made to send personal cards to all, but every friend of the Association is included in a general invitation to be present next Sunday. A brief synopsis of the progress made by the Association in the past year, with a copy of the treasurer's report, is in print and will be ready for distribution at the hall.

The Association is also getting out a neat little pamphlet advertising the attractions
of the Young Men's Christian Association.
Unlike many, these are stated in a clear, concise conversational way, particular mention being made of each of the Association rooms and their uses; and considerable prominence given to the series of Practical Talks and the Star course of entertainments, both of which are free to members. The first of the Talks is to be given Monday evening, the 16th, by Prof.
Larsson of Boston on "Sloyd or Education at Manual Training," illustrated with benches, models and tools. Tickets for the entertainment course, which are two dollars each, go on sale at Hubbard & Proctor's, Saturday at four o'clock, the first of the entertainments coming Nov. 30th, and being given by the Couthout Entertainment Company.

The School Board.

A special meeting of the school board was held Wednesday evening, to consider the new rules and regulations. Five members of the board were absent.
None of the rules provoked much discussion save the one doing away with the district committees and substituting a grammar and primary school committee of three members.

There was a long discussion over this,
and it was strongly opposed by several of those present, as tending to do away with the necessity of a school committee.

The meeting was adjourned to next Wednesday evening, when the matter will be taken up again.

Bowling Notes.

The Arlington Boat Club team defeated the Melrose bowlers on the alleys of the former, Wednesday evening, by a score of 2 294 to 2,197.

In practice Monday evening, G. L.
Richards, of the Newton Club team of the Massachusetts League, rolled three successive strings aggregating 567 - an average of 192.3 per string. The scores were 187, 189 and 201.

NEWTON WINS FIRST GAME.

The Newton Club team of the Massachusetts league defeated the Norfolk House Casino bowlers on the home alleys last evening by a score of 2453 to 2408. George Brown put up a magnificent game, knocking out 210 pins in the first string, making a total of 548 and an average of 182.3 per string. Smith of the Casinos bowled a big score, that of 521 with a single string of 208. The score:

NEWTON.		CASINO.
Bowler	string.	string.	Total.
Follet.....	157	159	183
Brown.....	210	143	180

THAT OBVIOUS RULE.

WHEN THE BASIS OF REPRESENTATION IN CITY CONVENTIONS WAS CHANGED.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

Boston, Nov. 11, 1891.

Dear Sir:—I see in the Boston Journal of this morning that there was a discussion at the Republican caucus in Ward 7
on Tuesday evening, of the action of the Republican Ward and City Committee in establishing proportional representation in the municipal convention. The rule establishing proportional representation was adopted after considerable discussion by the committee on its organization in the winter of 1890, soon after Mr. Burr's second inauguration. The majority of the committee thought that the principle was a right one, and they therefore adopted the rule exactly as it now stands, except that they added a clause providing that the representation in the convention of 1890 should not be changed; the object of the committee being to establish the principle and to give as much notice as possible before it was carried into effect, and at the same time not to put it into force until there had been a new election, after notice of the adoption of the new rule. One of the Newton papers, if not both, called the attention of the public to the matter immediately after the city election last year, and published the number of delegates to which each ward would be entitled. This was done after the election and before the organization of the committee for the present year, so that the committee had plenty of time to ask the present committee to change the rule. The matter was frequently brought up for discussion at the committee, and prominent citizens from different parts of the city
as far as possible were consulted in regard to the matter. I made a special point myself of consulting gentlemen from Ward 7. I quote from a letter received from one of them to whom I had sent the rule, which was rule 36 last year and is rule 37 this year. He says in reply, "I have no objection to 36. It seems but right that a strong Republican Ward should have more voice than the Democratic Ward in the convention."

I trust I have shown that the statement, that the object of the rule was to punish Ward 7 for its vote at the last city election, is not well founded, for the rule was adopted eight or nine months before that election. It would seem that the gentlemen who complained of the rule at the caucus had had ample notice,
and that if they wished to make objection it would have been fairer to have done so sooner. For myself I should be very glad if a system could be devised
for doing away with party nominations
at the city election, and I have no objection to the gentlemen who complained of
the rule at the caucus had had ample notice,
and that if they wished to make objection it would have been fairer to have done so sooner. For myself I should be very glad if a system could be devised
for doing away with party nominations
at the city election, and I have no objection to the gentlemen who complained of
the rule at the caucus had had ample notice,
and that if they wished to make objection it would have been fairer to have done so sooner. For myself I should be very glad if a system could be devised

tion to the gentlemen who complained of

tion it would have been fairer to have

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE COMMON COUNCIL WRESTLES WITH THE ANNUAL APPROPRIATION.

There was a full meeting of the members of the Common Council Monday evening, the only member absent being Councilman Collins of Ward Five. President Mead called the lower branch to order at 7.20 o'clock and petitions and orders from the board of aldermen were passed in concurrence.

Councilman Bothfield presented a petition for concrete sidewalk on Maple street. A petition for two street lights on Henshaw court, Ward Three, were referred and Councilman Merchant presented a petition from Walter B. Davis and fifteen others for the repair and improvement of Henshaw court. A petition to cover Beacon street from the railroad bridge, Waban, to Waban street with crushed stone and gravel was presented by Councilman Moulton, and a petition asking for the repair of 150 feet of Woodward street at the junction of Beacon street from F. H. Henshaw and others was referred.

At 7.30 a hearing on the taking of private lands for sewer purposes, west of Jewett and near Jefferson street was opened and no remonstrants appearing was closed.

Councilman Merchant submitted the report of the committee on finance and salaries and the report as printed was adopted. An order authorizing the city treasurer to pay laborers discharged from the sewers drains and board of health department, the sum of $1000 to be charged to the appropriation of the department named, was presented by Councilman Merchant. Councilman Richardson presented a petition from John Ward and twenty others for the plank sidewalk on Hammond street to be replaced.

At 7.40 Councilman Forknall moved that the body go into committee of the whole to consider the appropriation budget for 1892, and the motion being carried President Mead resigned the chair to Councilman Dutch of Ward Three. On motion of Councilman Richardson it was voted to run over the list of estimated expenditures for 1892 and then consider individually the items checked.

The Almshouse appropriation was the first to be considered after running through the list, and Councilman Riffe wished an explanation of the $200 increase for next year over this.

Councilman Mead said the city almoner explained to the finance committee that the almshouse had been made on the Almshouse if occupied this winter, and the additional $200 would be necessary. The committee had decided upon $4500 the same as last year but finally changed to $4700 after this explanation.

Councilman Riffe was opposed to more repairs on the present house in view of the new one soon to be erected, but Councilman Merchant thought it would be some years yet before the new Almshouse would be ready. The item was left as recommended and the increase from $200 to $275 on bathhouse was next discussed.

Councilman Mead said it was very necessary that a boat should be placed at the bathhouse as a precaution to life and other needed apparatus was indispensable for such a place.

The item was left intact on motion of Councilman Churchill. In explanation of the increase of $900 in the appropriation for books, stationery and printing President Mead said that the cut down last year was due to the fact that part of the paper for printing had been purchased the year previous, thus reducing the appropriation to be called for and this year it would take $500 to purchase paper.

The board of health appropriation of $5500, an increase of $220 over last year caused considerable discussion. President Mead said an appropriation of $700 was asked for and received a year ago to pay for writs served by Constable Lucas, and an item of $300 included in the budget for constables fees. He could not see why the city should pay $300 additional when as he understood the constable had already received his pay. He moved to cut the appropriation down to $600.

Councilman Forknall hoped the figures would stand until the board explained the item. If they hire a man and pay him, this body should receive an explanation before proceeding to cut down the appropriation called for and endorsed by the finance committee. President Mead knew no reason why if a man was paid for his work and time, he received a second payment from the city.

Councilman Moulton asked if he was to understand that $300 had already been paid for serving writs, and $300 was now asked again for the same purpose. Councilman Mead said the city paid the constable a regular salary for such work and this is an additional appropriation for that work. Councilman Sprague brought it best to hear from the board of health before taking action and the item was tabled. Some discussion was raised on the increased figures for maintenance of two horses and two wagons in the city engineer's department, but the item finally stood as recommended.

The question of increasing the salary of the chief of fire department from $1700 to $1800 was questioned. Councilman Moulton said the increase in apparatus and men made his work much more arduous, and the committee felt justified in making the small increase of $100. The item was left standing.

Discussions of more or less length and importance ensued on these appropriations in the fire department; $900 for telephone line man, $400 for seven drivers, $1800 for horse and truckmen; $500 new fire alarm station, $700 for gas, $500 horse hire. All the items were left standing.

The highway appropriation recommended for general repairs was $65,000 a decrease from last year's figures of $10,000. Councilman Moulton wished to know if $65,000 would ensure permanent and lasting repairs upon the streets or only for general repairs, patching up and putting on gravel. Many miles of the city streets are not in condition for heavy teaming and must sooner or later be put in permanent condition and it is unwise to cut down the appropriation. Councilman Grace moved that the appropriation be made $85,000 and the wages of the city employees be increased to $2 per day. Councilman Bothfield said all the money that the city choose to appropriate can easily be spent on the streets, but the question is not how much can be spent, but how little can be expended and keep the streets rebuilt and in good condition. Last year the appropriation was larger than needed, but this year care has been taken to recommend only what is actually necessary. He could see no object in advancing the appropriation. Councilman Forknall was of the opinion that $72,000 would not be much too large in view of the condition in what the streets would be left where the sewers are being laid. Some of these streets would need to be almost entirely reconstructed.

Councilman Grace thought the argued increase for good streets would apply to the city employees. The stone crushing came up for discussion and the members were finally brought back to the issue at hand by Councilman Richardson who thought the highway committee knew what they were about when they submitted their estimates. They spent $40,000 or $100,000 more than the appropriation asked, but they probably knew what was necessary and it was well to let them judge. The question was voted upon and the figures increased from $65,000 to $75,000, six voting in the affirmative and five in the negative, Councilman Grace not voting.

The appropriation of $19,000 for widening, reconstruction and improvement of streets was discussed in detail and left as it stood originally. The appropriation of $3000 for the Newton Cottage Hospital, Councilman Riffe thought should be placed in the hands of the overseers of the poor. The trouble at the hospital last spring might have terminated as he understood, very unfortunately for that institution, and he considered it a wise precaution for the city to have some control in its management, or at least to place any monies for them in the hands of responsible city employees thus assuring the city judicious expenditure of her money.

Councilman Churchill thought this was a wise idea. The city appropriated $10,000 for building the new contagious wards, an appropriation of over $3,000 has just been made them to finish those wards, and now an appropriation of $3000 is to be made for expense of city patients. He thought the city should have something to show how this money was expended. Auditor O'Leary was asked for and submitted records showing that the hospital had paid out about $1800 more than was appropriated by the city last year, for city patients.

Councilman Riffe here moved that the sum of $2000 be transferred to poor department. Councilman Forknall said if the city were making an appropriation to the Cottage Hospital it should go to the Cottage Hospital. This placing the money in the hands of the overseers of the poor looks distrustful and small.

Councilman Sprague said if the trustees of the hospital are trustworthy men why not make the appropriation as specified. It does not look slurring. He didn't believe the members of the city knew the boon to the poor man the Cottage Hospital is. Respectable people go there when they would not go as paupers. He thought the city could well appropriate more than $3000 and hoped the motion would not prevail. If the city wants to give money with a string tied to it so they could pull it back, then put it in the hands of the overseers of the poor. The motion to transfer the amount to the overseers of the poor was put and lost.

The recommendation of the finance committee of $2000 for parks and squares including $1300 for drainage of the Newton Centre play ground was discussed and the amount raised to $3300 as recommended by the several committees.

The increase of salary of the captain of police was discussed but left as it stood. After discussing the increase of $200 for temporary police service, the maintenance of four horses and wagons in the police department increased from $900 to $1400, and the new $300 police signal box at Waban, the public property appropriation submitted to the finance committee at $15,000 and cut down by them to $12,000 was considered.

Councilman Riffe said it would be wise to appropriate $15,000 as originally submitted, as some of the buildings are in bad repair, and unless they are thoroughly repaired now they will be a constant yearly expense. The appropriation of $10,000 last year has been exceeded by $7500. This was favored and the council voted to appropriate $15,000.

The appropriation of $1000 for registration of voters, clerical assistance to city treasurer $1,175, were discussed and left. Councilman Churchill said he intended to propose an increase in the salary of the city solicitor, but with the many increases in salary he hardly felt justified at that time in so doing. He said the city solicitor had devoted almost the whole of his time the past year to city business, and $1250 was a small salary for so efficient an official. The reduction in the salary of the city solicitor from $250 to $50 called up an extended discussion. Councilman Merchant said it was only the work of a few days each year and he thought $50 or $60 per day was too high a salary to pay. Councilman Forknall said it took a competent man for this duty. One who can analyze milk and substantiate his claims in a court of justice. The city is obliged to have such an official; when the office was first created none suitable could be secured for less than $500. There have been 80 to 100 tests made this year at $2 per test, and a court case costs from $10 to $20. Two years ago the salary was placed at $50 and it was last year put back to $250. Alderman Sheppard, who was present, gave his opinion by request. He said it was an important office and it was ludicrous to place the salary at $50. He suggested that a fair salary would be $200 and this figure was voted.

The school appropriation, $117,500 and incidentals, $10,500, water maintenance, $14,800, street watering, $13,500, police box, Waban, $300 were discussed and left standing.

President Mead then submitted an itemized account of the board of health estimates for '92, and the item of $300 for constables' notices was stricken out, leaving the total appropriation, $62,200 instead of $65,000, no law bearing upon the case being found upon investigation.

The committee on the whole then reported and the common council adopted the report, the total appropriation amounting to $79,816, an increase over the finance committee's estimate of $14,620. Last year's appropriation was $65,372. This makes a total increase over last year of $14,444.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

James Sullivan and F. L. Chamberlain were granted licenses to run one express wagon each.

Petitions were received for street lamps on Bellevue street bridge, and to have the oil lamps on Newtonville avenue repaired or changed for gas or electric.

Albert Gay and John Cooney were given leave to withdraw on petitions for damages.

George Pettie and others asked for two street lamps on private way between Oak and Elliot streets.

H. E. Hibbard gave notice of intention to build two houses on Hunnewell terrace, each 30x40. O. E. Hunt, house on Washington Park.

$20,700 was appropriated for city expenses during December.

The warrant for city election was passed.

Notice of intention to build the Newton club house on Highland avenue was filed.

One street lamp on Highland street and one on Clyde street were ordered.

The Waban Improvement Association asked to have Woodland street near Beacon, repaired.

Concrete walks were asked for on Maple avenue, by Messrs. Tucker and Sawin.

A fire alarm signal station was asked for on corner of Centre and Walnut streets.

Miss Martha Hitchcock gave notice of intention to build house 28x44 on corner Centre and Hollis streets.

Sydney P. Clark asked for license for private stable on Summer street.

THE APPROPRIATION BILL.

The board then went into committee of the whole on the appropriation bill, with Alderman Harbach in the chair, as passed by the common council.

The increase in the first department was explained by Alderman Crehore as due to the new engine and truck at Newton Highlands.

A long discussion took place over the salary of the inspector of milk, and Alderman Sheppard called attention to the importance of having the work of the office carefully and thoroughly done, especially in the summer months, and said the inspector ought to be responsible to some one.

The increase in the schools was explained as due to the new house at Waban, new teachers in the high school, and the lack of text books, which must be largely increased this year.

The matter of drains came up and Alderman C. Bin called attention to Mr. Potter's demand for drains, the Boyd pond drain on which he was willing to give the city the right of way, and in the case of his land on Church street, he desired the city to take out the drain there and put it in the street.

Alderman Hyde asked which place the alderman from Ward One had rather have fixed, which caused a general laugh.

Alderman Crehore said the Church street drain had been referred to the city solicitor, who had said that the best way was to let the matter rest, until the rights of the city had been tested in the courts.

THE HIGHWAY APPROPRIATION.

Alderman Fenno said the highway appropriation had been fixed at $65,000, and that was all the city ought to appropriate this year. This year there had been some decided economies, $10,000 had been saved on crushing stone, and yet as much had been done as in former years.

The committee had been fortunate in saving on almost every item, partly because of crushed stone and partly on men. All that might be appropriated could be spent, but $65,000 would do all that must be done. Some specific appropriations had not been touched on account of the sewers, and these would be carried over to next year. There was plenty of crushed stone, but for Boyd and Emerson streets it was thought better to wait for stone from Murray street than to haul it from Auburndale.

The committee would leave as much stone as they found on hand at beginning of year.

Alderman Hyde asked what was the difference between widening and reconstruction and general repairs.

Alderman Fenno said it was very slight and the committee to be sure that certain amounts were spent where needed had put them under that heading.

Alderman Sheppard said in the case of Arlington street it was thought there would have to be drilling done, but it was found not to be needed.

Alderman Harbach said that was not what was intended when the appropriation was made.

Alderman Hyde moved that something be added for Centre street and Beacon street, Waban. It was 17 years or there since anything was done on these streets and they were in bad condition, say $1500 for Centre street, and $2500 for Beacon street.

Alderman Luke said the other appropriations had been very carefully made up and estimated, and he was opposed to putting in any guesses at cost of work.

Alderman Harbach said the streets ought to be in good condition but they were not.

Alderman Fenno said that all the work done this year had been done inside the estimates and all the work planned had been done except in sewerage streets.

The committee had crushed the stone in the Auburndale pit at 30 cents a square yard, and in Murray street inside the price accepted by Mr. Hale, about 61 cents. Last year crushed stone had cost $1.58 a square yard, but the committee had made a radical change and would never go back to the loose methods of last year. The city had saved thousands of dollars, and the amount he set was enough. The taxes were as high as they should be.

Alderman Luke said the committee had had a very difficult task in awarding prizes to the section men, all the sections were so well kept, that the difference was very slight. The superintendent says the streets were never in as good condition, $15 a thousand was as high as the tax-rate should be.

Alderman Harbach said a list of twenty-five streets had been handed him that were in bad order.

Alderman Fenno asked if they were not as bad last year, and Alderman Harbach admitted that they were.

Alderman Fenno said the committee had found a great mass of petitions left over from last year, and they had gone to work to clean up these and then taken petitions in the order they were received. They had cleaned the petitions up to the first of September.

After further discussion, the sum was fixed at $65,000, $10,000 less than the Common Council figures.

THE COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

There was a warm discussion over the $3,000 for the Cottage Hospital.

Alderman Harbach wanted this put under the appropriation for overseers of the poor, and only paid out on orders approved by them. The city should pay for the cases in the hospital for which it was liable.

Alderman Luke read the figures given by the hospital board, showing that they had expended last year $3,255.87 for poor patients, and the city had given them only $1,500. There was an emergency now at the hospital, and he thought the money was needed. It would be an evil day when the city took charge of the hospital, but if it did not receive aid, the city would have to take it.

Alderman Fenno said it would cost the city $12,000 a year to run the hospital, and it was getting off very cheap with only $3,000. The controversy this year had interfered with the receipts, and the emergency might not occur again.

Alderman Sheppard thought the city almoner should have power to approve bills.

Alderman Luke said it would be better for the city to ask for a representation on the hospital board, as it has on the public library and water board.

Alderman Hyde thought it was a business matter, and the city should pay for what it received.

City Clerk Kingsbury called attention to the fact that if the appropriation was handed over to the city almoner or the overseers of the poor, it would make paupers of the patients who cannot pay for treatment, which would be very unfortunate.

Alderman Luke took this consideration up and on the strength of his plea the $3,000 was voted to the Hospital, without conditions.

NEWTON CENTRE PLAY GROUND.

On the appropriation for drainage for Newton Centre play ground, Alderman Fenno said the officers of the Newton Centre Improvement Association had stated that if the $10,000 was given them they would not ask for anything more from the city, and he opposed granting the $13,000.

Alderman Harbach denied that any promise had been made, and said there was a misunderstanding.

Alderman Fenno said he remembered the statement distinctly and the men who made it, and he had asked last year's alderman from Ward 4, and he also remembered the statement.

Alderman Harbach and Hyde argued in favor of the appropriation, as it would cost a large amount to fix up the land, and in its present condition it was useless. The Improvement Association spend about a thousand a year in planting shrubbery and in walks and drives.

The appropriation was finally voted.

Alderman Sheppard endeavored to have the street light appropriation increased by $6000 so that the lights could be lighted every night, but was voted down, and a motion for $2000 to keep the arc lights lighted shared the same fate.

The board then went into regular session and adopted the bill as it came from the council, with the exception of making highway repairs $65,000 instead of $15,000.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB.

The Tariff is a Tax.

Every person interested in the subject of the tariff, is cordially invited to take part in the discussions carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms, and communications of every kind, whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

An Honest Letter Based on a False Foundation.

The following letter seems to be written in good faith and therefore deserves a courteous reply:

Free traders claim that the results of their policy would be to cheapen the price of everything to the consumer, reducing wages of workmen as a matter of course, and yet making it fully as easy for him to get a living on account of the lower prices of the necessities of life.

Now then let us suppose we have free trade and the workers of all kinds get smaller pay and living expenses are less. What will the result be to the many poor men who own mortgaged houses? Will free trade lessen the mortgage? Not at all. Will it lessen the value of their houses? Yes, decidedly. If prices are reduced materially, then must the carpenter, bricklayer and all in the building trade receive lower wages, material of all kinds must be lower, and those who work thereon receive smaller wages.

Now then, when my neighbor buys a house he can build cheaper than I did, though it takes him longer to earn his money. If my neighbor wishes to sell his house he may do so, if houses are in demand at that time, but my house, built before this free trade era, has shrunk until nothing is left in sight but the mortgage.

The debt I owe is not reduced but the value of my labor with which I pay my debts is reduced largely.

I wish to ask through the columns of the GRAPHIC, if a change to free trade would not be disastrous, in any event, to the debtor class who are dependent on wages.

The false foundation in the above is the assumption that free traders, or tariff reformers, allow that the effect of their policy would be to reduce the wages of labor. That is the last thing they would allow. While they deny that protection increases wages, they are equally emphatic in denying that the removal of protection, partial or entire, would decrease them. We know of no body of men in this country working for free trade today. That may come by and by, but not yet. What we tariff reformers want now is untaxed raw materials, which would allow a lower rate of taxation on finished products. We believe that the effect of this policy on wages, if any, would be to raise them. That is to say, we believe that this policy would make more favorable conditions for the employment of labor. That is the way it has worked in Great Britain, where wages are higher than elsewhere in Europe, and where they have steadily advanced since the liberal policy was adopted. In this country wages are higher in unprotected than in protected industries, while in different sections of this country wages vary as much as between this country and England. It will be readily seen that the writer of the above letter built upon a false foundation, and thereby labored in vain.

"A Yard of Roses."

One of the popular paintings at the New York Academy of Design was a yard-long panel of Roses. A crowd was always before it. One art critic exclaimed, "Such a bit of nature should belong to all the people, it is too beautiful for one man to hide away."

The Youth's Companion, of Boston, seized the idea, and spent twenty thousand dollars to reproduce the painting. The result has been a triumph of artistic delicacy and color.

The Companion makes an Autumn gift of this copy of the painting to each of its five hundred thousand subscribers. Any others who may subscribe now for the first time, and request it, will receive "The Yard of Roses," without extra charge while the edition lasts.

Besides the gift of this beautiful picture all new subscribers will receive "The Companion" free from the time the subscription is received till January First, including the Thanksgiving and Christmas Double Numbers, and for a full year from that date. The price of The Companion is $1.75 a year.

Every family should take this bright and best of illustrated literary papers in addition to its local paper.

Cataract, Not Local, But Constitutional.

Dr. Dio Lewis, the eminent Boston physician, in a magazine article says: "A radical error prevails nearly all medical treatment of cataract. It is not a disease of the man's nose; it is a disease of the man, showing itself in the nose—a Local exhibition of a Constitutional trouble."

Therefore, he argues, the use of snuff and other local applications is wrong, and while they seem to give temporary relief, they really do more harm than good. Other leading authorities agree with Dr. Lewis. Hence, the proper method of cure for cataract is by taking a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, reaching every part of the body through the blood, does eliminate all impurities and makes the whole man healthier.

the cause of the trouble and restores the diseased membrane to proper condition. That this is the practical result is proved by thousands of people who have been cured of cataract by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Don't let rheumatism settle on you this month; Try Johnson's Anodyne Lincture, never fails.

—The horses attached to the fire department supply wagon, became frightened at the funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Smith, and became unmanageable. They made a dash for the side of the street and the wagon collided with a lamp post. The driver, John Caldwell, was thrown from his seat and severely bruised.

—A little circle of young Misses becoming interested in the Kindergarten school for the blind in Boston, recently held a fair in the house of Mrs. Chas. Howland, which netted the sum of $125 for its benefit. If their sympathy could be enlisted for the cause, the Kindergarten would be able to reap a similar result, and a beneficent interest awakened which would be valuable both to themselves and the recipient in the future.

—A case was on trial in the superior court, Boston, Tuesday, of interest to West Newton, as Mr. Henry W. Smith, the defendant, formerly lived here, in the house which he sold to Mr. T. B. Fitz. Mr. Smith is a member of the Smith American and Piano Co., and is the brother of the daughter, Mrs. Carrie A. Holmes, to recover $20,000, which he transferred to her at the time he was seeking a divorce from his wife, and which he now withdraws from her. The trial was of a rather sensational nature, and continued several days.

—Mr. F. H. Barnes of the city engineer's office left on Thursday with a large party for San Bernardino, Cal., to remain six months, and if the climate proves beneficial he may remain there permanently. Mr. Barnes has been one of the most efficient assistants the city engineer has had, but his health has suffered from too close application. His departure has caused much regret, and many of the City Hall staff are anxious to see him off. As a mark of their friendship, they presented him with a purse of $100, just before the train started.

—The West Newton Social Club gave a ball in the City Hall Wednesday evening. Music was furnished by Allen's orchestra and dancing was enjoyed from 9 p. m. until 1 o'clock a. m. W. M. Pettigrew was floor director and the aids were W. B. Taffe, J. E. Nicholl, T. N. Lannan, W. U. Fogwill, J. Heald, F. J. Priest and T. Wilkinson. The reception committee comprised Messrs. J. E. Nicholl, W. U. Fogwill and F. J. Priest. The officers of the club are A. F. Fiske, president; W. M. Pettigrew, vice-president; J. E. Nicholl, secretary and treasurer.

—The ninth anniversary of the Newell Society of Christian Endeavor was observed in the vestry of the Second Congregational church, Wednesday evening. The exercises were in charge of Acting President W. H. Folsom and consisted of vocal numbers by a mixed quartet, comprising Miss Upham, Miss Fogwill, Mr. Beardsley and Mr. Upham, and an interesting address on C. E. work by Rev. Lawrence Phelps of Chelsea, state the President of the Christian Endeavor Society. The exercises closed with a consecration meeting which was conducted by Mr. W. L. Colby, a former president of the Newell Society.

—The next regular meeting of the Newton Congregational Club will be held in the parlors and chapel of the Second church, on Monday evening. The topic for the evening will be "Socialism and the Church," and the address will be given by the Right Rev. Frederic D. Huntington, D. D., LL.D., Bishop of Central New York. Music will be furnished by the choir of the Second church. The club is fortunate in securing a speaker so eminent as Bishop Huntington, and it is hoped that members will make a special effort to be present at the supper. After supper the club will adjourn to the church auditorium, where the address will be delivered, seats being reserved for members of the club and their guests.

—Dr. H. P. Perkins was driving on Highland avenue, Newtonville, Wednesday afternoon and his horse became frightened by the sudden appearance of an unheeled vehicle on wheels, resembling a double runner, the invention of some juvenile who was making a flying trip down over the hill. The horse reared and fell down was thrown out, the wheels of his carriage passing over him. He was pretty badly bruised, but fortunately was not seriously injured. His 15 year old child accompanied him and the doctor's effort in behalf of the little one prevented him from making any efforts for his own safety. The child retained his seat in the carriage which was promptly stopped and was uninjured. Dr. Perkins was taken to his home on Lander street and was attended by Dr. Woodman.

—Miss Sarah M. Frost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Frost, and Mr. Thomas H. Hovenden were married Wednesday evening at the residence of the bride's parents on Fuller street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. H. J. Patrick, and was attended by a large number of church, in the presence of the relatives and near friends of the bride and groom. Mr. Herbert Cook was best man, and the maid of honor the bride's sister, Miss Alice Frost. A small reception followed the ceremony, and at its close Mr. and Mrs. Hovenden departed on their wedding tour. Upon their return they will reside on Forest street, Brighton, where they will be at home Wednesday's in January.

—Mr. Warren Davis, an esteemed resident, died Friday, the 11th inst. He was born in Bedford, May 5, 1810. He resided for many years in Reading where he carried on the business of a contractor and builder. He was much interested in educational matters and was a member of a school board while a resident of Reading from which place he removed to Wayland in 1861. In 1865, Mr. Davis removed to West Newton where he resided until his death. He was married in 1834 to Miss Fannie Watson and they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1884. Mrs. Davis died about a year ago. Four children now survive, Mr. S. V. Davis, a physician, and B. Davis, Mrs. Edward Rice of New York and Miss Amelia Davis. Mr. Davis was one of the first to leave the Whig party to become a Republican. He was a man of energy and high character, a kind father and a loving husband. The funeral took place from his late residence, Monday afternoon, Rev. H. J. Patrick, D. D., officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at Reading. Mr. Davis was 80 years of age.

—Mrs. Esther Allison Tiffany wife of Rev. Francis Tiffany, formerly pastor of the West Newton Unitarian church, died at her residence in Cambridge last Saturday. The deceased was the descendant of a very wealthy and aristocratic Baltimore family and was one of the most prominent of that city when she was in her youth. Her sister married Nathaniel Morrison, a distinguished writer and author. Mrs. Tiffany was a highly cultivated lady of letters, and was a member of the Unitarian and broad in her views and her life was devoted to good works and good deeds. The announcement of Mrs. Tiffany's death was a great shock to her large circle of acquaintances in West Newton. The many years of her life spent here had endeared her to the hearts of many, and as few others had learned to appreciate her rare qualities, but she was a most Christian and social virtues. For Rev. Mr. Tiffany the tenderest sympathy is breathed. Four children survive her, Frank of St. Paul, Walter of Minneapolis and Mary and Edna of Cambridge. The funeral services were held at her late residence Monday.

—Mr. H. A. Gane's kindness in throwing open his greenhouses to the public, this week, has been fully appreciated and a great number of visitors have admired his display of choice plants. The flowers seem to grow more beautiful every year, and the growers seem to be now striving more for double flowers than for odd effects. Mr. Gane has a great number of varieties of chrysanthemums, and that approach the perfection of the Mrs. Hardy, or the Kioto or the H. W. Lincoln in beauty. His collection makes almost as fine a show as some of the public exhibitions, and he received several prizes at the Horticultural show. Some of his flowers measured 12 inches across, and many of the varieties are wonderful for their size and the perfect symmetry of the heads. The Jerome Jones is one of these, and the Mrs. Langtry is fully as beautiful as its namesake. There seems to be no end of the varieties, and the Mrs. Gane's gardener is especially proud. The A. Spaulding, John Firth, Louise Boehm, Mrs. Irving Clark, are other beautiful ones, but amateurs do not care for the names so much as the great variety of colors, sizes, and the fine appearance of the plants, some of which are trained as trees, to develop one or two flowers, and others trained in height to form the beautiful bank of flowers which fills the centre of the greenhouse. It is especially satisfactory to see the plants growing, and the greenhouses have every day echoed with exclamations of admiration. On a sunny day the sight was especially beautiful, as the sun lighted up the whites, reds and yellows.

—Miss Anna Isabella Batchelder, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Batchelder and Mr. Thomas S. Woods of Bath, N. H., was married Wednesday evening in the Unitarian church. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion, the pulpit platform being completely covered with tropical plants. A profusion of chrysanthemums ranged directly in front of the pulpit. The ceremony occurred at 7.30 o'clock, the bride being given away by her father, Mr. James Monroe Olmstead of Boston. Rev. Julian C. Jaynes conducting the marriage service. The maid of honor was Miss Daisy Leatherbee of Newton Centre, and the best man Mr. Leigh Chamberlain. The ushers were Messrs. Charles C. Batchelder, brother of the bride, Eugene Darling, H. H. Haskell and Richard Ware. The bride, a pretty brunette, was charmingly gowned in a white cord silk, and train, wore the usual tulle veil and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The maid of honor was attired in pink chiffon and carried pink roses. After the ceremony a large reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Leatherbee, Hillsdale avenue. Over 300 guests were present, representing the prominent society people of the Newtons. The decorations at the house were very elaborate, consisting principally of tropical plants arranged in the hall and lower apartments. All the mantels were banked with chrysanthemums and exotics, and the chandeliers and the chandeliers and cornices. In the "den" under the main staircase, completely hidden by a screen composed of a tall palm, the orchestra was stationed, and it poured music during the evening. The newly wedded couple received in the parlor standing in a circular recess which had been converted into a beautiful flower box. The collation was served in the dining room by Caterer Lee of the Woodland Park Hotel. The wedding gifts were displayed in one of the upper apartments. At the close of the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Woods departed on their tour. They will reside at Bath, N. H., where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

It is extremely good of you and your fellow workers to show such an interest in us and our suffering ones, and I am sure an abundant blessing must follow such a labor of love." * * * Everything sent was good and useful of its kind. * * * Pray for us."

—Mrs. C. O. Simpson of the Woodland Park, gave a delightful lunch party at the hotel Thursday, Nov. 5th, to a party of ladies in honor of Miss Bishop. The lunch was served in the private dining room of the hotel in Mr. Lee's chic style, and was a very enjoyable occasion, not only in a material sense but in affording through the kindness of the hostess, Miss Bishop's friends this pleasant opportunity of bidding her good-by, before her departure for England, where she will make her future home.

—There was not a large attendance at the Republican caucus, Tuesday evening, but those who attended were of the same kind in the selection of common councilmen and delegates. Mr. Allen Jordan was re-nominated for election to the lower branch, but Mr. C. H. Sprague, who has as faithful served his ward has been left out of the race and Mr. C. W. Knapp was nominated in his place. The delegates were instructed to favor Mayor Hibbard and ex-Alderman Frederick Johnson, for the board of aldermen. Those who know say Mr. Johnson will not consent to run and if he will not, then undoubtedly some other man from this ward will be re-elected. The Citizens' party in all probability will re-nominate Alderman Crebore.

The horse carried driver and buggy across half the platform fronting Freeman Hall. A steep wall and fence separating the river from the roadbed was the direction of the horse's course, but he just escaped this awful plunge and came in contact with an iron corner post of the bridge here. Mr. Dolan was thrown out and the horse left all but harness by jumping a height of 4 feet and landing on the bridge sidewalk. Mr. Dolan is suffering from sprained wrists and face and scalp wounds. All seeing the accident were surprised at the slightness of the damage, when considering the narrow escapes of horse and driver. The horse's forward legs were badly cut and carriage had whiffletree, shaft and other parts broken.

THE CATHOLIC FAIR.

A GREAT SUCCESS FROM THE START AND ATTRACTING HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE.

The fair which has been in progress at the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians each evening of this week, has commanded the undivided attention of many of the members of that and surrounding parishes, and the nightly attendance has been very gratifying to the management. The lower audience room of the church has been used for the fair and it presents a pretty picture with its numerous booths in delicate drapings of bunting and lace. After passing the watchful but courteous gentlemen who receives the entrance fee, the first booth on the right commands instant attention. This is table number one and is in charge of the Misses Moran. The booth is draped in pure white bunting, with trimmings of gilt. Passing on one notices a framed picture of the new convent building as it will appear when completed, and then table number two, the banner table of the fair is reached, which is in charge of Miss Katie Joyce, Miss Nora Sullivan, Miss Nellie Cummings and Miss Annie Mahar. The booth is draped in pink and lace, and at the top the festoons of bunting and lace are caught up by a star-like bouquet of flowers and ferns, while beneath this hangs a figure two composed entirely of ferns. Upon the pink background inside hang gilt framed pictures, and upon the table is a bewildering display of choice vases, silver ware, etc., and a mounted carriage whip, for which Coachman John Gaegan of Newton and Coachman Michael Kenna of Newtonville are the contestants. Just beyond hangs a life like portrait of Father Dolan in a massive frame of gilt.

At this end of the hall is the shooting gallery, and Mr. Myles Joyce is kept busy attending to numerous customers. The refreshment tables are a necessary adjunct to the success of such an entertainment, and with a table containing confectionary and a chance to obtain sweet cider, are in charge of such efficient officers as Mr. John Flood, Miss Mary Cavanaugh, Miss Mary Sullivan, Miss Belle Mulligan. The next table in order is number three, in charge of Miss Jennie Burns, Miss Nellie Farrell, Miss Julia Connors and Miss Mary Murphy. The drapings are of nile green and inside is a silk patchwork quilt of 50 years of age. Soft sofa pillows of value, a millinery department, a $10 gold piece, large guess doll, and other attractions are here.

A picture of the new parochial school soon to be built hangs near, and next is table number four, draped in blue with overhangings of lace, in the centre of which hangs a picture of John Boyle O'Reilly. This table is in charge of Miss Mamie Boyle, Miss Lizzie Farrell, Miss Alice Powers, Miss Anna Harrington and Miss Jennie Magoly.

The rag babies were receiving "3 shots for 5 cents," and numerous grab bags and other attractions were all liberally patronized.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

THE DELEGATES ELECTED AT THE VARIOUS WARD CAUCUSES.

The Republicans held their ward caucuses Tuesday evening, and in all but Ward Five delegates favoring the re-nomination of Mayor Hibbard were elected. In Ward Five the delegates were pledged to cast their first ballot for Alderman Pottier, the Republican candidate of last year, but after that they will undoubtedly set a good example to the other wards by voting to make Mr. Hibbard's nomination unanimous.

In Wards One and Seven the caucuses were unanimously for Mayor Hibbard, first, last, and all the time, although the wards have been disciplined for their vote of last year, by having their representation cut down to four delegates each, while Ward Five has seven delegates.

In Ward Six the caucus voted that it was the opinion of the caucus that Mayor Hibbard should be re-nominated. In Ward Two the caucus took no action but the delegates. In Ward Three the delegates were instructed for Mayor Hibbard and in Ward Four the delegates are all in favor of the present Mayor.

For Alderman Ward One decided in favor of Alderman Coffin, Ward Two did nothing on the aldermanic question; Ward Three instructed for Mr. E. B. Wilson; Ward Four favors ex-Alderman Johnson; Ward Five instructed for Alderman Hyde; Ward Six for Alderman Harbach and Ward Seven for Alderman Sheppard.

The Republican nominees for the Common Council are:

Ward One—Geo. S. Downs, Reuben Forknall.
Ward Two—L. E. G. Green, W. F. Lunt.
Ward Three—F. M. Ditch, Chas. E. Hatfield.
Ward Four—Allen Jordan, C. W. Knapp.
Ward Five—Erastus Moulton, C. B. Magee.
Ward Six—Albert H. Roffe, Henry D. Lagen.
Ward Seven—Geo. R. Weed, L. B. Gay. Mr. Gay declines and the vacancy is to be filled.

BOWLING ON LEAGUE ALLEYS.

NEWTON BOAT CLUB STARTS OFF WITH A VICTORY.

The Massachusetts Amateur Bowling League inaugurated the season's work in a game played at Riverside Tuesday evening between the Chelsea Review and Newton Boat Club team. Eight teams will contest for honors this season, representing the Boston Athletic Association, Newton Club, Norfolk House Casino, Arlington Boat Club, Chelsea Review Club, Newton Boat Club, Melrose Club and the Vesper Boat Club of Lowell. The three last named clubs are new members of the league, although the membership of the Newton Boat Club team is in part made up of the men who played on the Woodland Park team last year.

The Chelsea Review Club, in the contest last evening, presented three of its last season's bowlers, Messrs. Tent, Slade and Davis. The new men on the team are Messrs. Barnes and Carruth, both of whom made good records in the local tournament conducted under the auspices of the Chelsea Club.

The Newton Boat Club team was made up of Messrs. Loring, Cole and Dole of last year's Woodland Park team, and Messrs. Kinsley and Lawrie, two new men. The former rolled last season in the Newton club local tournament, and secured an average of 154. Lawrie is an experienced bowler, and a valuable accession to the team. He rolls an effective cross ball, and is very accurate on single pins.

A large and enthusiastic company of ladies and gentlemen witnessed the contest. The Newton club was represented by a large delegation, and quite a number of enthusiastic bowling devotees accompanied the Chelsea men. Hamilton of the Newton club coached the home team, and his cries of "good eye" recalled the exciting contest of last year. The season of 1891-92 has certainly had an auspicious opening, and the interest in bowling as a sport has in nowise diminished, if one can judge from the enthusiasm attending the initial contest.

The scores made were not up to the average of last year, especially in the first two strings. In the third string, the men warmed up to the work, and some very good totals were made by Loring and Lawrie.

Features of the contest were difficult combination shots by Davis, Cole and Dole, yielding spares after bad breaks on the first ball. Cole knocked down pins 8 and 10 on the second ball. Dole's second ball knocked down pins 6, 7 and 10. The combination of numbers 4 and 10 was made by Davis after his first break. All the pins are numbered this season in order to facilitate scoring and to more clearly indicate the result of the second ball.

The home team won the match by 103 pins. Lawrie was high roller with a total of 458. Barnes put up the best bowling for the visitors, making a total of 429. The score in detail is appended.

CHARLESTON'S GALA WEEK.

The jollification inaugurated the year following the earthquake may be regarded as perennial. The great seismic convulsion opened a geyser that is likely to spout until the artesian wells run dry, unless like the wells it should prove a great bore. It began this season with earlier and more elaborate preparations, and with an enthusiasm that has been accumulating all through the last prosperous year, and the fires of zeal were doubtless fanned by the breeze of the municipal campaign, which resulted in a victory for the "Reformers." Just before the historic chimes of St. Michael's played the "Introductory Overture" (as one facetious reporter styles it) the wires were thrilling with the news that for the next four years Charleston will be ruled by a German instead of an Irish "ring."

But as a number of the old aldermen were re-elected, the "regulars" will join heartily in the music, and decorate their residences and their stores. Our enterprising daily, "The News and Courier," unfurls six sheets to the winds, and the advertisers, irrespective of party, monopolize many of the twelve pages.

The voice of the "shrimp-feed" was the first to disturb our morning slumbers,—an indescribable yell that rhymes with nothing in earth or heaven. All day Monday visitors were pouring in from every quarter, from "the blue mountains, the red hills, the pine-clad section, the rolling middle country, the wide savannahs, the happy islands, and the fringed sea-coasts."

The travelers had scarcely found a resting-place, and washed off the dust, (for be it known unto all men by these presents that the cars and buses are raising a furious dust from the dry highways), when the signal was given that the grandeur and horrors of the "Paris Commune" were going to be reproduced at Base Ball Park, and thousands of excited and bloodthirsty citizens were pressing hither to the banks of the Seine and the Arc de Triomphe. The city and its suburbs were brilliantly illuminated, and the city and monster display of fireworks, astonished the natives who have read history, and the strangers and foreigners whose history was astonishingly red, for a few moments.

This performance was repeated every night during the week, with the exception of Tuesday, when the Grand Trades Display, Fantastic Parade and Torchlight Procession was the centre of attraction. Old Dorcas joined and kept up with the procession, played familiar with the fluttering decorations of tissue paper and bunting, and made several brilliant voluntary contributions to the program, in illuminations that awoke the alarm bells and called out the steam fire engines, and furnished the strangers with an unexpected display of the discipline of the fire department.

But time would fail us to tell of the balloon ascension; the champion high-walker of the world; the dress parade of the Citadel Cadets and their grand ball, when the long-measured feet of the dancers outmarched the quick feet of the dancing floor; the harbor excursions, when our country friends and northern visitors were entertained with a view of our magnificent harbor and historic old Fort Sumter; the convention of all the colleges and universities of the South, to consider a plan of forming an association of college students, at which there was a grand oratorical contest for the championship of the South and handsome gold medal. The object of the Inter-Collegiate Association is to raise a fund for the erection of a monument to the memory of the Confederate dead. The last day was devoted to music on the battery and the principal square of the city. It was a homeward march for the most of our visitors.

We have been favored with delightful, clear, cool October weather. The most conspicuous and the most numerous of the decorations is the national flag, which has been hoisted from every dome and spire, every shop and vehicle, and a hundred poles, and we have no doubt it will wave from the Inter-Collegiate monument, to tell the nation that they, old Confederates, are as loyal to their country as they are to their heroic and honored dead.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Miss Clara Morris is the attraction at the Hollis this week. At the matinee tomorrow (Saturday), she will present Camille. The evening's performance will be Sardou's drama "Odette." Next week, commencing Monday evening, Halkin and Hart will present their amusing creation, the new "Later On." Among the musical novelties promised in "Later On," is a gavotte arranged for six girls, the special musical charm of which will be intensified by the fact that their movements will be directed by an equal number of singing birds. These birds are not feathered beauties of the forest, but their costumes, mechanically devised by a sharp and inventive Frenchman. They are made to sing at will by the dancers, so that for the nonce, the usual orchestral accompaniment will be dispensed with.

GLOBE THEATRE—The progressive and creative actor, Mr. Richard Mansfield, is playing an engagement at the Globe Theatre. Mr. Mansfield's supporting company comprises, among others, the following widely known and thoroughly competent people: Misses Beatrice Cameron, Elizabeth Y. Sheridan, Julia Bruton, Perdita Hudspeth and Messrs. D. H. Harkins, W. J. Ferguson, Frank Lauder, Harry Gwynette, William Harkworth, W. H. Crompton and others long associated with him. This is Mr. Mansfield's only engagement in Boston this season. Next week, the second and last at the Globe, will be devoted to five different plays, widely diverse in character: Monday, "Beau Brummell"; Tuesday, "A Parisian Romance"; Wednesday matinee, "Prince Karl"; Wednesday night, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"; Thursday and Friday and Saturday matinee and night, Mr. Mansfield's own charming comedy, "Don Juan," for the first time in Boston.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—William Gillette's latest production, "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows," was given its initial production in Boston at the Columbia Theatre, Monday evening. The title is odd, and characteristic of the author's sense of humor. The piece has brought the author greater financial returns than any previous work in which he has been engaged. As a matter of course, any of Gillette's comedies might be staged without premeditation, and herein lies the secret of the playwright's methods. As a humorous writer he has been the most successful in America for years. The piece is exceedingly amusing, and is presented with the original cast and scenery with such artists as Joseph Holland, Mrs. George Drew Barrymore, Emily Bancker, Mattie Ferguson, Annie Wood, John W. Thompson, Thomas H. Burns, Thomas W. Riley, Edward Coleman, Adelaide Grey, and others; in fact, the principal comedy members of Charles Frohman's new Boston stock company. The stage settings are new, and the production is made under the personal supervision of the author. It is sure to have a successful and the advance sale of tickets has already been very large.

BOSTON THEATRE—"The Old Homestead" will be withdrawn from the Boston Theatre stage on the 28th inst., notwithstanding the fact that the indications are such that Manager Tompkins could keep it on for the remainder of the season. This date for closing the run was fixed long ago, and it is certain that the time will not be extended, so that all who have not seen Mr. Denman Thompson and his capable company in this entertaining and interesting play should take advantage of the few remaining opportunities.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—Cora Tanner has been playing to big houses this week, presenting for the first time in Boston, Clinton Stewart's charming new play, "Will She Divorce Him?" The engagement closes Saturday evening. The usual Saturday afternoon matinee will be given. Commencing Monday evening, Nov. 16, an special attraction will be offered in Harry Lacy as "Jack Royal" of the 92d. Mr. Lacy will be supported by a clever company of players.

Care of The Complexion.

The following rules are collected from the most reliable sources and embody the advice of those who have studied the sanitary and aesthetic motif in "mysteries of the toilet." Follow them faithfully and you may, indeed, cry with Shakespeare "O, Beauty! till now I never knew thee!"

- "Bathe the face frequently."
- "Never bathe the face; oil rubbed with soft flannel, followed by some innocuous powder (as magnesia) renders the complexion remarkably delicate."
- "Always bathe the face in cold water. Hot water causes wrinkles and a prematurely aged appearance."
- "Never touch cold water to the face; use water as hot as can be borne. It prevents wrinkles."
- "Always use tepid water."
- "Avoid tepid water as it relaxes the muscles and makes the skin flabby."
- "Bathe the face in very hot water and immediately dash cold water upon it. This is a Russian method and insures brilliancy of complexion."
- "Give the face a hard rubbing with a crash towel after bathing; this gives a fresh color."
- "Never rub the face. Pat it dry with a soft towel or a bit of oil linen."
- "Be sure to rub the face upward when bathing; it prevents wrinkles."
- "After bathing the face use powder with a puff; starch or magnesia are harmless, but necessary to keep the skin from that shiny look which is so unattractive."
- "Those ladies who never use powder of any kind are the only ones whose complexions are attractive and wholesome in appearance."
- "Always wear a pair of old kid gloves at night. It makes the hands soft and supple."
- "Never use gloves at night. They make the hands soft, but the skin grows flabby and wrinkled," etc., etc.

Tremont Theatre Concerts.

The Boston Philharmonic Orchestra, an organization of some sixty musicians, Mr. Bernhard Listemann, conductor, Mr. Alfred DeSeve, leader, gave on Thursday afternoon of last week the first of a series of eight concerts to be given at the Tremont theatre during the present season. Until now, there has been but one regular course of orchestral concerts, and the late years increased patronage has forced the price of their tickets quite out of reach of the average pocketbook. These concerts by the Philharmonic Orchestra will meet a want in the musical life of Boston that has for several seasons been steadily growing. They are educational in a high degree. At the second concert, Thursday afternoon, Nov. 19, Mr. Listemann will appear as a soloist, when he will play the great Tchaikowsky concerto, and he will also have the assistance of that most talented of all readers, Mr. George Fiddle, who will do the text of a recent work by Grieg, "Bergliot," which will receive its first hearing in America. These concerts are all on Thursday afternoons, the remaining dates being Nov. 16, Dec. 10, 31, Jan. 14, 28, Feb. 18 and March 3. There is ample time for out of town patrons to get trains, as all concerts begin at half past two, and are out at four o'clock. The prices of tickets are 50 cents, 75 cents, $1 and $1.50. There is not a more beautiful theatre in Boston than the Tremont, and the acoustics are simply without flaw.

The Ward Seven Caucus.

There was not such a very large crowd at the Ward Seven Caucus, but they were very indignant over the new rule adopted by the Ward and City Committee, apportioning delegates on the basis of last year's vote for Mayor, instead of the usual method of giving five delegates to each ward. The new method gives Ward Seven, the banner Republican ward of the city, only four delegates to the convention, while Ward Five, a doubtful Ward politically, is given seven delegates, and could offset the votes of Wards One and Seven together with one more delegate.

The caucus was called to order by Mr. Henry Tolman, and ex-Mayor Ellison was chosen chairman and Mr. Tolman secretary.

There was a long discussion over the candidates for the Common Council, consequent on Mr. Bothfield's refusing to serve again, and nearly every man present was nominated and declined, when Mr. Levi B. Gay, who was not present, was finally chosen. Unfortunately, when the caucus left the selection to the ward committee, Councilman Weed was unanimously re-nominated.

The caucus declared in favor of Alderman Sheppard, and the voters present announced their intention of voting for Mayor Hibbard, whatever the outcome of the convention.

The new rule allowing only four delegates was denounced by Mr. John B. Goodrich as unfair, unjust, and intended solely to punish the ward for not giving a majority for the Republican candidate last year. He recommended that to enforce its protest, the ward refuse to send any delegates this year, but instead a vigorous memorial, protesting against such a method of attempting discipline. Judge Kennedy said he sympathized fully with Mr. Goodrich, but he thought the delegates should be sent, together with the memorial, protesting against the injustice of such an apportionment.

Senator Gilman also coincided with Mr. Goodrich but thought it would be unwise to allow the ward to be unrepresented.

Mr. Weed of the Ward and City Committee said it was the rule adopted in the state convention, and was introduced early in the year but was not adopted until this fall. He was opposed to the rule, and it was adopted in his absence.

Mr. A. S. Weed said he voted for Mr. Pettie last year, but he thought there was a question of Mr. Hibbard's re-nomination, and he would be glad to vote for him this year.

Ex-Alderman Tyler said that after the splendid work done by Mayor Hibbard, no one could refuse to vote for him, and Mayor Hibbard was warmly endorsed by several speakers.

The matter was finally settled by electing the delegates, with Mr. Goodrich as chairman. He declined but the caucus refused to accept, and Messrs. Tyler, S. Farquhar and French were the other members chosen. They were instructed to prepare a strong protest to present to the convention.

Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my lip of seventeen years' standing; it was cut out twice, by what they call eminent surgeons, at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not delay, but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank from the bottom of my heart.

WHAT TO EAT

is a difficult problem with many people because but few articles of food agree with them. The doctor says

AVOID GREASE and the result is unpalatable food. The reason the physician objects to grease is because lard is the article most used, and every physician knows that hog grease in any shape is unhealthy and indigestible.

Every one interested in pure and healthful food hails with joy the new product which is composed of pure cottonseed oil and pure beef suet—nothing else—not even salt. It is better than either lard or butter for all cooking purposes, and one pound of Cottoline will do as much as two pounds of lard or butter, and it costs less than either.

The Modern Game of Foot Ball.

(Boston Globe.)

The "Rugby Game" of foot ball is rapidly coming into popular favor with the American public. The intelligent observer sees in it an athletic exhibition, not of brute force, but one requiring a wonderful combination of strength, skill and intelligence. The success of the game is dependent upon the concerted and united action of every man in the team. Each member of the opposing teams has his work to do; but the success of it depends upon every other man doing his full share.

Every movement made by the team acting on the offensive is executed with a well-matured plan with a direct result in view. If it fails to accomplish its purpose it is due to the skill of the opposing team, which has intercepted and circumvented it. Of all games it is the one in which strategy plays the most important part. The contests on the defensive must be prepared to repulse attacks made in every conceivable manner. The movements of every man must be watched with the utmost care. The half-back who makes a long rush through the centre, or around the end of a line, receives the applause of the crowd, but his feat has been made possible by the combined efforts of half a dozen men who either made the hole in the centre, or protected him from attack at the end of the line. The beauty and success of the game is absolutely dependent upon an intelligent combination of individual skill and action, which is thus enabled to accomplish an intended result.

The element of chance is almost wholly eliminated, and strength and skill are sure winners. It is for this reason that the contest is decided upon the real merits of the players, and not upon the "flukes" and accidents of the game.

No man is a foot ball player. Greatness in this contest is not hereditary. The boy becomes proficient in the game only after years of careful study and practice. He must not only thoroughly know the game, but he must in addition thereto have the strength, skill, endurance and judgment that render him efficient. But all these qualities are not enough. He must also be, in the peculiar vernacular of the day, a "sandy" player; that is, he must be possessed of courage and resolution that never flinch, and are always equal to the emergency. But all these elements united will not quite suffice. He must have a temper so disciplined and under such control that if he receives a blow upon the one cheek he can with perfect resignation turn the other, rather than resent the wrongful act of his adversary. In a word, he must be willing to suffer for the good of the cause. Knowledge of the art, strength, skill, courage, judgment, watchfulness and a calm temper are combined in the person and nature of him who is famous in this greatest of athletic sports. In no other game are all these qualities essential to the highest degree of proficiency.

These exist today, to a certain extent, in a popular belief that it is a game in which brute force plays an important part, and where fistic encounters frequently occur. It is undoubtedly true that the game has sometimes been degraded by exhibitions of "slugging," but they are no part of the contest, and are never indulged in by good players. If a contestant so far forgets himself as to lose his temper and inflict wilful violence upon his adversary, he thereby demonstrates that he has not the qualities requisite to play the game. The great Harvard-Yale contest of last year was absolutely free from any exhibition of this nature. It was so because the men knew the game and respected the rules under which it is played.

This branch of athletic sport is yet in its infancy in this country. It has been developed to a wonderful extent during the past ten years, and we may expect that in the years to come it will become far more scientific than at present.

The qualities essential to the highest degree of proficiency in foot ball are equally essential to success in the great game of life, where the trained mind and body, and the disciplined temper combine to produce that true manhood which wins the respect of the world.

The best medical authorities say the proper way to treat cataract is to take a constitutional remedy, like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Nothing in the Wide World so Good.

I was afflicted with kidney disease. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y.—I say it with a perfect recollection of all that was done for me by this medicine. It gave me permanent relief. I have recommended it to many people for kidney disease and they all agree that it has not its equal for this complaint.—Lynan Crawford, Druggist, Springfield, Mass.

Puppette—"Why, here is your sister Willie. You said she wasn't at home." Willie De Peyster—"I made a mistake. I thought you was trying to collect a bill for a dry-goods house."—Clioak Review.

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.
How true some of these old sayings are! A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of scrofula, from which he had suffered two years. He gave him a little of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him a second time, the quack had left for parts unknown. Upon learning the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him.—Editor Journal and Courier.

You Can Rely
Upon Hood's Sarsaparilla as a positive remedy for every form of scrofula, salt rheum, boils, pimples and all diseases caused by impure blood. It eradicates every impurity and at the same time tones and vitalizes the whole system.

Coughing Leads to Consumption. Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once.

Jimmy—"Pa, I wish I could be a pirate and sail the Spanish main and scuttle ships." Mr. Scripps—"Well, you just take this scuttle and sail down cellar and pirate some coal from Smith's bin."—Binghamton Republican.

A woman who can see.
She's the woman who gets well. It's the woman who won't see and won't believe who has to suffer.

And it's needless. There's a medicine—a legitimate medicine—that's made to stop woman's suffering and cure woman's ailments. It's Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's purely vegetable and perfectly harmless—a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nerve, imparting vigor and strength to the whole system. For periodical pains, weak back, bearing-down sensations, nervous prostration, and all "female complaints," it's a positive remedy. It improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

No other medicine for women is guaranteed, as this is. If it fails to give satisfaction, in any case, the money paid for it is refunded. You pay only for the good you get. On these terms it's the cheapest. But more than that, it's the best.

Tickets thirty-five cents, for sale at J. J. Noble's.

—The regular Wednesday evening sociable at the Methodist church was well attended this week, and the most beautiful features of the entertainment provided was a tableau representing the ten virgins "five were wise and five were foolish." The charming young ladies in composing the tableau looked irresistibly sweet in their pure white robes and with upturned faces, and the tableau was indeed a great success. The fencing match between Edward R.

Speare of the Italian school and Mr. Hall, who has been attending the Paris Exposition, was very interesting, and Speare showed up remarkably well against his opponent. She is a pretty, vivacious brunette, and well known in New York society.

—The reception given by Mrs. Alanson Bigelow at Chestnut Hill, last week Tuesday afternoon, was a charming affair. Watson and Col. and Mrs. Henry Stone were a few of the many present.

—There was a large attendance at the Republican caucus held in Associates Hall, Tuesday evening. A characteristic of the Ward 6 Republican caucuses is the number of prominent gentlemen who invariably are present, and this caucus was no exception to the rule. Mr. Robert H. Gardner was chosen chairman of the caucus, and Mr. Frank A. Mason, secretary. The first business was the reading of a letter from the committee to represent the ward in the lower branch. Mr. Albert H. Roffe, who has served for several years, was at once chosen, and the name of Mr. Henry D. Degen was proposed and accepted. Mr. Roffe's service has been faithful and conscientious, and he has earned the respect of his associates in the council by his careful businesslike methods and progressive views during the time he has been a member of the city government. Mr. Henry D. Degen was not served in the Newton city government, but he would be a valuable acquisition either body. He has been a resident of Newton Centre for several years and is a prosperous business man of Boston. Six delegates to the mayoralty convention to be held in City Hall next Tuesday were chosen as follows: Messrs. Robert H. Gardner, Gustavus Forbes, George Warren, John Ward, E. M. Fowle and William B. Young. The convention is also to nominate candidates to the aldermanic chamber, and Mr. Avery L. Rand made a motion that the delegates be instructed to favor Alderman Harbach, who has so well and faithfully served the citizens of Ward Six, and it was the sense of the caucus by unanimous vote that the gentleman continue to serve as alderman from this ward. Mr. Rand then moved that any vacancies among those chosen be filled by the Republican ward and city committee, the caucus adopting the motion. Mr. W. B. Young thought there should be some expression as to whom the delegates should favor as a candidate for mayor, and Mr. W. M. Flannery thereupon moved that it be the sense of the caucus that the administration of Mayor Hibbard is heartily endorsed, and recommending his re-election. The motion was carried. Mr. Flannery, as treasurer of the ward committee, reported his receipts as $125 and expenditures $124.75, the money being secured by contributions from about 20 gentlemen. The only items remaining unpaid were for the use of Associates Hall for the recent rally, and a few minor bills. A generous collection was taken up before the caucus adjourned.

Feeling terribly ill he called his companion to summon a physician, but before the latter could dress he was overcome by the coal gas and fell to the floor insensible. Bissell was also overcome and managed to arouse the inmates of the house before he succumbed, and Mr. Thurston immediately did all in his power to bring them to by causing artificial respiration. The Newton Street Railway's New Car.

The Newton Street Railway Company have just added to its equipment a new closed car numbered 22. This car was built by George H. Hollingsworth, of Bever Brook, Waltham, and combines some novel features not ordinarily found in street cars, and after ideas furnished by Superintendent F. G. L. Henderson, of the railway company, who has given special attention to its construction. The length of the car body is the standard sixteen foot, with platform of extra width, 60 x 41 inches.

The aisle is also of extra width (46 inches), which gives the car a very roomy appearance. The interior finish is of oak throughout, with the exception of the door panels, which are of cherry. The window casings are also of oak and the blinds of basswood. The trimmings inside and out are of polished brass of the very latest pattern, and were furnished by the Lewis & Fowle Manufacturing Co., of Brooklyn, N. Y. The seat backs and cushions are stuffed with the best of curled hair, and covered with a dark green leather—a new departure in the upholstery of a street car, and against the oak finish gives a very rich appearance. A very handsome combination lamp is hung in the centre of the monitor roof, containing an oil lamp with heavy glass globe, surrounding which is a three-light cluster of incandescent lamps of special design, and these together with the single incandescent lamps at either end gives an unusual brilliance to the car at night. This car is also fitted with the Burton Electric Heaters, four of which are placed under the seats, two on each side. In front of each heater is an opening in the panel for the heat to escape into the car, and into each of these openings is fitted a brass grating of special design.

The car is mounted on a modern truck,
manufactured by the Bemis Car Box Company, of Springfield, Mass., and which carries the fifteen horse power motors manufactured by the Thomson-Houston Electric Co., with which the lamps at either end and the electric apparatus are all equipped. The patent Raw Hide Gears are used on these motors, which are noiseless and considered a marked improvement over the metal gearing heretofore used. Particular attention has been given to the painting and finishing of this car. The color is a dark tan, ornamental and lettered in gold and silver, the effect being very pleasing to the eye.

Take it all in all, the car reflects great credit upon the builder, Mr. Hollingsworth, who has recently started this new industry in Waltham, and this is the first car that he has turned out. We understand that he has other orders ahead,
the next to fill being a patent combination car, adapted to both winter and summer use, the seats being arranged somewhat after the style of the suburban cars used on steam railways.

taken out.

A large force of men from the water works has been put on the Tremont street sewer, and the work will now be pushed ahead. The closing of the street has caused a great deal of bad language from teamsters who drive up the street at night, only to find themselves compelled to turn back and take another route.

—Next Sunday evening, Nov. 22, in Eliot church, John G. Woolley, the reformed and converted lawyer of Minneapolis, will nar-power of the Gospel. He is a powerful orator and one of the best on the temperance platform. Everybody is invited and the seats are free. It is a rare opportunity to listen to this worthy successor of John B. Gough, who came to Newton through the arrangement of the Newton Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The first of the five musicals, to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Petersilea at their residence on Avery avenue, occurred Wednesday evening.
Nov. 18. A large company was present consisting of the most cultivated of our music lovers, and the program was all that could be desired. It consisted of a sonata for violin and piano by an old Italian composer named Mardini, played by Messrs. Novell and Petersilea, four songs from Schubert's Maid of the Mill, sung by Mr. Petersilea, six selections for piano and violin by Jensen, played by Mrs. Petersilea and Mr. Nowell, and the four hand pieces by Moszkowski, magnificently played by Mrs. Petersilea and Miss Howard of Richmond, Ind.

In Memoriam.

On Tuesday last, the burial of Mrs. Sarah Melcher Bowker, who died in Brookline the Saturday previous, took place on the home of her son, a young child, Mrs. Walter H. Stearns of Nonantum place.

Thus passes from among us one who for many years, was kindly known to multitudes of people in Boston and its vicinity.
Thirty years ago she was well-known as one of the successful business women of Boston. Her energy, perseverance and buoyant disposition made her many friends, and carried her through many trials.

After her marriage, her Boston home became the resort of many artistic acquaintances who enjoyed her beautiful hospitality. Prominent among these will be remembered the beautiful and talented singer in Oratorio, Mrs. Emma Wentworth.

Though a great sufferer for the past two years,
her indomitable will kept her always bright before her friends, and her death was most sudden and unexpected.

The funeral services were very simple and conducted by the Rev. Mr. Hornbrooke. G. H. W.

SUPERINTENDENT JONES HANDS IN HIS RESIGNATION.

The school board met in executive session
Wednesday evening to discuss the new rules, and the session lasted until 10.30. A large number were opposed to doing away with the district committee and substituting one committee of three members, and the rule failed to pass by a tie vote.

This was followed by a letter of resignation
from Superintendent Jones, in which he said:
"An executive officer cannot share his duties
with a legislative body such as a school board is.
To be effective and efficient he must be trusted implicitly. Neither his orders nor the action of his office can ever be administered by a legislative committee under whom he acts, and for whom he receives orders and directions. Every influence and efficiency, and every such interference with my orders has recently arisen which my respect and reputation do not permit me to pass over indifferently."

"Therefore I beg you to accept my resignation to take effect as soon after Jan. 1, 1892, as my successor can be elected."

The board unanimously voted not to accept the resignation, and the matter has been kept as quiet as possible.

The change to a central committee of three was recommended by those members of the board who believed that the superintendent should exercise more authority without interference. The opponents of the plan think that the change will give the superintendent too much power, and that a small committee will be unable to give the amount of time required for the general management of the primary and grammar schools of the city. It is said that the proposed change will be again referred back to the committee on revision of rules and regulations,
and that an effort will be made to effect some compromise.

The superintendent's resignation has caused quite a sensation, and was especially a surprise
for those members of the school board who opposed the abolition of the district committee system.

The Star Course.

Probably there are few people in Newton but what are aware that the Young Men's Christian Association is to conduct a Star Course of entertainments in Eliot Hall this winter; for the members of the junior department, inspired by commissions—to apply in furnishing the department rooms—as well as cash prizes for the boys selling large numbers of tickets, have hardly left an individual unsolicited.

It is quite possible, however, that many have declined to purchase without considering the real merits of the entertainments provided. A careful review of the list, as found in our advertising columns, will show some of the most popular and cultivated entertainers of today; in fact, there is not a poor one among them. The best known, perhaps,
are the justly celebrated recitationists,
Jessie Couthoun, who comes Nov. 30;
Mr. Wulf Fries, the violinist, who with the Norwegian Concert Co. is to be here Jan. 18; the poet-humorist, Fred.
Emerson Brooks, booked for Feb. 1st;
and Prof. Kelley's Tableaux d'Art Co., coming Feb. 29. The other two, Boston University Glee Club and the Fadette
Ladies' Orchestra, while not so well known here, are always popular, and are believed to be fully as worthy of patronsage as the rest.

As it is several years since Newton has had a season of so thoroughly good entertainments, the management ought to receive the encouragement of liberal patronsage sufficient to warrant the continuation of similar series in future years.

In addition to the intrinsic value of the entertainments, it should be remembered that it is one of the attractions
for our young men, which is furnished by the Association, and that all old members and all new applicants receive free admission as part of the benefits derived from their membership.

Y. M. C. A.

The young Men's Christian Association is anticipating a large attendance at the four o'clock Men's Meeting next Sunday, as John G. Woolley, Esq., the great temperance orator, is to make the address.

Mr. Woolley has just closed a very successful series of meetings in Tremont Temple, Boston. His personal experience, reformation and effective temperance work, as well as his power as a public speaker, place him, in the estimation of many, on a level with such ex-ponents of gospel temperance as John B.
Gough and Francis Murphy.

Stormy weather and other attractions
in Newton the same evening interfered somewhat with the attendance at the first of the Practical Talks of the Young Men's Christian Association, given last Monday evening.

Those who did attend, however, received much instructive entertainment
by Prof. Larsson's practical illustration of educational manual training under the "Naas" system as taught in the Boston schools.

By easy steps, from the most simple,
whittling and drawing of straight lines
and curves, pupils are taught to sharpen, handle and use tools in the construction of articles of everyday use, until they are able to not only do quite intricate mechanical work, but also to draw very creditable working plans from which to construct the desired articles.

A place for everything and everything properly in its place, as well as the correct use of the proper tools for the several parts of the work, is insisted upon.

Ladies who are familiar with the cloak establishment of Springer Brothers rarely look elsewhere for outside garments of any description. Manufacturing extensively and possessing the immense advantage of dealing exclusively in cloaks, this firm display an array of goods in this line not to be found elsewhere. See advertisement.

to instruction in pencil drawing and in oil or water color painting. Mr. Bartholomew is a resident of Newton Centre, and his high rank as an artist is well known.

Every gentleman who leaves his order with C. B. Somers, 149 A Tremont Street, Boston, will be rewarded with an elegant

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN HEAR JOHN STURGIS POTTER.

The board of aldermen met, Monday night, with all the members present, and Mayor Hibbard in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The residents of Linder Terrace petitioned for a sewer; referred to sewer committee.

H. R. Wetherbee asked for license to move a building from corner of Rogers and Centre street to Ely avenue; referred.

The order adopting the appropriation bill was reconsidered, that a provision establishing the rate of interest for unpaid taxes might be added, when it was again passed.

Orders were passed for the laying of a sewer on Gardner street from Jewett street westerly, and also on private lands, between Jefferson street and the land of the city.

ABATEMENT OF NUISANCES.

Mr. John Sturgis Potter was given permission to address the board in favor of the abatement of alleged nuisances in Wards One and Seven. He urged that appropriations be made for the removal of the drain across the Woodward estate, of which he is trustee, corner of Church and Centre streets, because the city had no legal right there and the drain itself was likely to cave in. He had consulted legal authorities and they supported him in his claim. The drain ought to have been removed when the sewer was laid as then the cost would have been slight, and now the expense would be considerable. He would like to have the matter amicably adjusted but he gave notice now that if the drain was not removed before the 10th of next month, it would be hermetically sealed, and if the matter went into court he was satisfied that it was the city that would have to pay damages and not himself.

He also requested that the city should clean the brook which flows across the 16 acres owned by him in Ward One, which was now made to carry off the drainage from 4,000 acres, and all the filth of the streets. He had appeared before the board of health, for the past two years, and at first if anything had been done the pond would have been cleaned. But now it could not. The board of health had declared the pond a nuisance, but nothing could be done as the pond was partly in Watertown. He thought the city was bound to go before the legislature and urge the annexation of this locality to Newton, so that the menace to public health could be removed. Newton had found how impossible it was to get Watertown to co-operate, in the matter of sewerage.

Mayor Hibbard said the Watertown board of health was willing to co-operate with Newton in the matter of Boyd's pond.

Mr. Potter said that the land adjacent to him was also covered with filth by the brook. He did not propose to clean it out as this would admit that it was his duty to clean it. Now he was willing to give the city drainage rights across his land, but if nothing was done this year he should get all the damages a jury would allow him.

Mayor Hibbard stated that the board of health was doing all that it could do in the premises.

There being no further business the board adjourned.

THE SECTION MEN.

THE PRIZES AWARDED BY THE HIGHWAY COMMITTEE.

The prizes offered at the beginning of the year to the section men who kept their portion of the city streets in the best condition have been awarded. The highway committee were judges, and the manner of awarding was as follows:

Each member of the highway committee visited the several sections by himself, and marked what he thought was the order of excellence, 1, 2, 3, 4, etc. After all had made the examination the papers were handed in and the numbers added up, the section having the lowest number winning the first prize, and so on.

Simon McBride of section 5, takes first money, $50, his section taking in Washington street from Cross street to Auburn street. He received 12 points.

Thomas Foran of section 8 had 14 points and takes $40. He has the square at Newton Centre.

James Mills of section 9 had 15 points and takes $30. He has the square at Newton Highlands.

Michael Magher of section 2 had 20 points and gets $25. He has Waverley avenue, from Washington to Centre.

Michael McDermott of section 7, had 21 points and gets $20. He had Centre, from Church to Ward streets, etc.

Wm. Sullivan of section 3, Washington street, including Newtonville square, had 24 points and gets $15.

The other men in the order of excellence were as follows: Section 6, 25 points; Thomas Smith, section 6, 27 points; James Mehan, section 4, 30 points; Andrew Donovan, section 10, 31 points.

It should be said, in justice to the men who did not get prizes, that some of them had sections for which a special prize was set aside. The good effect of the prizes has been so evident that it ought to be kept up. The section method of caring for the streets has certainly been a brilliant success.

The following list of the sections will show what streets have been cared for and by whom:

Section 1. Thomas Smith. Washington street, from Brighton line to Adams street; Centre street, from Watertown line to Church street, and around the bank.

Section 2. Michael Meagher. Waverley avenue, from Washington to Ward street, Sargent street, from Waverley avenue, to Centre, Ivanhoe, Kenilworth and Montrose streets.

Section 3. Wm. Sullivan. Washington street, from Adams street to Cross street, Walnut street, from Watertown to Mill street, including the square and around the depot at Newtonville.

Section 4. John Dunne. Watertown street, from Watertown line to West Newton, Waltham street, from Washington street to Crafts street, Chestnut street to Valentine street, from Washington street.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Mayor Hibbard Receives a Unanimous Renomination.

A MAJORITY AGAINST THE CHANGE IN REPRESENTATION.

The Republican convention met in the police court room, City Hall, Tuesday evening, with only a few spectators.

Chairman Gardiner called the convention to order. Mr. W. E. Sheldon was chosen to preside, and R. C. Brigham elected secretary. Messrs. Gardiner and Crane and Dr. O. E. Hunt were appointed a committee on credentials and reported 37 delegates present.

Mr. J. B. Goodrich arose and said that the delegation from Ward 7 was charged by the caucus to enter a protest against the change in the basis of representation to the city convention, and he submitted a resolution, that in the judgment of the convention, the mayoralty vote should not be made the basis of representation in city conventions.

He moved to table the resolution until the close of the meeting, but this was voted down by Mr. R. H. Gardiner and was voted down.

The resolution was then taken up, and discussed. Mr. Gardiner, chairman of the ward and city committee, said it seemed to him that the action of the ward 7 caucus was ill-timed, ill-placed, and wrong in principle. In the winter of 1890 the ward and city committee met for organization and found no rules and so rules were prepared. They were discussed in full committee, ordered printed, and a copy sent to every member. It was not thought fair to make the change in 1891, as the previous year Wards Five and Six had given a very large vote for Mayor Burr, and so they were postponed a year, and it was supposed that according to custom the Republican candidate for mayor would come from the north side of the city. He thought that the wards that stood loyally by the Republican candidate should have the largest representation.

It was said that there had been no notice of the rule, but all the members of the committee had printed copies of it, and one Newton paper had commented on it, and opposed it. Last January each of the time to attack the rule, and each member of the committee had been asked to get the opinion of his ward regarding it. He had talked with many Republicans and they had favored it. But nothing was said until the caucus. The committee had been accused of having a political motive in adopting the rule, but that was not the case. The opponents of the rule ought to have come to the committee and not have waited for the caucus. The difficulty has been with Newton that it is composed of seven distinct villages, each one going into conventions to look after its own interests, and ready to knife every other village if it does not get what it wants. Matters were improving, however, the city was becoming more united, and in Ward Six he hoped the men were big enough to look over their own ward fences. This rule was adopted for the purpose of further uniting the city and of benefiting those wards which loyally stand by the party. He believed that if the Republicans put up a good man his party should stand by him, and not follow the candidate of another party because he was a better man, and city politics would never be satisfactory until this was done. The power was in the hands of the voters and they had the matter of representation in their hands. The ward and city committee get no advice beforehand, but they always received lots afterwards. He thought the Republicans ought to stand by their ward and city committee, and not wait till they got in a hole before giving advice. It was a bad time to make this protest when Wards Five and Six were both preparing to vote for the candidate of Ward Seven.

Mr. J. B. Goodrich said he was very much gratified by the manner and spirit of Mr. Gardiner's remarks, but thought there were one or two misapprehensions. Not a word was said at the caucus of any political motive; it was said, however, that the object of this was to discipline those wards that did not stand up to the rack. Perhaps the Republican party in Newton did need discipline, if there was any practicable way of administering it. Ward Seven had the highest respect for the ward and city committee. It was singular that so few knew of the adoption of the rule, he supposed he had seen what was said in the papers, but that was the first opportunity to take public notice of it. In Ward Seven the Republicans far outnumbered those of Ward Five or any other ward save perhaps Ward Six, and in the election this year gave the largest vote for the Republican candidate for governor, and the smallest for the Democratic candidate of any ward in the city, but it is only allowed 4 delegates and Ward 5 has 7. The vote of Ward 5 last year was no test of the Republicanism of the ward. Democrats and Republicans alike voted for the Republican candidate, because he was a popular and respected resident of the ward, just as those in Ward Seven voted for Mr. Hibbard, who was a straight Republican. It was always so in city elections, and he could remember from former elections when Ward Two Republicans gave an almost unanimous vote against the Republican candidate. A city election was no test of Republicanism, but Ward Five last year was actuated by the same motive as Ward Seven. The prohibition party was the only party that did not exactly what they thought was right, but other parties had to consider what was wise, and politic, and practical, and this rule was none of these. In the senatorial convention if this had been adopted Watertown would have been shut out this year, but her delegates came in and moved the unanimous renomination of the man for whom they refused to vote last year.

This rule would not promote party loyalty, Newton was a strong Republican city in state and national elections, but in municipal elections the state was often decided by city politics had very little to do with it.

Last year the party was defeated but the opposition candidate had given such general satisfaction that voters of all parties demanded his renomination. He regretted if anything had been said which reflected on the ward and city committee, but it was exactly what their motives were good. But the old system of five delegates from each ward was the most satisfactory, and there was no demand for any change from a system that had worked so fairly, and he thought it would be productive of harmony if the rule was repealed, and a return made to the old system.

Mr. Sheldon said he had served many years on the ward and city committee, and he believed in the old method as the best one to produce harmony and peace.

Mr. Gardiner said the state or presidential vote was taken as a basis, because that would mix up city politics with matters outside of it, which would be a bad thing. The Republicans have never made a partisan issue in city politics, while all the Democrats vote solidly against the Republicans.

The resolution of Mr. Goodrich was then put to a vote, and the old method will hereafter be the rule.

BALLOT FOR MAYOR.

The vote for mayor on an informal ballot resulted in 27 votes for H. E. Hibbard and 10 for George Pettie.

Dr. Dean of Ward 5 said that last year his ward had supported enthusiastically the Republican candidate and intended to do the same this year. He moved that Mayor Hibbard's nomination be made unanimous, which was done.

ALDERMEN.

The nomination for aldermen were made by acclamation as follows:

Ward One—Louis E. Coffin.

Ward Two—George F. Churchhill.

Ward Three—Edward B. Wilson.

Ward Four—Elliott J. Hyde.

Ward Five—William F. Harbach.

Ward Six—S. A. D. Sheppard.

For Ward Four a contest was announced by ex-Alderman Johnson, who said that two of the delegates favored the renomination of Alderman Crehore and three were for Councilman Sprague.

Mr. H. N. Baker said the caucus by a large majority favored the nomination of Councilman Sprague. Alderman Crehore had assured Mr. Sprague that he was not a candidate and would not accept, and Mr. Sprague had therefore declined a renomination as councilman. It would be no injustice to Mr. Crehore not to nominate him, as he was a Democrat and would be sure to receive the full vote of the other party. As between a good Democrat and a good Republican he hoped the convention would vote for the latter.

Ex-Alderman Johnson said it was true that Mr. Crehore did not seek a renomination, but he thought that was a reason for choosing him, as the office ought to seek the man and not the man the office. Mr. Crehore has made an excellent record, and as we are to renominate Mr. Hibbard we ought to give him as far as possible the same board that has worked so well this year, and Mayor Hibbard told me that he hoped Mr. Crehore would be re-elected. He favored taking a man that had been tried and proved, and the majority of the voters of the ward were in favor of Mr. Crehore.

Mr. Pickard said the large majority in favor of Mr. Sprague at the caucus had been spoken of. The vote stood 12 to 9. A large majority of the Republicans of the ward wanted Mr. Crehore, who had not sought the place. Mr. Hibbard was what party he belonged to, and he hoped the convention would not stultify itself by refusing to vote for him for any such reason. He did not think the majority for Mr. Sprague ought to have great influence, as it was easy to secure such a vote in a thinly attended caucus.

Mr. Baker then asked a man who did not go to a caucus ought to not complain.

The Tariff is a Tax.

Every person interested in the subject of the Tariff, is cordially invited to take part in the discussions carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms, and communications of every kind, whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

A Less Obvious Evil of Protection.

Our friends the extreme protectionists have been claiming of late that the McKinley bill has not increased prices. This was the great joke of the late campaign. The McKinley bill was undoubtedly intended to increase prices. It was for that reason commended to the manufacturers who were "fried" for campaign expenses. It was so considered by President Harrison when he referred to a "cheap coat" as a powerful agency in making a "cheap man." It was expected to increase prices when it was presented as a panacea for the evil of competition by the "puper labor" of the world. If it didn't increase prices very clearly it did not do what was expected of it, and so it was a delusion and snare to the industries which were more highly "protected."

In many cases it did increase prices. In other cases the tendency has been offset by large importations before the bill was passed, by increased competition and by dull trade. In some cases where prices were tending steadily downward this tendency was simply arrested. Certain kinds of machinery are as cheap as they were before the McKinley tariff. But for that tariff they would have been much cheaper.

There are evils of protection not so obvious as the increase of prices—though obvious enough, to which attention is not so often called. Let us consider it a moment fairly and candidly.

With the wonderful machinery now in use, all the time improving in efficiency, and the desire of every manufacturer to make the most out of his plant, there is a constant tendency to make supply exceed demand. As this tendency makes itself felt competition becomes sharper and profits smaller, and finally the equilibrium is recovered by the failure of the weakest or least wisely managed establishments. This is the most ordinary of phenomena. Business goes through its regular cycles of "booms" and "depressions." That would be the case under perfectly normal conditions, but "protection" increases and strengthens that tendency. When there are plants enough to do the work required, naturally increasing every year in efficiency, increased "protection," like that of the McKinley bill, by the offer of increased prices and less foreign interference, tempt and induce the manufacturer to already occupied fields. It may get large profits for a little while, but the increase of domestic competition, severe enough before—soon drives the weakest to the wall and demoralizes nearly all the other concerns. Thus capital is sunk, and industry disturbed. The protectionists are right when they predict a lowering of prices as the result of domestic competition, but that result is attained at enormous cost. And when the depression does come to a protected country it is much more severe and lasting than a country trading with the rest of the world under natural conditions. England can unload her surplus production at a slight sacrifice to the whole world. When we have surplus goods to sell, especially in cases where we tax the crude materials used, we have made the cost of production so much larger than it is in rival manufacturing countries, that we cannot unload except at great loss. The home market is very good as far as it goes, especially when the tariff dam doesn't leak, but the sales abroad must be made in competition with sharp rivals, and we are handicapped. It is a fact beyond dispute that many articles of American manufacture can be bought in foreign countries from twenty to forty per cent less than right here at home.

So we say that a great though less obvious evil of protection—especially high protection, is the temptation to capital to go into fields which will be rapidly enough occupied without it. And that is why manufacturers should be tariff reformers. It is for their interest to have cheap raw materials, and to be relieved from a pressure of rivalry caused by artificial stimulants.

Grammar School Studies.

Mr. D. S. Farnham read an essay last Saturday before the Norfolk Masters' Club, in Boston on the subject, "The time to be given to each study in the highest grammar grade, and how many studies it is profitable to take at a time."

Mr. Farnham recommended that the work in grammar, geography, arithmetic, penmanship, spelling, drawing and natural history should largely be accomplished before the last grammar year. That these subjects should be taught with reference to the life work of the pupils instead of cramming the pupils' minds with a large lot of material for which they have little or no use in after life. In other words the essayist recommended much less time on the aforementioned subjects and more practical teaching that the pupil may know more about them in their application to the wants of life.

The essayist also suggested that the simple principles of physics and chemistry be kept along in all the lower grades as well as some knowledge of the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms of Nature, saying if the pupils have a fair knowledge of mineral and plant life and some conception of the great forces in Nature which have shaped the past and are still moving the rocks and water on the globe, his concepts of the subject of geography will be more vivid and he will more clearly comprehend all work.

Mr. Farnham suggested the subjects in the following order: Five hours per week for general history, three hours for literature, two hours each for chemistry, physics, plant life, animal life, civics, one hour each for commercial geography, arithmetic, bookkeeping, manual lessons and minerals, saying he thought there would be a more marked change in grammar school work the next five years than in the previous fifteen years, leaving the last year of the grammar school for more advanced study, such as history, literature and science, in an advanced form and civics.

NEWTON CONGREGATIONAL CLUB.

SOCIALISM AND THE CHURCH DISCUSSED BY BISHOP HUNTINGTON.

The November meeting of the club took place Monday evening in the chapel of the West Newton Congregational church. After the usual social and supper hour, an adjournment was made to the audience room of the church, which was quickly filled by members of the club and their friends. The choir sang an anthem. Rev. Dr. Calkins of Elliot church offered prayer and then President Geo. M. Fiske introduced the Rt. Rev. Frederick D. Huntington, D. D., L. L. D., Bishop of Central New York, to speak upon "Socialism and the Church."

We may treat this subject, he said, in three divisions: Political-economic, Humane-sentimental or Ethical—christian. Taking into account the fertility of our soil, the political freedom enjoyed, and other advantages and privileges common to the people of this country, is the present state of things what it ought to be? Not, is it perfect, this would be too much.

Do all have an equal chance at good work for good pay? Are all the people living together like a brotherhood? Are we in short a christian people?

There are those who claim that everything is moving along smoothly and satisfactorily, and that there is no need for anxiety or a looking forward to trouble in the future. But to those engaged in the gospel ministry there is much to cause anxiety, although there is no reason for discouragement. A multiplicity of facts should not discourage. Science is never discouraged by more facts. Our immediate danger is that we do not keep our eyes open, and we should remember to pray while we think.

The title of this address is widespread and not comprehensive. There is no department of literature where the labor question does not show itself. News, papers, books and magazines, teem with articles upon this absorbing question.

Some 30 or 40 years ago Edward Everett wrote me a note for information, that Lord Elgin wished to know what works were published on social differences. Books on these topics were then scarce; now the mere titles would probably fill a half dozen pages.

Both here and across the water we find organized labor in various forms. But in most cases they are without leadership. These organizations are the signs of uneasiness and of growing change. How shall we stop it? In this country of boasted freedom, enlightenment and intelligence, have we no answer? Will this unrest ever die out? It touches nine-tenths of our people—too many to be easily kept down.

Discussions of Christ must by sheer self-restraint, take notice of these questions. It comes up in political parties and in driving bargains with them, for it holds the balance of power. It is affecting the home policy of the English ministry, making Tory leaders advocate shorter hours of labor, etc.

Discussions of the political economy are taken from the professor's classes and find expression in the shop and field. How much better if in the beginning the church had dared to preach clearly the prophetic ministry of Christ, when He said: The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, and this was the message not for the Jews alone, but for all lands and generations and national life everywhere.

Conscience are waking up to new ownership in our churches. A prominent Massachusetts Unitarian divine is seriously thinking it may be his duty to resign his ministry as a preacher of free gospel, when the pews in God's house are owned by the individual occupants.

There are various classes in society. The rich, whose income is abundant, and who live luxuriously, those who are called well-to-do, and take life comparatively easy, those whose whole life is spent in ceaseless toil, requiring constant watchfulness to keep from absolute poverty, and those who are dependant more or less upon the kindness and bounty of others.

The doctrine of liberty for the down-trodden and struggling poor. In 90 manufacturing establishments the average wages of the employees as by report of 1888, was $440. The average earnings of the proprietors of these manufacturing was $4883.

The rich men of this country own seventy-five per cent of the property and pay twenty-seven per cent of the taxes. In New York there have been 9384 strikes and 333,900 strikers. Powell Rogers wrote in the 13th century that no laborer was so poor that his family would come to want should he be taken away before morning. There are now 25,000 unemployed in and around New York. Women sew sixteen hours a day to earn forty cents. A child ten years of age works ten hours a day at $1 a week. Capital names the price of labor.

He then treated briefly communism, anarchism, socialism, nationalism. Has this country in the one hundred years of its history made one hundred years of progress in christian civilization, and in improving the condition of all its people?

Today the country is not in so much danger from its tramps, as it is from the cautious, astute men who are worth a million or more, who never pick a lock or break into your shop, and never steal less than $50,000 at a time.

We want to make such an improvement in public opinion that will oblige our legislatures to give us better laws. Abate competition in its selfishness. The central truth in all our treatment of this subject is that its spiritual, not its material, aspects are the most important. Help men to something higher and better than just to think about what they shall eat and wear. Humanity itself in its broadest and fullest meaning, not class distinctions, should be always in our thought in the treatment of this important problem.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Mr. and Mrs. Kendall, under the direction of Daniel Frohman, and their own company, will play a two weeks' engagement at the Hollis, beginning Monday evening, Nov. 23.

The program for the first week will be as follows: Monday, "The Ironmaster;" Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, the new version of Sydney Grundy's play, "A White Lie;" Thursday matinee, (Thanksgiving day), "The Ironmaster;" Thursday, Friday evenings, and Saturday's matinee, "A Scrap of Paper," and Saturday night a double bill, consisting of two plays, "The Queen's Shilling" and "A Happy Pair." For the second and last week: Monday, Tuesday nights and Wednesday matinee, Mr. and Mrs. Kendall will appear for the first time in this city in Tom Taylor's famous comedy, "Still Waters Run Deep;" Wednesday evening (only time), "The Weaker Sex;" Thursday and Saturday nights, "All for Her;" Friday evening (only time) and at the Saturday matinee, "The Ironmaster" will be given for the last time.

GLOBE THEATRE—The Hanlons will begin a short season at the Globe Theatre on Nov. 23, producing their fairy pantomime, "Superba." This attraction has crowded the theatres in Western cities and is pronounced to be the best piece of its kind ever given to the public by the Hanlons. No less than three carloads of properties and scenery are used in it, and nearly forty men are employed in handling the stage machinery and scenery. There are few pantomime displays put upon the stage in such excellent manner as those of the world-famous Hanlon brothers. The spectacle as it was produced here last year scored an instantaneous success, and it should prove once more a dramatic event especially in accordance with this season of the year. More of a novelty than ever in its revision, it pleases young and old alike, and causes the beholder to wonder at the inventive genius and skill of the men, or set of men, who can provide such wonderfully interesting and admirable amusement.

THEMONT THEATRE—On Monday next, Nov. 23, when begins at the Tremont the last week of the engagement of the incomparably excellent organization, Russell's New Comedians, in the best production of its kind extant, there will also be a festival celebration, for that evening marks the 50th presentation in Boston of this most famous national face comedy, "The New City Directory." Manager John H. Russell, and Managers Abbey & Schoeffel have in preparation for presentation to each lady in attendance a beautiful and artistic souvenir, and the occasion will be made a grand and gala one in every possible way. The Second Festival National and especially New England's Thanksgiving, and on this day, Thursday, Nov. 26, there will be given an extra matinee at 2.

For the last week of its engagement at the Tremont, in which these two festival occasions occur, Manager Russell will present some of the most brilliant specialties, and features, and there will be many a good thing, novel and bright, for a Thanksgiving festival, while all the best and brightest of the past performance will be retained.

BOSTON THEATRE—"The Old Homestead" is as popular as ever at the Boston Theatre. Not only Boston, but all New England seems interested in the production. The run closes Nov. 28. Seats for the closing performance of this charming stage representation are sure to be in brisk demand.

It is unnecessary to rehearse at this late day the many beauties of the performance—Mr. Thompson's perfect characterization of a Yankee farmer, the excellent supporting company and the elaborate scenic effects.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—"Mr. Wilkinson's Widows" seems to have unquestionably hit the popular taste. The handsome Columbia Theatre is well filled at every performance, and the immense audience is kept in a constant deal of laughter from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The performance of the company is remarkably smooth. Every character fits the member like a glove, and the finished work of the ladies and gentlemen in the cast augurs well for the success of the Columbia's stock company. Mr. Holland, George Drew Barrymore, Mr. Burns, Miss Banker and Misses Ferguson, Wood and Grey and Messrs. Thompson, Ryley and Coleman have created a most favorable impression, and bid fair to become popular favorites with the patrons of the house. Messrs. Harris and Atkinson have mounted the play superbly. "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows" will be given until further notice.

Cancer Can be Cured, and by Dr. James H. Solomon, Jr. 75 Cornhill, Boston, Boston, Aug. 26, 1890.

Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my lip of seventeen years' standing. It was cut out twice, by what they call eminent surgeons, at intervals of six years. It has become out of control, and I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting, it would urge those afflicted with cancer not delay, but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor I thank from the bottom of my heart.

NEWSPAPER TRANSCRIPT HAS BEEN CONSOLIDATED WITH THE GRAPHIC

A DESERVED COMPLIMENT.

The renomination of Mayor Hibbard by both parties is an unusual compliment, and it is also one that is well-deserved. The Citizens have reason to feel rather exuberant at the success of their candidate, and the Republicans have shown their magnanimity and their devotion to the interests of the city, by renominating the Citizens' candidate of last year. Such a union of both parties is particularly creditable to Newton, and shows, as was remarked by Chairman Gardner at the Republican convention, that partisan feelings have no place in our municipal elections.

A city where both parties unite in endorsing an official must be well governed, and that is just the situation. Mayor Hibbard appears to have found out not only the way to City Hall, but also the way to the esteem and confidence of his fellow citizens.

We have had the past year a business man's administration, without any flourish or pretensions, but the work has been of a solid and enduring character. It has been an unusually trying year, and the chief officer of the city has needed to be a man of resolute purpose, and a fixed determination that the city's interests should be the only thing to be considered. No one, outside of the sewer committee, perhaps, knows how much time Mayor Hibbard has spent in looking after the contractor, keeping the work up to the requirements, and meeting successfully all the many obstacles that have arisen. He has not been afraid to assume any responsibility, and the committee will have no hesitation in saying that the fact that the work has progressed as it has is due in great measure to Mayor Hibbard.

In other departments many reforms have been suggested and undertaken, and thousands of dollars have been saved to the city, which was being wasted under the old methods. The committee, however, have felt that they had a power behind them which would sustain them in any emergency, and they have been inspired to do their best.

The words of commendation have been heard from all sides, from former opponents as well as from friends, and the approval of the people was so evident, that the conventions held this week had only one thing to do, and that was to give Mayor Hibbard a unanimous renomination.

THE ALDERMEN.

This session has been a very unanimous year, as both parties have not only the same candidates for Mayor, but also the same candidates for aldermen in all but two of the wards. While they were about it they ought to have had complete unanimity and re-nominated both Aldermen Hyde and Crehore, who have served the city well the past year and earned the honor of a second term quite as fully as those who have been re-nominated from the other wards.

In Ward Four there is an unfortunate condition of affairs. Both of the nominees are excellent men and Councilman Sprague has done good service in the lower branch, where he would have been unanimously returned had not Mr. Crehore's position been misunderstood. The latter did not seek the office in the first place and he did not seek a re-nomination. But his constituents were so well satisfied with his services that they took the matter out of his hands and insisted on his serving again. Such men as ex-Aldermen Johnson and E. L. Pickard, than whom Ward Four has no more public spirited citizens, or men more deeply interested in the welfare of the city, warmly advocated Mr. Crehore's name before the Republican convention and he received 16 votes to 20 for Mr. Sprague. In the Republican caucus he had 9 votes to 12 for Mr. Sprague, and in the Citizens' caucus he was the unanimous choice, and was nominated in the Citizens' convention. As it is an old established rule in the city to give an official a second term, if his services have been satisfactory, it would be an extremely undeserved treatment if Mr. Crehore does not have the honor of a re-election. There is a principle and a sense of justice at stake in the matter which will appeal to the voters. It is unfortunate for Mr. Sprague, but another election will come next year, when his claims will receive generous consideration.

In Ward Five the contest of last year is renewed, but Alderman Hyde's position is much stronger than then, as he has been one of the most faithful and efficient members of the board of aldermen, and his services have been of great value to the city. We have before alluded to the work he has done as chairman of the public property committee, and there is no question but that the city buildings are in a better condition than ever before. Mr. Hyde is prompt, energetic, and full of resources, and the city can not afford to dispense with his services, to take those of a gentleman who is not familiar with the recent work of the city government. Nothing can be said against Dr. Thompson, but the reasons that existed last year for the election of Mr. Hyde have been more than doubled in strength by his service the past year.

The board of aldermen will be sufficiently weakened by the retirement of Aldermen Fenno and Luke, without further impairing its efficiency by placing new men in the chairs of Mr. Hyde and Mr. Crehore, who have proved their value to the city by one term of faithful service, and whom the city cannot afford to lose. As Mayor Hibbard is to be given a second term he should have a majority of the old board of aldermen, who have assisted him so faithfully this year, as possible, in order that his second administration may have every advantage.

The contributions of Hospital Sunday have shown a steady increase, and it is hoped that this year they will be especially liberal, as this deserving charity, Newton's only home mission work, is in need of funds. In 1888, the contributions were $2,176.64; in 1889, $2,350.95, and in 1890, $3,473.32. All can afford to give something to help the poor and suffering, and if all would give according to their ability, the Hospital would be placed on a sure footing for the coming year.

INDEPENDENT VOTING.

The effort of the Republican ward city committee to reform the evil of independent voting, by changing the basis of representation in city conventions, was not very successful, and the convention Tuesday night voted to return to the old method of allowing five delegates to each ward.

The evil, if it is an evil, is too deep-seated for any attempts at cure. There are some voters who would vote for any candidate labelled Republican, and others who would vote against any such candidate, but the great majority of Newton voters in a city election, vote simply and solely for the candidate they consider the best man, without any regard to the party that nominated him, and they will continue to do so whatever rules are adopted.

The ward and city committee might just as well look at the matter philosophically, and follow the usual practice themselves. It is to this cause more than to any other that we have always had such an excellent city government. It is easy enough for any one to get a nomination in the thinly attended caucuses, but to secure a nomination is very different matter, and a man has, in most cases, to deserve the honor, and be a better man than his antagonist.

Men who are the stiffest kind of partisans in state and national elections become the most pronounced mugs in city elections, and take pride in it, in anything that would prevent such a state of things would be very unfortunate for the best interests of the city. Now, if one party is careless, the other party corrects the error, and the result is one of the best city governments in New England.

Of course, this uncertainty and independence is very aggravating to the party managers, but if they rise above party to patriotic considerations, they will see the great benefits of such a state of things, and be very careful to do nothing which shall interfere with the perfect liberty now enjoyed by the voters. The Republican convention, however, took this view of the situation, and hereafter any ward can cast its whole vote for any favorite son, without having its representation in a city convention interfered with.

The city clerks of several cities in the Commonwealth, we are in session this week, and adopted resolutions upon the unsatisfactory working of the statute of last winter relative to the verification of the count of votes, and appointed a committee to consider and recommend legislation to prevent the delay which seems unavoidable by the present method.

One proposition is understood to be the appointment of counting officers, who shall commence their work at 11 o'clock a.m. and continue so that at the close of the polls, the count could be readily made up. Another proposition is to use the deputy officers in counting after the polls close. This would serve the present requirement of verification, which in cases of recounts has shown the work of the election officers to have been absolutely correct, and the points of difference between them and the recounting board being in determining the intention of the voters upon ballots not marked in the square opposite the name. It is evident that new legislation is necessary, and the matter is of such vital importance as to require the most careful consideration.

The fact that Councilman Boettchell has finally been prevailed upon to accept a re-nomination is fortunate both for Ward Seven and for the whole city. He has been one of the strongest men in the lower branch of the City Council, this year, and his usefulness would be much greater in his second term. His refusal was a positive enough, but when he saw all the men in his ward, together with many from the other wards, coming into his place of business every day, he had to yield. There was no other way of getting rid of them, and although Mr. Boettchell has more decision of character than most men it did not avail him in this case. If he was not so useful on the floor, he should be made president of the board, and the place would probably be given him without a contest, if he desired it. The choice will probably be between him and Mr. Roffe of Ward Six, who has seen longer service, and is a close rival of Mr. Boettchell in point of usefulness and intelligent care for the interests of the city.

It looks as though the neighboring cities of Boston and Cambridge would follow Newton's example and elect their present mayors without much opposition. In Boston, Mayor Matthews has given a clean and business-like administration, and has inaugurated reforms which his predecessors claimed it would take years to accomplish. In Boston, they have not yet reached our non-partisan way of looking at municipal affairs, and so his political opponents publicly condemn Mayor Matthews, while privately they admit that he is one of the best officials Boston has ever had. In Cambridge, Mayor Alger's excellent administration has disarmed the opposition, and he will be re-elected almost without a struggle. It is a great year for mayors who have served only one term, and among them all there is none who has shown himself the superior of Mayor Hibbard.

The puzzle of so many Newtons was what troubled a Boston Post reporter the other day, and his experiences we give in another column. The puzzle was evidently not solved, for he talks about going back from Upper Falls to West Newton to get a train for Newton Highlands; of getting off at Newton Centre and walking down Walnut street to Newtonville, and of doing many other curious things, which seems to show that he has not yet recovered from his bewilderment. Nevertheless, his story has some very amusing features.

The contributions of Hospital Sunday have shown a steady increase, and it is hoped that this year they will be especially liberal, as this deserving charity, Newton's only home mission work, is in need of funds. In 1888, the contributions were $2,176.64; in 1889, $2,350.95, and in 1890, $3,473.32. All can afford to give something to help the poor and suffering, and if all would give according to their ability, the Hospital would be placed on a sure footing for the coming year.

Hon. Alden Spear and Col. E. H. Haskell are prominent in the movement inaugurated by the business men of Boston to oppose the issuing of free passes to legislators, executive officers and the judiciary, and they will ask the next legislature to enact a law, making the giving, asking or receiving of such passes a misdemeanor, with suitable penalties. It is certainly to be hoped that these efforts will meet with success.

The "Republican Temperance Guard" is the name of a new organization, formed in Boston this week, of those who think the Republican party that neglected the temperance issue in the past campaign. The object is to use all proper influence to suppress the saloon, and also to insist on the enforcement of existing temperance laws, and see that they are strengthened rather than weakened. Hon. William Claflin is one of the vice-presidents.

HOSPITAL Sunday has its claims upon all, and those who do not attend church next Sunday can send their contributions direct to the treasurer, Mr. George S. Bullens.

WARD Three heads the list with four candidates for the Common Council. Other wards think they are lucky if they can find two men who will serve.

TUESDAY, Dec. 1st, is the date of the city election, and it promises to be an unusually harmonious affair, for Newton.

THE CITIZENS' CONVENTION.

Mayor Hibbard Renominated with Enthusiasm.

INDEPENDENT NOMINATIONS MADE IN ONLY TWO WARDS.

The Citizens' Convention was held Wednesday evening, in the City Council Chamber, Mr. Samuel Shaw called to order, and Mr. W. F. Follett was chosen chairman.

On taking the chair, he congratulated the convention on the success of the Citizens' movement, which had steadily grown in Newton until to-day it embraces a large proportion of the best citizens. It had always endeavored to present candidates whose character stood so high as to be a guarantee of the good faith of the movement, and such an honorable record ought to maintain in the future. Our candidate for mayor of last year has been so successful that he has been unanimously renominated by the Republicans, and no higher compliment to the Citizens' party than that could be given. Mr. George Linder was chosen secretary, and Messrs. John E. Briston, Bernard Early and Samuel Shaw were the committee on credentials.

Nominations for the school board were made as follows:—
Ward One—Chas. A. Drew and Willard G. Brackett.
Ward Two—Mrs. Mary R. Martin and Wallace C. Boyden.

For aldermen the following nominations were made:— Ward One—L. E. Coffin.
Ward Two—Geo. F. Churchill.
Ward Three—Mr. E. E. Burdon announced that the Ward Three delegates had no candidates to present, and no one was nominated.
Ward Four—F. M. Crehore.
Ward Five—Dr. E. Thompson.
Ward Six—W. F. Harbach.
Ward Seven—S. A. D. Sheppard.

FOR MAYOR.
Nominations for mayor were called for, and Mr. George B. Jones presented the name of Mayor Hibbard. He said two years ago, the Citizens nominated him, and he received a hearty vote, which was so large as to be a great compliment to the ward and the city. Last year he was again nominated and elected, and he had served with credit and satisfaction to the citizens. The nomination was seconded with applause from all parts of the hall, and was made by acclamation.

THE STRANGER WITHIN OUR GATES.

"Go down," said the editor, "into the city of Newton and there interview a man."

Wholly without suspicion I went down and sought the man.

A baggage huster stood on the platform, and when the train had passed on and left us alone I asked him if he knew where the man lived. He looked thoughtful and said he did not. So I followed the streets complacently and remarked their beauty and that of the residences, and of the necessarily happy lot of those who live there, for, seeing it was not a large place, I anticipated no trouble in locating the man. But though I asked the occasional passer-by none knew him, and I returned to the ticket seller and put the question to him.

"This place," he said, "is called Newton, to be sure, but its name is Newton Corners. Probably if you go to West Newton, where is the City Hall and principal offices, you will find him. It is only two miles further." I took the train and went on through Newtonville to West Newton, and still with considerable confidence I found the City Hall and went in and asked the clerk if he knew where the man lived.

"There is a man of that name living at Newton Falls I think," he said.

"Newton Falls?" said I.

"Yes."

"And no such man lives here?"

"Not that I know of."

"And where is Newton Falls?"

"Only a matter of three or four miles. You go down on a branch line. You can get a train there in a few minutes."

"You know to a certainty that this man lives at Newton Falls?"

"Oh yes, I know him very well. He lives at the Falls all right."

"Will you swear to it?"

"He said I had no right to ask him to do that, and seemed to be getting angry about it, and I had to take some pains to show him that I was the party who had a right to do that. A little flushed with the debate I went and plunged some more money into a ticket for Newton Falls."

"Now," said I in a cool, determined way, "I want you to tell me where this man lives, sir."

"He was a pale little man, and I felt that I could allow myself some freedom in the conversation this time without having to make tiresome explanations."

"Suppose I don't know?" he asked a little nervously.

"That won't serve my purpose," said I. "I expect you to know every man in the town. Every other man knows you and I am getting very anxious about this man. I have almost an affidavit that he lives here. This is Newton Falls is it not?"

"Yes, sir; this is Newton Lower Falls."

"Newton Lower Falls?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is there a straight, plain, simple Newton Falls?"

"No, sir."

"Is there a Newton Upper Falls?"

"You see I am a stranger."

"Oh, yes, sir."

"Yes, sir, what?—that you see I am a stranger?"

"That there is a Newton Upper Falls."

"Do you ever gamble?"

"No, sir."

"Because I would like to bet you that this man lives at Newton Upper Falls. How do you get there?"

"Of course that was trifling, and I had little time for that. I remained there until convinced that the man did not live in Newton Lower Falls and then I drove across country and a couple of miles to Newton Upper Falls and there found that the man's place of business was closed and that he had gone home."

I remained perfectly calm in the presence of the man who told me this and simply asked, "Where is his home?"

"He lives in this city somewhere, but really I don't know just where," he said, almost unmoved.

"In Newton," said I, almost as though pleased. "I had supposed I was in the town's last track. Is there really some more of it?" and I told him my experience.

"If I were you, then," he said, "I would go over to West Newton where you have already been, and take the train for Newton Highlands."

I did so. I was prepared to take the baggage huster the changes on Newton, and was somewhat startled when he sprang Auburndale, then Riverside, Woodland, Waban and Eliot on me in quick succession. "See here," I said, "I must be on the wrong train. I want to go to Newton Highlands."

"Not at all, sir," he said, "it is the next station."

"Well, can you tell me if this man lives there?"

"No, sir, he does not." Then the train stopped and the baggage huster jumped off and helped some people to the New form, and jumped on again as it started.

This man had the advantage of me and I knew it. I was disposed to conciliate him. "I bought a ticket to Newton Highlands," I said. "We have passed that, and cannot even hope that there are any more of them, and don't seem to be getting to the end even now."

"You! My dear sir, Newton Centre is about two miles from here. This is Newtonville."

"Great Scott! Two miles from Newton Centre! And what of this man?"

cried, grabbing him by the lapel of the coat.

"Oh, you're all right about that. That light, there, is his window."

But I passed Newtonville early this morning and have been riding in railway trains and wagons ever since."

"Perhaps you'd have done better to have stopped here this morning. This is Newtonville and there's your man."

"I saw the man and got back to the station and inquired anxiously about a train for Boston. If you are in a hurry take this one just coming," said the ticket agent.

When the brakeman a few minutes after looked in and yelled "West Newton!" I was uncertain whether I was going coming. A minute or so later announced "Auburndale and I went out to the platform."

"See here man," said I, "I want to go Boston and you are carrying me away from it."

"Just keep your seat," he said, "and you'll get there," and he came in and explained after we passed Newton Highlands and Newton Centre again, that this was a circuit road that touched them nearly all and that W. L. Street led back to Newtonville, less than two miles away, while we had travelled eight and that now, from that point, we were bound straight for Boston. My experiences such as I had seen that day were not all reserved for

THE STRANGER.

NEWTON Y. M. C. A.

ITS FOURTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

The 14th anniversary of the Newton Y. M. C. A. was observed Sunday afternoon in Eliot Hall. The exercises commenced at 3 o'clock, and at that hour the auditorium was completely filled, nearly 1000 persons being present. Mr. Hugh Campbell presided, and the order of service was as follows:

Congregational singing, "Come Thou, Almighty King;" scripture reading, Rev. G. W. Shinn, D. D., rector Grace church, Newton; prayer, Rev. D. W. Faunce, D. D., pastor West Newton Baptist church; singing, "Lord's Prayer;" Temple quartet; report of President, George A. Flint; singing, "The Star of Love;" quartet; review of year, Mr. A. F. Barrett, general secretary; selection, "Remember Now Thy Creator;" Temple quartet; addresses, Mr. Henry Bond, president of the Y. M. C. A., of West Newton; Rev. E. B. Webb, D. D., of West Newton; "Lead Kindly Light," Temple quartet; prayer and benediction, Rev. Samuel Jackson, pastor of the M. E. church, Newtonville.

General Secretary Barrett's report is appended:

As a report of the year's work is in print, and has already been placed in your hands, little remains for me to do but comment briefly upon the more important features.

The first noticeable event recorded is that of re-organization and incorporation.

This is of most vital importance. First, because it indicates the popular sentiment of the community, which demands—and has the right to demand—that, however much interest and activity the individual members may have in any kind of mission, charitable or philanthropic work, as an association we must devote our energies, and the money entrusted to our care, to specific work for young men, and for them only. And, second, because it gives us a better standing in the community, placing legal as well as moral obligations upon us to do this work we have undertaken in a business like way, with definite responsibility for all financial affairs, providing for the proper care and use of any property given to, or in any way acquired by the association.

The securing of subscriptions amounting to $2000 for the current expenses of this work, besides indicating the earnestness of purpose of the solicitors, and sacrificing spirit of the donors, recorded the helpful sympathy of the citizens of Newton for its young men; and to them, on behalf of the young men, I would express our hearty appreciation.

Calling a general secretary was the next most natural step; the wisdom of the selection, however, must be largely left for the future to determine.

Of his experience thus far, permit me to say, that in the directors and members he has always found a helpful spirit of co-operation, and that the cordial Christian welcome, and the interest in our work so substantially manifested by the ladies, an inspiration and courage for renewed effort.

Of the assistance provided by our lady friends in furnishing the rooms, to their honor let me state, that from less than $200, we have secured a fine hall, and more than six hundred dollars in cash and subscriptions, besides articles of use and ornament, were obtained in about four weeks.

We have not many means all we want in the way of furnishing, but our rooms are attractive, and we hope to add from time to time as the liberality of our friends permit.

Opening our rooms so far into the summer, June 25th, we had anticipated only a very small attendance, but were agreeably surprised to find that from the very first, young men came in such numbers, that, allowing for reasonable increase as the evenings lengthened, we should soon be overcrowded if larger accommodations were not provided.

Consequently an additional room was hired, and opportunity offering a small hall for meeting and entertainment purposes.

Our mid-week prayer service, commencing early in July, has been maintained through the hot weather and up to the present, with an average attendance of fifteen.

We are glad to note, that for several weeks there have been present a number of non-Christian young men, and that its influence, and that of the companionship found in our rooms, is proving helpful in the daily lives of some.

Mr. Yatman's evangelistic work is so recent and was so well advertised, but little need be said regarding it.

He was invited to Newton by our committee for the express purpose of arousing young men to active Christian work.

At the solicitation of others, general evangelistic work was carried on during the last week of his stay.

Before coming, he positively refused to name any price for his services, and persistently declined receiving any financial remuneration other than what should come in free will offerings.

Such offerings were taken.

What they amounted to we do not know, as they were handed to him in bulk as taken.

Our financial statement simply covers the contributions toward expenses, and our payments for advertising, hall rent and incidentals.

Many young men were aroused to active work.

More than ninety young men and boys, and a number of others were at that time led to confess Christ.

In a very large proportion of cases we know the conversions were genuine.

Some have already united with the churches.

Every pastor and Sunday school superintendent in Newton has had free access to a complete list of all the names given, and church preferences indicated.

Sunday afternoon men's meetings have been continued during the fall, though they have not been as fruitful or as well sustained, as hoped for.

These, and the mid-week prayer service, will be continued for the present, however, and a Bible training class organized in December.

The number of young men who frequent our rooms is increasing.

Our course of entertainments and series of practical talks will be found interesting and instructive.

With the co-operation of all the young men interested, it need be but a short time before we have a fairly good gymnasium, while if earnest effort is put forth, the association should control the best athletic grounds in the city, ere another summer.

All of our work, properly conducted, would aid to improve the spiritual, mental and physical condition of Newton's young men.

Just before the close of the Yatman meetings, two boys came to me for conference regarding an organization of Christian boys for helpful companionship.

A meeting was appointed for those interested, and after some discussion a committee was selected who prepared the following petition which was signed by twenty-nine boys:

"Twenty-nine boys, I wish to call attention to the facts, that the idea of organization and the details of this petition were original with, and were executed by the boys; so far as known no older person doing anything more than approve or disapprove suggestions made by various boys."

THE PETITION.

To the Directors of the Newton Y. M. C. A.:

We the undersigned are Christian boys, and would like to form an organization and be the Boys' Branch of the Newton Y. M. C. A.

With God's help we wish to help others, and those boys who are not Christians.

We want advice from the older members of the association, and help in Bible study.

We would like a place to hold our meetings in, and also one in which we can play games, read papers and books, such as will be attractive and helpful.

We wish to pay a reasonable fee for the privileges we ask for.

This petition was brought before our directors, who made provision for the foundation of a junior department of the association, which to-day has a paid membership of thirty boys.

Since Mr. Yatman left us, weekly Gospel meetings have been conducted by the boys, boys volunteering to lead the singing, and the work of the day is being carried on by the boys, with no one boy having charge twice up to that time.

So far these meetings have had an average attendance of twenty-five; and four boys have through their influence been led to accept Christ.

An older person is always present to guard against improper influence or teaching; otherwise the boys are left free to conduct them in their own way.

We have now made arrangements to grant the boys limited privileges in the association; providing separate rooms, games, and papers, which they have the use from three to six o'clock daily.

Thus you have before you a brief "Review of the year."

That errors have been made we do not doubt, but, measured by the scripture standards of fruitage, for "Men do not eat grapes of thorns or figs of thistles;" we believe this vineyard of the Master's vineyard is proving worthy of cultivation.

In the future, more than in the past, we hope to have courage, not only to undertake any line of effort which promises success, but also to discontinue any work that reasonably experiment has proved unfruitful. Striving always to "Trust in the Lord with all our hearts, leaning not to our own understandings."

Scrofula

Is the most ancient and most general of all diseases. Scarcely a family is entirely free from it, while thousands everywhere are its suffering slaves. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had remarkable success in curing every form of scrofula. The most severe and painful running sores, swellings in the neck and groin, humor in the eyes, causing partial or total blindness, yield to the powerful effects of this medicine. It thoroughly removes every impurity from the blood.

Scrofula

"My little daughter's life was saved, as we believe, by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before she was six months old she had 7 running scrofula sores. One physician advised the amputation of one of her fingers, to which we refused assent. When we began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla, a marked improvement was noticed and by a continued use of it her recovery was complete. And she is now, being seven years old, strong and healthy." B. C. JONES, Alna, Lincoln County, Me.

"In 1850 I was attacked with Inflammatory Rheumatism of the severest type. I passed all the phases of this terrible disease, using all kinds of medicines and employing a host of physicians, but receiving nothing but temporary relief. In 1884 I was drawn out of shape to the extent of great deformity, and was told by a leading physician of Providence, R.I., that no power on earth could save me from Paralysis of half my body. I began in 1889 to take DR. DAM'S VEGETABLE REMEDY and having given it a faithful trial, I can say that for the last six months I have enjoyed better health than any time during the past 40 years. I am now free from lameness; I have no pains or aches; all my Rheumatism is gone and I regard myself as completely CURED." N. D. OATLEY.

A PROTEST FROM AUBURNDALE.

AGAINST THE MILLS DRAWING OFF THE WATER OF THE CHARLES.

The most popular water resort in the vicinity of Boston is the Charles river between Newton Lower Falls and Waltham. It is a beautiful natural water park, but it has one serious out, which also affects the comfort and health of the neighboring communities. This trouble comes from the low state of the water during part of the summer. At such times the low flats are uncovered and lie festering in the sun, an offence to the surrounding country.

The nuisance was especially marked during the season just passed, and residents of Auburndale have become aroused to take some action toward an abatement of the trouble. To this end a petition has been signed by some 40 of the leading residents of the village, and it will be presented to the Newton board of health. It prays that some action be taken that will lead the mill company at Waltham owning the dam to refrain from drawing off the water in the river below a certain point, thus keeping the flowed marshes under water at all times.

The corporation asked to do this is largely responsible for the state of affairs complained of, for the offending marshes were made such by the company's dam, which flowed the low lands, meadow and woodland for miles above the mills. The river is conspicuous for its broad, shallow bays and coves, which reach out in all directions from the channel. Many of them are filled with stumps of trees and others with vegetables growth of a smaller kind. When the water begins to fall the mill corporation draws upon the accumulated supply gathered by the dam. The land flowed by means of the dam are once more exposed, and a terrible stench arises from the black, rotting mud and slime.

There may or may not be a direct connection between the unusually foul condition of the river this past summer and the marked increase of malaria in Auburndale this fall. That this malady has been unprecedentedly prevalent too many unfortunates can testify. It is true that it has also affected regions where there is no river to create a nuisance, but this does not prove that the riparian marshes are not a potent factor in the trouble in this part of Newton. The digging up of the streets for the new sewers, to which so much has been charged, cannot be held accountable in this case, for the work has not begun in this ward. But whatever may be said in connection with this specific disease, it will hardly be claimed that acres of mud covered by rank vegetation can be anything but prejudicial to the health of the thickly settled community on their borders.

Beside this effect on the town as a whole, there is that upon the residents near the banks. To them the stench is extremely disagreeable. A minor consideration is the interference with the use of the stream as a pleasure resort, which it is for thousands during the warm weather.

The remedy proposed by the petitioners is a simple one, and the only question about its adoption is one of dollars and cents. It is that the water should never be used by the mills below six inches from the top of the flashboards. This it is believed, would keep the water at a height sufficient to cover the flats and prevent their exposure, with the consequence. The mills would lose the use of the foot and a half of water lying between the six-inch limit and the two-foot mark, to which it is customary to draw it now. This loss would occur once, and possibly twice, a season, for the mill is no better off when once it has used the water to the lower limit than it is when it has reached the higher mark, unless the river rises and fills in the intervening space, which it is not likely to do more than once during the summer. Therefore the corporation's loss may be measured by the cost of producing by steam the power to be obtained from that foot and a half of water.

It being, therefore, an issue between a money value and the public health and comfort, it is held by Auburndale people that the latter is paramount, and that the nuisance should be abated. In brief, they say: "The mill corporation created the nuisance; it should remove it."

A Fool and His Money Soon Part.
How true some of these old sayings are. A friend of mine paid a travelling quack $50 to cure him of Scrofula, from which he had suffered over two years. He gave him a bottle of stuff which only aggravated the disease. When he went to consult him a second time, the quack used of the same stuff. Under the circumstances I recommended Sulphur Bitters. Five bottles cured him.—Editor Journal and Courier.

—A very pretty quiet wedding took place
Monday morning at the house of Mr.
Beulair on Ripley street. The contracting parties were Charles S. Farnham of this village and Blanche Beulair. Soon after the ceremony the happy couple started for Portland, Maine, where they will reside at present. Mr. Farnham is in business with the N. E. Telephone Co. A large number of useful and novel gifts were received by the newly wedded couple.

—There was a fair attendance Monday evening at the Citizens' caucus and there was no contest whatever over the nominations. Mr. George Linder was chairman and Mr. A. J. Carvel secretary. Coun-cillman Albert H. Roffe was unanimously re-nominated and Gustavus Ulmer was chosen the second member. The delegates

ted as to their choice for mayor and alder-

the choir of the Baptist church of this village, has placed in this week's issue of the GRAPHIC, an advertisement to which special attention is called. Mr. Daniels has been for several years a pupil of Mr.
Lyman W. Wheeler, and has taught successful the past three years in Allston and Boston. Those privileged to hear Mr.
Daniels at the regular Sunday service of the Baptist church, and on numerous special occasions where he has generously tendered his services, will attest to the unusual sweetness and purity of his voice and the thoroughness of his method. Any one contemplating the cultivation of the voice, will do well in placing themselves under Mr. Daniels' instruction.

—Mrs. Sarah Stevens died at her home on Ward street Monday at the age of 73 years.

held yesterday at two o'clock, Rev. Dr.
Furber and Rev. T. J. Holmes officiating.
The interment was at Newton cemetery.

—On Monday evening, Nov. 18th, a pleasant and profitable lecture on the subject "From London Bridge to the Castled Rhine by Bicycle" was delivered by Mr.
Prescott Ford Jernegan, a member of the senior class of the Theological Institution, in the chapel of the Baptist meeting-house.
The lecture was given under the auspices of the Baptist Young People's Union. In spite of the inclement weather an audience of over a hundred persons assembled.

—The illness of Dr. Sylvester, which for more than a week has caused so much anxiety among a wide circle of patients and friends, seems at this date to have passed the critical stage and strong hopes are now entertained for his recovery.

—Who is associated with Dr. Sylvester, is about to take up his residence at the corner of Institution avenue and Beacon street, but during the illness of Dr. Sylvester, may be consulted by any who may desire at Dr.
Sylvester's office from 9:30 to 10:30 in the morning, and from 4:30 to 5:30 in the afternoon. Calls will receive attention if left at Dr. Sylvester's residence as usual.

—The china exhibition given on Wednesday and Thursday by Miss A. R. Bassett at her residence on Parker street was well attended by the ladies of the village and many friends from out of town. Miss Bas-sett's china is of the greatest variety of shapes and decorations, the collection making a very attractive and beautiful display,
being arranged in artistically with draperies, colored lamps, etc. Some of the china is very elaborate, while others are admired
for the extreme simplicity and delicacy.
Miss Bassett is a successful teacher and designer of china, and all who saw the exhibition call it a remarkably beautiful one.

—On the corner of Lanark and Kilbuck roads, Chestnut Hill, Mr. F. O. Woodruff will build for himself a handsome home upon land recently purchased from the Aberdeen Land Company. It will be strictly colonial in style and from plans by Mr. W. F. Goodwin. Through the centre extends a broad hall, with the stairs at the further end, and wainscoted in panelled
oak. In a cozy nook, with easy compelling seats, is a wide cheerful fireplace, and directly opposite is the library. Next to the bathroom, toward the front of the house, is the reception room in which gold, the vis-a-vis being the dining room, with its quartered oak wainscoting and timbered ceiling. Four chambers and a studio, together with dressing and bath rooms, occupy the second floor, and on the third are chambers and a billiard room.
There are fireplaces in all the rooms down stairs and in some of those above. H. H.
Hunt is the builder.

—The first in the series of informal gatherings which the Centre Club has inaugurated as one feature of the place for the entertainment of its members, with their friends the coming winter, was held on Monday evening last. Once to hear Miss Bertha Smith's playing upon the zither is always to remember, and her brilliant and artistic rendering of three difficult selections, brought vividly to mind
the conquest she gained over the audience
when so heartily recognized her talents, the evening of the Old Folks Concert last winter. To have heard her again was an opportunity to be coveted. Mr.
Marchand gave an informal talk upon "Wheat Fields of Dakota," which was illustrated with views and specimens from the Bad Lands. Altogether the evening was a pleasant harbinger of what is promised at frequent intervals during the winter, and it is to be hoped the members will avail themselves of, and secure to their friends, the privilege of attendance.

acquaintances by whom they were held in high esteem.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Guild while driving near E. P. Sawyer's residence last Saturday, met with a fearful accident and a narrow escape from instant death by being thrown from their carriage. This accident was caused by the breaking of the harness and the consequent fright of the horse. They are doing as well as could be expected
after such an experience.

—It is hoped that every one will not eat so much dinner Thanksgiving that they cannot enjoy an oyster supper a week from that day in the hall. But if they can not with Mr. Joseph I. Smith as chairman and distributed with the names of Messrs. E.

Moulton and F. W. Turner written upon them for councilmen from the ward. This action created displeasure among those who wished to vote their own mind and especially among the Upper Falls citizens who strongly favored C. B. McGehee of Waban for one councilman, and they made the claim that the Highlands were trying to run the caucus. Paper was procured and ballots written by these persons and the result of the balloting showed twenty-eight votes for E. Moulton, twenty-three votes for C. B. McGehee and twenty-two votes for F. W. Turner. The delegates were chosen on the same ballot and the friends of Mr. McGehee were jubilant over

NEWTON LOSES A MATCH.

B. A. A. TEAM TOO MUCH FOR THE GARDEN CITY BOWLING REPRESENTATIVES.

An interesting match in the Massachusetts Amateur Bowling League series was played on the Boston Athletic Association alleys, Boston, last Friday evening, between the B. A. A. and Newton club teams.

The home players gained a lead over their opponents of 60 pins in the first string, which they increased to 108 in the second, and won the match by 155 pins.

The game was lost to the Newtons in part owing to poor work in getting single pins. For the Athletics, Hill and Wood made big scores, the former knocking down 550 and the latter 541 pins. In the first two strings Hill made only two breaks, and he was successful in getting his strikes together. Wood put up a great game, and missed very few single pins.

Savage made the best score for the visitors, and secured the best combination shot of the match, knocking down the left corner and two middle pins on a second ball.

Follett captured the left corner and middle pin for a spare, and some fine cluster shots were made by Carr, Lawton, Hill and Brown. Hill's average for the match was 185.3; Wood's, 180.3; Savage's, 166.3.

The visiting players had a streak of hard luck in leaving "families," but little of that sort of misfortune attended the efforts of the home bowlers, who secured several unexpected strikes and spares on comparatively poor balls. The team work of the B. A. A. men, however, was much better than that of their opponents and the victory was won by their superior bowling.

The score in detail is appended, with the summary of strikes, spares and missed spares:

ON THE NEWTONVILLE ALLEYS.

CHELSEA REVIEW'S BEST TEAM BEATEN IN A WELL PLAYED MATCH.

An interesting match in the Massachusetts Amateur Bowling League series was played at Newtonville Monday evening between the Chelsea Review and Newton club teams. The visitors presented their strongest aggregation of bowlers, the team comprising Tent, Barnes, Field, Slade and Davis. No change was made in the Newton team. Its make-up was the same as in the initial contests, being, in fact, the same complement of players who represented the Newton club in the inter-club league last season.

The bowling was of a steady character, with less bad breaks than in the general run of contests, and a feature was the excellent work of the home team in getting single pins. Some pretty combination shots were made by Savage, Tent and Brown, the latter getting the three middle and left corner pins for a spare. In the first string the home players gained a lead of 75 pins. The individual scores were very even, except in the cases of Slade and Davis, who failed to keep up with the other members of the Chelsea team, in part owing to breaks, but attributable largely to the poor delivery of the second ball.

In the second string, the two end men of the Chelsea team put up good scores, Davis distinguishing himself especially by capturing pins 7, 4 and 5 for a spare—a very difficult combination. Follett for the home team had a total of 161 in the ninth frame. In the tenth he made three successive strikes, making a total for the string of 191. Barnes of the Chelsea team finished up with two strikes.

The third string opened with Newton leading by 127 pins. Chelsea bowled in great form, but the home players managed to increase their lead, winning the match by 149 pins. Tapley was high roller with a total of 514, Brown capturing second place with 504 pins to his credit. Slade put up the best score for the visitors, knocking down 492 pins.

The score in detail is appended, with the summary of strikes, spares and missed spares:

MELROSE VANQUISHED BY NEWTON BOAT CLUB AT RIVERSIDE.

The Melrose and Newton boat club teams played a match in the series for the championship of the Massachusetts Amateur Bowling League at Riverside Tuesday evening. The alleys are new and in the pink of condition, but so far the players have been unable to roll anything remarkable in the way of a score. The run is very slippery, preventing, the bowlers claim, a steady delivery of the ball.

In the first string there was a pretty spurt by Kinsley, who made three consecutive strikes in the 10th frame and increased his total from 110 to 146. Pratt of the visiting team bowled well, making a total in the first string of 161.

The home players led by 43 pins at the beginning of the second string. At the opening of the third they had increased the lead to 139 winning the match by 144 pins.

Y. M. C. A. HOUSEWARMING.

The first housewarming of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association was enjoyed Monday evening in the association rooms, Bacon's block. The affair was under the management of the Young People's Christian Endeavor societies of the Eliot Congregational church, the Baptist and the Methodist churches. Invitations were extended to all the young people's societies of Newton, and nearly every church in the city were represented.

The hall was handsomely decorated with flowers and plants from Mr. Geo. S. Harwood's conservatory, and decorated lamps were used instead of gas, giving a very pretty effect. The decoration committee were Miss Leonard, Miss Stafford, Mrs. H. S. Leonard and Miss Stephenson.

The presidents of the several societies acted as a reception committee and the rooms were crowded with guests in spite of the storm.

A Boston orchestra furnished music during the evening, stationed in a convenient recess, and a literary and music I entertainment of much excellence was rendered. The program included the recitation of Whittier's "Marguerite," by Miss Coolidge; baritone solo, "The Roll Call," by Mr. E. L. Bacon, which called out an encore, and a reading by Mr. H. M. Greenough, entitled "Mary's Night Ride."

After the entertainment a collation was served to about 200 persons on the charge of Miss Leeds, Miss Shepherd and Miss Stephenson and some fifteen young lady waiters. Mr. Geo. Agry, Jr. was chairman of the general committee for the evening, and Mr. Frank Partridge chairman of the entertainment committee.

—Thomas Temperly met with an accident a week or more ago, which has been a very painful one. While ascending the stairs with a bowl of hot water he tripped and threw the water upon himself. Dr. Vincent is attending him and he is getting along very nicely.

—The Sons of Temperance gave a very successful entertainment in the lower Athenaeum hall, Nov. 13th. The singing by Master Gawn Wilson, soloist of Grace church, was highly appreciated. Mr. Arthur Pilling and H. S. Foss also did good work in baritone solos. The sleight of hand performance of Professor Tate and his expose of the same were highly commendable. The concluding number, a farce called "The Quiet Family," was well rendered by members of the Division. Financially it was a success, as the hall was crowded.

—Last Friday evening Highland Lodge, No. 82, D. of R., held an apron and necktie party and dance in Lincoln Hall, which was a decided success, both socially and financially, over 200 being present from Boston, Brookline, Riverside, Natik and all the Newtons. During the intermission there was a collation served in the banquet hall, at which time there was a delegation of "Cantons" in uniform arrived from Allston. The entire management was by the ladies of the Lodge, they wearing their regalia, which made a fine appearance, and they deserve great credit for the able manner in which the whole affair was conducted.

NEXT TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

It is the quietest City Election we have had since Mayor Kimball was up for a second term, and is in strong contrast to the elections of recent years, when the whole city has been stirred up over the contest between rival candidates for Mayor and for other offices.

This year all parties have chosen the same candidate for Mayor, and the contest on the general ticket comes between candidates for Aldermen in Wards Three, Four and Five, and for members of the Common Council in Wards Three, Four and Six. Outside of the wards where there are contests there will probably be a light vote, and for this reason every citizen should feel it his duty to make a special effort to vote, as the aldermanic contests are of considerable importance, and the vote for some of the candidates may be a close one.

Mayor Hibbard is of course certain of a re-election, and his faithful service to the city deserves a rousing vote. If he can give a large portion of his time every week to the city, the citizens can surely afford to give, half an hour or less to the duty of voting, one day in the year. The unanimous re-nomination that has been given him is a great compliment, but it would be made doubly effective by a heavy vote.

In the Aldermanic contests in the three wards above mentioned a good deal of interest has been aroused. In Ward Three Mr. E. B. Wilson is the Republican candidate, but he is not endorsed by the Citizens, who made no nomination. Councilman Dutch was pressed by his friends and by the opponents of Mr. Wilson to get out a nomination paper, and he will probably receive a good vote, but the chances are rather in favor of Mr. Wilson.

In Ward Four Alderman Crehore has been re-nominated by the Citizens, and is also supported by a large number of Republicans. It is rumored that the Ward Four Republican Ward and City Committee resigned in a body, on account of the rule adopted this year that all attending Republican Conventions and Conventions thereby pledge themselves to support all the party nominees, and they could only be induced to come back by the rest of the committee agreeing that this rule should be suspended for this year. It was certainly a foolish rule for a city election, and it would be much better to depend on the strength of the cause and the candidates than on any cast iron rules. Mr. Crehore has done excellent service in the board of alderman and he should be re-elected. He has a direct personal interest in the welfare of the city and represents a class of citizens whom it is of great importance to interest in city affairs. The fact that he is endorsed by such men as ex-Aldermen Johnson and Mr. E. L. Pickard will bring him a great many votes, from those who do not know the merits of the two candidates, but who do know Messrs. Johnson and Pickard, and would accept their judgment on any question.

In Ward Five the fight of last year is renewed, as both candidates are the same as last year. Alderman Hyde has the advantage, however, of having served one term on the board, of which he has been one of the leading members, and his energy and push have had a marked effect on city affairs. He was fully as deserving of a unanimous re-nomination as any of the members who received such an honor, and the voters will see to it that his election is made certain. The city cannot afford to dispense with his services, as his defeat would be a distinct loss to next year's City Council. There will be enough new men elected without putting an inexperienced member in place of one so thoroughly posted on all city affairs as Alderman Hyde.

The annual report of the Newton Street Railway Company covering the fiscal year ending September 30, and just filed with the railroad commissioners, makes a surprisingly good showing. The management of the road by extending the line from West Newton to Newton, equipping it with electricity and giving its patrons a 15 minute service, has built up a business far beyond the most sanguine expectations of its officials and what is more, the business seems to be steadily increasing. The road carried over a million passengers last year and earned nearly $50,000 gross. The company now has as fine an equipment as any line in Massachusetts and is steadily adding thereto, as the growth of its business demands. During the past year, it has added four new open cars and one closed car, the latter being received during the present month. Certain extensions are under consideration and will doubtless be carried through during the coming year. The road is considered one of the best street railway properties in the state, running as it does through a beautiful section of country and the fact that everything in connection with the equipment is kept up to the highest state of excellence, is the best evidence of the prosperity which this road has achieved during its first year of operation.

The resignation of Superintendent Jones is much to be regretted as he has given the impression of being a straightforward, progressive educator, and one whose influence could not fail to be felt upon the schools. As the matter is thought over more carefully, it does seem that Mr. Jones is not so far wrong in the position he takes. A superintendent ought to have the power, as he has the responsibility, and from all accounts there has been a good deal of rather petty interference from some members of the district committees. A superintendent ought to superintend, and if he is not competent, then get one who is. Old fashioned notions are not necessarily the best, and our schools have certainly need enough of the best and most progressive methods, if they are to be kept up to the standard. When orders are given by half a dozen different people, most of them conflicting, the schools and teachers are apt to become demoralized.

It is rather amusing to find that some of the opposition to Alderman Crehore is due to the old fight over the chief of the fire department, and it is reported that Alderman Crehore is suspected of having been friendly to Chief Bixby. The origin of this trouble is to most people lost in hoary antiquity, and it reminds one of the hereditary vendettas in parts of the South, which never die out as long as one of the descendants of the original fracas is able to hold a gun. Alderman Crehore as chairman of the fire department committee has of course had frequently to ask the advice of the chief on fire-department matters, and he would not be a good alderman if he had not gone to head quarters for information. It is rather silly to bring up any such arguments as this against him.

The Newton Street Railway carried over a million passengers during the year ending Oct. 1, 1891, which exceeded the most sanguine expectations. One of the directors who predicted that the road would carry at least 700,000 passengers the first year was laughed at as too visionary for Newton, but he now predicts that for the year ending Oct. 1, 1892, at least 1,300,000 people will be carried. The prediction does not seem to be far out of the way, as the patronage will increase every year.

It is Dr. Thompson vs Mr. Hyde in this election, or Newton Upper Falls against Newton Highlands. Alderman Hyde has given such excellent satisfaction this year, and has helped to bring about so many reforms in city matters, that his election ought to be a matter of course. Ward Five should save Dr. Thompson for another year and let Newton Highlands have the alderman just for a change.

Gen. Clarkson is an improvement on Quay, but his elevation to the head of the Republican National Convention does not augur well for purer politics; but rather shows the great unpopularity of civil service reform among the political managers. We can be thankful, however, for the departure of Quay and Dudley from the national committee.

The report in answer to the special commission appointed by the supreme court to apportion the cost of maintenance and construction of the sewer system was presented to the Common Council, Monday night. Newton pays on the construction, 26.82 of 15 per cent of the total cost of the Charles River and Mystic systems. On maintenance, Newton is to pay 25.35 per cent of the total cost.

The thanks of the voters ought to be tendered to Ward Four, which is giving some spirit and life to the election. The contest between the friends of Mr. Crehore and Mr. Sprague is a very lively one, as our first page gives evidence. Such a contest ought to bring out the voters, and it saves the election from being a too unanimous affair.

ONLY one nomination paper has been gotten out this year, and this bears Councilman Dutch's name as candidate for alderman from Ward Three. The signers are some of the most solid men in the ward, who have followed Mr. Dutch's name with approval in the lower branch of the city council.

On the third page will be found the ticket to be voted next Tuesday, advertised in accordance with the law, and voters can study it at their leisure, and make up their minds how they are going to mark it up when they get into their little wooden stall in the ward room.

The Commissioners of the World's Columbian Fair have just awarded contracts to The Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Company, for the protection of the Exposition buildings, with their systems of fire alarm and police telegraphs.

As near as can be learned at present, the Charles River Sewerage system will be ready for use between Jan. 1, and Feb. 1, of next year. The Commissioners can not give any more definite announcement.

The candidates for the school board will all be elected this year.

VOTE early next Tuesday even if you cannot vote often.

THE SEWERAGE MUDDLE.

CONTRACTOR KILLIAN'S CREDITORS BRING SUITS AGAINST THE CITY.

Some 263 of Contractor Killian's employees have brought suit against him and summoned the city as trustee. Some of the suits were brought in the Newton court, and the rest in the Superior court at East Cambridge. The City Solicitor, Mr. Slocomb, is having a hard time of it this year, and these suits have taken up most of his time for the past month. The condition of affairs between Killian and the city is such that an ordinary answer cannot be filed, so Mr. Slocomb has an elaborate and ingenious answer printed and filed in the Newton Police Court. The answer sets out the city's side of the controversy, and is in substance as follows:

The city says that at the time of the service of the writ upon it, it had not in its hands or possession any goods or effects or credits of the said defendants, unless it shall be adjudged upon the following facts that it had—namely Killian on or about May 9, 1891 entered into three contracts with the city for building three sections of the sewerage system. Once a month at the end of the month, the city engineer was to make an estimate of the work done, and the city was to pay eight per cent of such estimate of value, the balance to be paid when the work was completed and a committee of the City Council should have submitted a certificate from the city engineer that the work was completed according to the contract.

The answer then says—At the time of the service of the plaintiff's writ upon it said defendants had been paid all sums due to him under said provisions of said contract excepting $600 previously attached by trustees. At the time of the service of the writ, according to the estimate of the engineer in accordance with said provisions of said contract, the estimated value of work done up to the first day of November, 1891, and not previously accounted for and settled and deducting counter charges under said contract was under contract for section 1, $2913; section 2, $1771; section 3, $4289; total, $11,973. On or about Oct. 31, 1891, the contractor acknowledged his work under all of said contracts, and has broken the conditions of said contracts, and refuses and neglects to comply with the great loss, damage and expense of the city, which cannot be ascertained until the city shall have completed the work required to be done by the said Killian under the provisions of his contracts.

The answer then says that prior to the service of the plaintiff's writ, it had been summoned in other actions against Killian, and appended a list of the same, which includes the names of 263 plaintiffs, and the amounts which each claims of the defendant, ranging from $200 down to a few dollars. The case will probably be tried in a few weeks.

The Ward Three Aldermen.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

The approaching municipal election will not be altogether a tame affair, as there is to be a contest for aldermanic honors in Wards Three, Four and Five. In Ward Three, the candidates are Mr. E. B. Wilson and Common Councilman F. M. Dutch. The latter has served faithfully in the lower branch of the city government for two years. He has attended nearly every meeting of the common council, and has never been absent at a committee meeting. His best endeavors have been given to the duties of his position, and he has made a record in which his many friends take just pride. They believe that he has earned and is entitled to promotion to the upper branch, and their reasoning is based upon those civil service principles which cannot fail to receive the support and encouragement of all thoughtful citizens. Mr. Wilson has never had any experience in city affairs. Common Councilman Dutch is well equipped for intelligent service in the upper branch, and it has been the custom to select the aldermanic candidates from those men who have gained a necessary insight into the details of city business, through their service in the common council.

It is not alone sufficient to say that because a man has been successful in business that he possesses all the qualifications for a wise management of the city's business. Councilman Dutch is a self-made man, and a successful business man. Great success, however, means much or little. The man who achieves a few measure of success with limited opportunities is, after all, the man who most deserves praise.

It cannot be claimed that Councilman Dutch lacks those business qualifications which are, of course, essential in the consideration of a choice of the city's representative in the city government. Why not, then, elect an alderman from Ward Three the man who has proved himself capable in service already given to the city? Mr. Wilson's friends cannot offer arguments in opposition to the election of Mr. Dutch on any reasonable grounds. The voters must settle the question, however, of Mr. Dutch's promotion or retirement. His friends must rally in his support and make an earnest effort to secure his election. Knowledge of parliamentary law, it is claimed, is worth considerable to a public official, and Councilman Dutch is no primary student in rulings governing the conduct of assemblies. He has passed through the chair in the Odd Fellows and Royal Arcanum, and holds at present the office of a district deputy in the former order. He is a man of good sound sense, honest and conscientious. Certainly these qualifications ought to recommend him to the voters as a most desirable candidate, especially when his fitness for the place is taken into consideration—the fitness derived from two years' service and experience in the city council. "EQUITY."

The Ward Four Alderman.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

The leading reason given for the candidacy of Mr. Sprague is that Mr. Crehore positively refused to be a candidate a second time. This is true only in a qualified way. When Mr. Crehore was told a few months ago (as a part of the scheme to supplant him) that Mr. Sprague had been asked to head a movement against him (Mr. Crehore), his reply was that no one need feel anxious, as he (Crehore) was not desirous of being a candidate again and should do nothing to secure a re-nomination. This is very different from saying that if nominated he would not accept.

At the caucus in Ward Four, on a viva-voce vote: Mr. Crehore was very plainly the choice for re-ferman. When the chairman of that caucus, Mr. Sprague, was asked to declare himself as being elected to any office, he declared himself to be in doubt as to the vote, he called for a hand vote, and then it was that Mr. Sprague appeared in the doorway. It is very strange that under these circumstances, some dozen or more men should not have voted and that Mr. Sprague was finally successful in getting a divided delegation to the convention (3 out of 5 in his favor) by the large vote of 12 to 9. It is to be borne in mind also that the Republican Convention only favored Mr. Sprague 25 to 16. And why? Because Mr. Crehore had done excellent work at the caucus, because he was one of the most trusted supporters of the mayor's policy of business only—no politics; because he had not blown his own horn; and sought the support of politicians. Such a record and such conduct is appreciated in Newton by almost half a partisan convention. The citizens unanimously endorsed Mr. Crehore. It was only after the Ward Four Republican caucus that Mr. Crehore stated that he did not desire the office and would not be a candidate again.

But the public service requires such men and those whom the office seeks, and for these reasons Mr. Crehore's name is again before the voters as a candidate for alderman from Ward 4. If elected he will serve. This much he has, at last, promised. Let the citizens rejoice that he has the chance to make good the promise. INSTEAD.

—That the work of helping the poor isn't altogether without its humorous side is illustrated by a story that comes from an experience of the King's Daughters in this village. The young women of the order took it upon themselves last winter to look out for the welfare of one of the characters of the place. The old fellow has been unable to do much work for the past few years because of rheumatism and other infirmities attendant upon old age, and is so old that he himself has forgotten the year and the day of his birth, and can merely guess that he is a hundred years old. By hard work and stringent economy the King's Daughters managed to keep their charge provided with warm blankets and good food and enough tobacco to keep his pipe constantly filled. All this, of course, made a large sized hole in the treasury of the order, but, as the money was intended for just such purposes, there was no complaint. Everything went along well enough till one day the recipient of the charity informed the young women that he had decided to get married, as he wouldn't be so lonely, and the young women would really get more for their money, as two could be cared for almost as cheaply as one. The girls were somewhat taken aback, but they made the best of it, and managed to care for the pair through the winter, but this one they will probably be left to look out for themselves. The King's Daughters, however, have in hand plenty of worthy causes deserving aid through the present winter, and they hope to add a large sum to their treasury as a result of the fair and entertainment they are to hold the coming Saturday afternoon and evening in Tremont Hall. There will be dancing in the afternoon for the young people, and the tables will be filled with articles suitable for holiday gifts.

—Union services were held in the Baptist church yesterday, (Thanksgiving morning), Rev. Dr. Faince, Rev. J. C. Jaynes and Rev. H. J. Patrick, D. D., officiated. There was a large attendance. Excellent music was furnished by the quartet choir.

—The question of appointing a separate officer to look after lighting the city is being talked up. The work of inspecting the city marshes, which has too much other work to perform to do justice to this branch.

—List of letters remaining at the postoffice are: Georgiana Barry, Anne Divally, Lena Dwyer, Mrs. Annie Ferguson, Maggie Fahey, Fred C. Given, Edgar Hezlett, Delia Hanlan, Jane Hughes, Hugh McNally, Nellie Parker, Albert E. Rice, A. R. Richardson.

—A test of the new hand tub purchased by the Newton Fireman's Association was the means of bringing together quite a company of old-time fire laddies yesterday. The "boys" gathered on the common and the hand breaks were worked with a usual and helpful manner. The service and association is perfectly satisfied with the test.

—The Republican committee of Ward Three present a very fair and judicious appeal to the voters of that ward, in regard to the candidates for the Common Council. It will be found on another page and its arguments ought to appeal to the voters of the ward. It is not in any way a partisan document, but is a plain, practical business like statement.

—The board of registrars has added 21 names to the voter lists and five have been dropped, making a net gain of sixteen over the state election figures. The ward figures follow: Ward 1, 524; Ward 2, 792; Ward 3, 643; Ward 4, 564; Ward 5, 530; Ward 6, 627; Ward 7, 489; total, 4218. Registration of women: Ward 1, 6; Ward 2, 28; Ward 3, 69; Ward 4, 23; Ward 5, 2; Ward 6, 17; Ward 7, 38; total, 183.

—Bridget Murohy, who lived at the house of Mr. Phineek on River street, died very suddenly Sunday evening. At 11 o'clock, Mrs. Phineek heard a noise in her lodger's room and upon going found the deceased on the lounge, breathing very laboredly and rapidly sinking into an unconscious state. She expired in a few moments. Death resulted from heart disease. Medical Examiner Mead was notified and viewed the remains on the following day. The deceased was a maiden lady and was 45 years of age.

—The Parish Club of the Church of the Messiah of West Newton and Auburndale, was organized on Tuesday last. Its object is to promote the social interest of the parish. There will be an entertainment the second Tuesday in each month. At the parish are invited to become members: President, George H. Lowe, West Newton; vice-president, William L. Goodrich, Mrs. Henry Pemberton, Auburndale; Mrs. Albert Warren West Newton; treasurer, Dr. Brush, Auburndale; Secretary, Nathaniel Brewer, Auburndale.

—John W. Bennett, a former resident, died at his home, Hotel Clyde, Isabelle street, Boston, last Saturday, after a lingering illness of consumption. He was 32 years of age. He was a former employee of the B. & A. R. R. and was once located here, being subsequently appointed station agent at Columbus avenue. The funeral occurred Tuesday and the interment was made at West Medway. A large delegation of station agents attended the service. The deceased was a brother of Robert and Alexander Bennett of this city. He leaves a widow.

—Timothy J. Burke was fined $50 and costs in the Newton police court this morning for the illegal importation of liquor. He paid the fine. John Long in the superior court at Cambridge pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the residence of Geo. S. Harvey of Auburndale. His sentence was postponed.

—William Johnson, a resident of West Newton for more than half a century, died at the residence of his son in Waltham, Tuesday. The deceased was eighty-one years of age. He came to West Newton fifty-five years ago and lived with his family from that time until a few weeks prior to his death in the old-fashioned dwelling house at the corner of Elm and Washington streets. He was a carpenter by trade, but during his latter years had practically retired from the field of actual labor. He was a man of honest character with simple tastes and a contented disposition. He was generally respected and esteemed. A widow and three children survive him.

—A petition signed by N. F. Bosworth and nearly all the members of the police force has been sent to the City Council, requesting an increase of pay from $1,000 to $1,095 per annum—$3.00 per day. In Brookline and in other places of about the same population as Newton, police officers are paid at the rate of $3.00 per day, although it is the exception and not the rule. Any suburban towns and cities pay even less than is paid here to patrolmen. The petition should have been presented before the annual appropriation budget was made up. No provision has been made for an increase of the police department's appropriation this year has been barely sufficient to meet actual and necessary expenditures. Some of the men have received orders to report in turn for duty on the patrol wagon despite the fact that they are not paid. A peculiar sort of economy in the judgment of many. The patrolmen of the city ought to receive good pay, and their services are probably worth $3.00 per day. There is, however, a rather slim prospect for a raise at present.

trying Cottole, the new, popular, successful vegetable. Don't wait for your neighbor to tell you about it. It is the first duty of the housekeeper to provide wholesome food. Everybody recognizes the unpleasant effects of the so-called "richness" of food prepared with lard. The "richness" is nothing but grease; the housekeeper knows that its presence in food is unsafe and unfit, but now science has discovered

Its success is unbounded. It will enter every kitchen and increase many fold the varieties of food which may be enjoyed. The housekeeper need no longer hesitate in the use of shortening in catering for those who are delicate. The problem is solved. Use Cottole. Sold by all grocers.

J. S. SMITH, Windsor, Vt.

My appetite had failed, my flesh and strength had gone; my back pained me all the time; I was dizzy and faint in the morning, and sick at my stomach through the day. At times my head would pain me, as though it would burst. I could not rest nights, as I was obliged to attend to the calls of nature every hour, and the water I passed gave every evidence that a terrible form of kidney disease had fastened itself upon me. The great reputation of your medicine as a kidney cure, reached me. I thought I would not die without giving it a trial. Under its use, I grew worse for the first week. Then the great change commenced. The improvement was rapid and steady. Three bottles made me a well man, and I have been well ever since. That weary worn-out sufferer from kidney complaint may know what can be done for them. I cheerfully send you this testimonial.

Iowa corn has been making a political and horticultural record this season that justifies some tall stories. But it hardly warrants the following, which a recent arrival from the West brought with him. "I saw," says the recent arrival, "a man standing at the foot of a corn stalk." "How big is your corn?" I asked the farmer. "I don't know," was the reply. "I just sent one of my boys up to see and I'm worried to death about him." "Can't he get back?" "No; that's the trouble. The cornstalk's growing up faster than he can climb down."—[Washington Star.]

Eternal vigilance: "Barclay," said the wife of the sick man, "here is Rev. Mr. Goodman, who has come to talk to you." "Did he bring anybody to identify him?" inquired the bank cashier, feebly.—[Chicago Tribune.]

I have been troubled with chronic catarrh for years. Ely's Cream Balm is the only remedy among the many that I have used that affords me relief.—E. W. Willard, Druggist, Joliet, Ill.

Nothing in the Wide World so Good.
I was afflicted with kidney disease. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y.—I say it with a perfect recollection of all that was done for me besides—was the only thing that gave me permanent relief. I have recommended it to many people for kidney disease and they all agree that it has not its equal for this complaint.—Lyman Crawford, Druggist, Springfield, Mass.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, who are making a farewell tour of America, began a two weeks' engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre Monday evening. These popular English players have always attracted large and fashionable audiences, and the demand for seats for the engagement indicates that Boston and its suburbs remembers them pleasantly, and is prepared to patronize them as liberally as before.

GLOBE THEATRE—The Hanlon Bros. presented their second edition of "Superba" at the Globe Theatre Monday night.

All the impossibilities, all the nonsense, all the whimsical supernatural illusions are looked for in a Hanlon pantomime as much as they are looked for in Hans Andersen and other writers of fairy literature. The humor with which they are replete is not a battle of wits, but a sort of neighborly humor, its dream-like incoherence in itself being intensely funny. It is par excellence a fitting show for the holidays for the audience it attracts resolves itself into a big family party, where young and old, bright minds and foolish ones, may laugh equally long and heartily. In the new addition of "Superba" the Hanlons are said to have discovered new gems and new wonders of fairy origin with which to delight their youthful patrons. "Superba" will be the attraction next week.

BOSTON THEATRE—The first Italian opera season that has been had for many years in this city is announced at the Boston Theatre for the two weeks beginning the 30th inst., by the Minnie Hauk grand opera company, an organization that has already had an extended and successful tour in the western cities. The repertoire arranged for the first week is as follows: Monday evening, the 30th inst., "Carmen," with Mme. Hauk and Del Puente in their original roles; Tuesday evening, "Faust," with Mme. Basta Tary as Marguerite; Wednesday evening, "The Cavalier Rusticana," with Minnie Hauk as Santuzza, Montari, the great French tenor, as Torrucci, Del Puente as Adio, Tremelli, the great contralto, as Lucia, and Helen Dudley Campbell as Lola. On Thursday "The Flying Dutchman" will be produced, and on Friday, in commemoration of the centenary of Mozart's death, "Don Giovanni" is to be given, with a cast including Minnie Hauk as Zerlina, Basta Tary as Donna Anna, Louise Natalie as Donna Elvira, Montari as Don Octavio, and Del Puente as Don Giovanni. For the Saturday matinee a repetition of "Carmen" is announced, and the first week of the engagement will close with a great performance of Verdi's "Aida." Seats for the first week's performances go on sale next Tuesday morning.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Georgie Drew Barrymore is a vision of loveliness as one of Mr. Wilkinson's Widows in William Gillett's latest comedy now running at the Columbia Theatre. The role fits her personality to perfection, and she makes all that is possible of the characterization. Miss Barker is charmingly sweet as the other widow. Miss Ferguson plays the part of the girl, and Joseph Holland has developed into a fine legitimate comedian. Mr. Riley proves a foil of no mean ability, and Mr. Burns does admirable work as the Major. On Monday "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows" will begin the last week but one of its engagements in Boston, giving way on Dec. 7, to Charles Frohman's New York production, "Jane," which will introduce other members of the Columbia's stock company.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—At the Grand Opera House next week there will be a notable attraction in "McKenna's Flirtation" with the well known comedians Barry and Fay in the cast. It is a popular piece introducing some clever bits of comic acting. Messrs. Barry & Fay have an excellent company and "McKenna's Flirtation" has always proved a great drawing card. The piece is a money winner.

TREMONT THEATRE—The success which Augustus Thomas's American play, "Alabama," has achieved in this country is probably without parallel under like conditions. It was an earlier work of its author and had to wait for a recognition. When, however, the recognition came it was so complete and great that the play's place in the library of works by American authors was at once given among the very first. Next Monday evening, Nov. 30, Boston will be able to pass judgment upon it at the Tremont Theatre. All northern critics have declared it the best American play yet written. What the south think of this noble work can be somewhat judged from the following extract from the Nashville Herald:—"It is an epoch-making drama. The author is the first dramatist that has succeeded in depicting the smooth, even flow of Southern life, and in presenting characters that appear to be really to the manner born. As a dramatist, Mr. Thomas deserves as high a place as Grady among orators, and as Page, Johnson, Harris and Allen among story-tellers."

THE PLAYERS.

A BRILLIANT RENDERING OF YOUNG MRS. WINTHROP.

The Players made a brilliant success in "Young Mrs. Winthrop," at City Hall, Monday and Tuesday evenings. Most of the attendants were able to contrast it with the Madison Square Theatre's presentation, which had such a long run in New York, and the Newton players suffered very little by comparison. Everything ran very smoothly, there were no perceptible hitches, and the waits between the acts were very brief. The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Ruth Winthrop, Mrs. H. P. Perkins
Mr. Douglas Winthrop, Mr. Edward W. Spurr
Constance Winthrop, his wife,
Miss Gertrude A. Long
Mr. T. E. Stutson
Mrs. Dick Chetwyn, a lady of society,
Miss Louise G. Dietrick
Edith, sister of Constance, Mrs. William T. Farley
Mr. G. R. Pulsifer
Mr. Chas. T. Davis
Miss Marguerite Dietrick
Herbert,
Dr. Melbanke,
Mr. Melbanke,
Miss Marguerite Dietrick

The stage was very handsomely set, and the costumes were appropriate and attractive. Miss Long in the title role was the bright particular star of the evening, and in every scene her acting was little short of perfection. It did not seem to be acting but the reality. Miss Louise Dietrick furnished the comedy element, in the most natural manner imaginable and her very appearance was the signal for applause. Mrs. Perkins made an admirable mother, and Mrs. Farley was very sweet and true as the blind girl. Mr. Spurr gave a powerful rendering of the difficult part of the husband, and Mr. Pulsifer showed a marked improvement on his former efforts. Mr. Stutson as the bluff and friendly lawyer fully maintained his reputation, while the minor parts taken by Mr. Davis and Miss Marguerite Dietrick were excellent. The whole performance was the most finished and satisfactory that the Players have given and the audience showed their appreciation by frequent and hearty applause.

It won't cost you one-half as much. Do not delay. Send three two-cent stamps for postage, and we will send you Dr. Kauffman's great work, fine colored plates from life, on disease, its causes and home cure. Address, A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass.

Cancer Can be Cured, and by Dr. James M. Solomon, Jr., 75 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Boston, Aug. 26, 1890.
Dr. Solomon has cured a cancer on my lip of seventeen years' standing. It was cut out twice, by what they call eminent surgeons, at intervals of six years, after being cut out each time I knew by the feeling it was still there, and it would be now if I had not been so fortunate as to have Dr. Solomon treat it, he did it without any cutting. I would urge those afflicted with cancer not to delay, but to go at once and be cured permanently as I have done. My dear Doctor thank from the bottom of my heart.

It goes back—all the money you've spent for it—if there's neither benefit nor cure. That's what ought to be said of every medicine. It would be—if the medicine were good enough. But it is said of only one medicine of its kind—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's the guaranteed blood-purifier. Not only in March, April and May, when the sarsaparilla claim to do good, but in every season and in every case it cures all diseases arising from a torpid liver or from impure blood. For all Scrofulous, Skin and Scalp Diseases, Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Biliousness, it is a positive remedy.

and religiously. The very pleasant and interesting services were closed by singing our National Hymn "America." The author, the venerable Dr. Smith, born in 1808, being present and joining the congregation in the singing.

—The Republican nominees for councilman in this ward are Mr. A. H. Roffe, who has served so creditably for several years, and has been one of the most influential members of the board. Mr. H. D. Degen is the second candidate, a gentleman who would be a credit to the ward if elected and who would be a worthy conductor for Mr. Roffe. Both gentlemen ought to be elected by a large majority.

—After the B. & A. has been to much expense to make the station and grounds attractive, it seems a pity that a huge advertisement should be allowed a place just across the driveway. It is certainly a blot on the landscape. Speaking of blots, the bulletin of the N. C. Improvement Society on the lawn of the station would be better away, and as the society claims that no one ever reads it, it is only a blot on the lawn. It resembles a black tombstone more than anything else.

—The petitions for the widening of Beacon street which have been in circulation for several weeks, preparatory to being presented to the city government, were introduced at the meeting of the common council. The petition was headed by the name of Mr. Thomas Nickerson and besides his there were 96 other signatures of prominent residents and business men. The petition requests that Beacon street be widened to 100 feet as originally laid out, from the Boston line at Chestnut Hill reservoir to Centre street in this village. Most of the objections with the street widening, such as such land from their estates as will be necessary to make the change proposed, and everyone with the exception of two or three are heartily in favor of the widening of the street and anxious that it should be done. If the street is widened 100 feet President H. M. Whitney of the West End Road has stated his intention of continuing his electric car tracks through the street to Newton Centre, providing, of course, he can secure a franchise, about which there will be no trouble. With electric cars running from Newton Centre to Boston a privilege which the city and general public of Newton Centre have long desired, the value of property along Beacon street will be greatly enhanced and from this increase in value the city as well as the residents will be benefited very materially.

—Notwithstanding the heavy downfall of rain last Monday evening, a good number of friends of Echo Temple, No. 5, P. C., assembled in Prospect Hall and thoroughly enjoyed the evening. The program, as prepared by the committee, was necessarily shortened, but the following was presented: F. C. Male Quartet; soprano solo, Miss E. C. Newell; reading, Mrs. M. H. Coffin; P. C. Male Quartet; sale of baskets, Mr. H. Coffin, auctioneer; presentation of dinner set to W. A. Coffin, worthy Counselor, by Rev. G. W. Holman, on behalf of the Circle; short talk, explanatory of the P. C., by Patriarch M. H. Coffin, Grand Organizer; short talk, explanatory of the insurance branch of the P. C., by Patriarch John A.
